

Draft May Spare Better Prospects, Claims Lynip

College students may find it possible to continue through college despite the present national emergency, according to Dean Lynip.

"In spite of the demands for mobilization, the selective service authorities are maintaining an attitude that the strength of the country is dependent on keeping capable men in college," Dr. Lynip declared.

The recommendation before the draft officials now is that all registrants eligible under the existing selective service law be given an opportunity to take an aptitude test to determine whether or not they should be allowed to continue with their college education.

Another proposal seeks to permit college students to enlist after receiving their classification. This would permit the student to choose his branch of service after being classified, instead of subjecting him to the draft once he has received his classification, as is now in operation.

Local Board Meets Here

The local board of managers of Houghton college and seminary met this week in its annual session to consider policies and recommendations for the school year 1951-1952.

This group is composed of one member elected by each of the seven conferences of the Wesleyan Methodist church in the Houghton area. Members this year included Dr. C. I. Armstrong of the Lockport conference, President H. C. Van Wormer of the Allegheny conference, President Wesley B. Nussey of the Rochester conference, Rev. Walter Lewis of the Champlain conference, Rev. H. Gilbert Williams of the Middle Atlantic States conference, Rev. L. R. Mack of the Canada conference and Rev. Ernest L. Crocker of the Michigan conference.

Some of the men were present for luncheon at noon Tuesday, and immediately following luncheon the session was called to order in Dr. Paine's office. The administration was represented by the President and the members of the Administrative committee: Dean Lynip, Mr. George E. Failing, Mr. Willard Smith, and Dr. Robert Luckey, acting business manager.

Tuesday afternoon was largely given over to the hearing of the annual report of the president, the annual report of the treasurer and a discussion of these.

The Wednesday session was given over to a careful consideration of recommendations for the advancement of the school in view of troubled national and world conditions. These reports are not available to the public in detail as yet because they go from the local board of managers in the form of recommendations to the board of trustees which meets in Syracuse Feb. 15.

Members of the local board of managers were drafted to speak in chapel on Tuesday and Wednesday. President Van Wormer of the Allegheny conference spoke on Tuesday and President Wesley Nussey of the Rochester conference on Wednesday. These men also took advantage of their presence on Houghton's campus to contact students from their respective conferences after the close of the board session Wednesday afternoon.

Time was spent in prayer for the college in these troubled times, and there was a feeling that the board meeting this year was most constructive and encouraging in spite of the crucial issues faced.

Revival Is the Greatest Event, Asserts Paine

The following paragraph is an elaboration of President Paine's opinion as to the greatest achievement in the year 1950, as recorded in the January, 1951, issue of Christian Life.

"My reason for feeling that the greatest spiritual achievement of 1950 has been the spread of revival in the United States and in the world, is that this revival movement was so manifestly the Lord's doing, 'marvelous in our eyes.' It is God who makes history—in spite of godless men. And even God's own people are too frequently apt to bustle around promoting 'programs' feeling that they are being important in the Lord's general plan whereas, as a matter of fact, they may be doing little or nothing really constructive in terms of eternal values. But where the Lord takes over He often, in fact, usually, transcends human machinery and gets unto His own name the glory. So it has been in the revival movement begun last year. Let us Bible-believing Christians pray earnestly that this mighty movement may continue. In my opinion, nothing else will stay the awful hand of judgment for our nation, and indeed for the world."

Students Donate Blood for Foust

Last weekend eight students and one teacher were taken to Meyer Memorial hospital in Buffalo, where they donated a share of their blood to Miss Ethel Foust.

Miss Foust, a teacher of Christian education, is undergoing treatment in preparation for a serious operation.

The donors were Merle Baer, Richard Bareiss, Jean Brown, Bernard Draper, Ivan Greenfield, Franklin Hagberg, Miss Krehbiel, Merritt Penner, and Ralph Rudolph.

Former Missionary Presents Challenge

Miss Magnin, an aunt of Paul Whitlock, a student of Houghton college, spoke in the weekly meeting of the Torchbearers last Monday night.

Miss Magnin, a former missionary to Africa, presented a message centered around the theme of John 12:24: "Except a corn of wheat fall into the ground and die, it abideth alone; but if it die it bringeth forth much fruit."

Lloyd Daly Lectures For Classical Society

The Classical society will present Professor Lloyd W. Daly of the University of Pennsylvania, who will lecture on the topic, "New Light on Our Ancient Past," Friday night, January 12, in the college chapel at 8:00 p.m.

Royalties Are Home

The Royalties quartet arrived in New York on the "Queen Elizabeth" on December 21, at 3:30 p.m., after having conducted an extended evangelistic tour in Europe under the auspices of Youth for Christ International.

At the present time, Harley Smith and Dick Meloon are touring Massachusetts, New York, and Pennsylvania. After touring in the west for a short time, they plan to return to Finland and other parts of Europe. John Wheeler plans to attend Taylor university and David Juroe is returning to Houghton college for the second semester.

Members of the quartet presented colored slides representative of their tour of Europe in chapel on Friday, January 5. In the combined class prayer meetings, Harley Smith presented a resume of the work which the quartet did in Sweden, Finland, Norway and England.

The program will feature colored slides taken during Dr. Daly's extensive travels and will emphasize the effect of archeology on our knowledge of the religion and mythology of the classical period. Professor Daly's widespread experience includes study at the American School of Classical Studies, 1937-8, topographical investigation with Prof. W. A. Oldfather in East Locris near Thermopylae, and excavations with the Johns Hopkins Expedition at Olynthus. While in the Army Intelligence corps, 1944-1946, Professor Daly travelled extensively throughout France, Germany, Belgium, Holland, Austria, and Switzerland.

Professor Daly is a member of the American Philological association, the Archeological institute, the Classical Association of the Atlantic States, and the Managing committee of the American School of Classical Studies at Athens.

His writings include Altercatio Hadriani Augusti et Epicteti Philosophi, articles in Pauly-Wissowa, and in various philological and archeological journals. He received his A.B. from Knox college, his A.M. and Ph.D. from the University of Illinois in 1933 and 1936 respectively. He has been on the faculties of Kenyon college, the University of Oklahoma, and the University of Pennsylvania.

Recent Events Crystallize Thinking; Foreign Policy Shows Little Power

By ARTHUR RUPPRECHT

Events of recent weeks have crystallized the thinking of the average American as to what constitutes the great threat on national security—the aggression of Soviet Russia. As a result, the debate between administration and opposition leaders goes on, ranging from the isolationism of Joseph P. Kennedy to the internationalism of the Truman administration.

Four years of war and the expenditure of millions of Marshall Plan dollars have produced little except a partially economically-recovered Western Europe ripe for Soviet conquest. Much to the contrary we find ourselves preparing to arm our enemies of the past war. Yugoslavia, communist-ruled, was shooting down U.S. planes three years ago. Today, Tito's Yugoslavia is getting U.S. aid, and perhaps is in line for more. The British government, ever mindful of her trade economy, led the effort to get communist China into the United Nations, and is at present shipping strategic war materials to China on the one hand, and fighting Chinese troops in Korea on the other. Five years of diplomatic "fur stroking" and dollar loans have produced little that will stem the tide of communist aggression.

The "China Mistake" stands as a good example of what our weak, misdirected foreign policy has produced. Immediately following World War II General Marshall prepared to depart for China on behalf of the War Department to provide aid for the Chinese Nationalists, only to have his mission redirected by Under-Secretary of State, Dean Acheson, and Director of Far Eastern Affairs, John Carter. His instructions were to press Chiang Kai-Shek into a coalition with the Chinese communists. Marshall's mission from the start resulted rather in Chiang's ignominious defeat, doomed to failure at the hands of the Reds. Rather than face the problem which faced him as Secretary of State in 1949, he decided to "wait until the dust settles," only to find that lack of a strong far-Eastern policy has resulted in open war.

The conference of foreign ministers in Brussels once again showed the reluctance to rearm. If such policies continue to be the case, Americans must be resigned to the fact that another Korea will mean that 90% of the U. N. troops and over 90% of the casualties will be United States soldiers.

If Western Europe continues to bicker, our only alternative will be to arm ourselves, and then choose our allies in the light of their own willingness to be mutually co-operative and sacrificial. We must realize that the Russian system, though hiding under the guise of a Marxian ideology, is ruthless despotism bent on nothing less than world conquest. Diplomatic double-talk and paper military strength will in no way help our cause. We have bluffed our way too long. It is time "to speak softly and carry a big stick." A forceful, intelligent foreign policy backed by military might is the only way to stop communist aggression. If the North Atlantic Pact nations refuse to aid in their own defense, we must retire to a line of defense which would be to our own advantage. In spite of the contrary, we must have a thoroughgoing re-examination of our foreign policy.

Students Resent Pantry's Policy

The student body took law into their own hands when they visited the Pantry on Monday evening, January 8. Recent developments in the management of the Pantry—locking the door at 10:15 when scheduled closing time on week-days is 10:30, and on Friday night, January 5, when the Pantry was closed at 10:15 instead of 11:00 p.m.—incited 80 members of the student body to keep the Pantry open until 10:30. A committee was appointed at the request of President Paine to present the case of the students to him, in order to remedy the present situation.

New Prospects Are Encouraging

According to Dean Lynip, preliminary returns from mailings sent out by Houghton college to prospective students have been good.

These mailings went to several lists of potential students, one of which was supplied by the student body.

After two weeks, some thirty students have indicated interest. Complete returns will not be available until the spring.

This is the first year that such an extensive advertising campaign has been carried on by the college.

F.M.F., Torchbearers Show Film on Japan

A missionary film, "Japan Welcomes the World," produced by the Pocket Testament league, will be presented under the auspices of the Foreign Missions Fellowship and Torchbearers in student prayer meeting Tuesday, January 16, at 7:30 p.m.

The film, produced in full color, depicts the mighty evangelistic movement in post-war Japan.

Why Are Ye Fearful?

Some time ago, Dr. Paine spoke to the student body in chapel about the pivotal crises which we face today as individuals, as Christian students, and as citizens of our country. He stressed the fact that uncertainty and ultimate failure are inevitable consequences when we take our eyes from Christ. Such was the case with Peter, when he looked from Jesus to the waves about him in the Sea of Galilee.

Today, we, as a nation and as students, are confronted with fearful indecision and perplexity. The total course of our lives rests upon decisions which are being made now. Congress is split by debates of international import.

If we, in blind naivete, attempt to make momentous decisions on the strength of our own intellectual judgment, a doubtful future and a fearful mind are the natural results. If, on the other hand, we seek God's answer to our immediate problems, both individual and national, then only will follow untroubled minds, knowing that "all things work together for good to them that love God."

Taking our eyes from the storm about us to look to the Living Word of God, we find certainty and peace in His promises.

"Why are ye so fearful? How is it that ye have no faith?" (Mark 4:40)

"Fear not . . . turn not aside from following Jehovah . . . who will not forsake his people." (I Sam. 2:20)

"Abide thou with me, fear not; for with me, thou shalt be in safeguard." (I Sam. 22:23)

"Behold! I lay in Zion for a foundation a stone, a tried stone, a precious corner stone, a sure foundation. He that believeth shall not make haste." (Isaiah 28:16)

"In nothing be anxious, but in everything by prayer and supplication with thanksgiving, let your requests be made known unto God, and the peace which passeth all understanding shall guard your hearts and thoughts in Christ Jesus." (Phil. 4:6, 7)

"Do not be troubled about tomorrow; tomorrow will take care of itself." (Matt. 6:34, Moffat.)

"Acquaint now thyself with Him, and be at peace." (Job 22:21)

"Thou wilt keep him in perfect peace whose mind is stayed on Thee." (Isaiah 26:3)

"There hath not failed one word of his good promise. (I Kings 8:56)

"These things have I spoken unto you that ye might have peace." (John 16:33)

Our National Debt

I place economy among the first and important virtues, and public debt as the greatest of dangers to be feared. To preserve our independence, we must not let our rulers load us with perpetual debt. We must make our choice between economy and liberty, or profusion and servitude.

If we run into such debts, we must be taxed in our meat and drink, in our necessities and in our comforts, in our labors and in our amusements. If we can prevent the government from wasting the labors of the people under the pretense of caring for them, they will be happy.

The same prudence, which in private life would forbid our paying our money for unexplained projects, forbids it in the disposition of public money.

Moments of Meditation

BY TED MORROW

"What mean ye to weep and break mine heart?"—Acts 21:13.

A little boy named Johnny was a terrifying problem to his mother, for he seemed to defy all parental authority. He deliberately tracked mud across the kitchen floor, pulled his sister's hair, and made fun of his father's venerable bald head. Scolding and punishment apparently drove him to deeper depths of naughtiness.

A remarkable thing happened one day when Johnny was energetically pulling the cat's tail. His mother, espousing the cause of the helpless victim, began to coax, then to threaten, then to scream. It was all unfruitful. The poor woman's nerves finally collapsed, and she fell to sobbing. Johnny's hand trembled, then released the hapless animal. A minute later he stole to his mother's side and buried his face in her apron. The apron immediately began to emit heartbroken sounds and a tear-saturated voice said, "Gee, Mom, I never knew you felt that way."

Most men today seem to utterly mistake God's motives toward them. Because they know that He hates their sin and haughty pride and selfishness, they also assume that He is their mortal enemy and proceed to heap upon Him their curses and defiance. Little do they know how He really feels: how His heart aches with an unmeasurable love for them; how He longs to claim each one for His own child and then lavish upon him all the riches of His unlimited treasure; how He afflicts the sons of men and brings them low, only for the purpose of winning them to Himself when He has brought them to utter desperation, that He might deliver them from the blighting influence of their own wickedness.

Do we as Christians see God's purpose for us? Do we feel that, now we are saved from the torments of eternal damnation, we are to settle back and take our ease? Are we to laugh and cast slurs at the follies of the unsaved about us? Are we to puff ourselves up with pride and thank God that we are not as other men?

If we do have these notions of the Christian life, is it any wonder that we are such little influence on our doomed friends? What do you think would happen if you were to allow God to make you heartbroken over sinners, as He is Himself?

Green - Betters

Mr. and Mrs. Elwyn Green of Oakfield, New York, announce the marriage of their daughter, Gloria Dawn, to Mr. Ralph C. Betters, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Betters of Oakfield, New York.

THE RUT

By CONSTANCE JACKSON

After three weeks of blissful vacation Ye Old Rut is feeling definitely resentful about being revived again. Brim full of worthy resolutions, the Rut has decided not to drag any more people than necessary through the mud in '51, or at least not to leave them there. Now that all due respects have been paid to the New Year, let's see what we can conjure up in the way of juicy morsels in and around Houghton.

Here's a typical example of what goes on over in the "Institution for Those Not Taking the Liberal Arts Course," otherwise known as the music building.

"Do you recognize the piece, Caroline?" asked Mrs. Mack after playing a selection in theory class.

Caroline Giles came to with a start in her seat by the window and scratched her head in bewilderment. "No, I can't remember it," she admitted. "Maybe my brain's a little chilled."

"More likely a case of frozen water on the brain," replied Mrs. Mack.

How 'bout a reliable brand of anti-freeze, Cal?

I've noticed that Noah's ark has suddenly put in an appearance right in front of the old ad. Somebody told me it was a ———, but Art Rupprecht has his own little scientific explanation: "A product of the recession of the glaciers," says he. Maybe so, Art, but to me it looks like a handy rowboat for getting over to the library on rainy days.

If any of you people have been mysteriously hit in the head with flying missiles, you can blame it on Sneezy and his trusty sling shot, his one-and-only Christmas present. From the grunts and groans emanating from the Star office, you imagine the agonies the poor staff is subjected to. Leave him alone and he'll play for hours!

I understand that the Pantry has become the rendezvous for Houghton men of distinction, in fact, for whole carloads of them. After the friendly, courteous reception of last Friday night, they simply couldn't keep away from the place. Nothing like a cup of coffee on Monday night, huh, boys?

Overheard at the junior basketball practice the other night.

"See that guy playing forward?" asked Bob Denny, pointing to Dick Price. "He'll be our best man in a week."

"Oh," sighed Betty Bejerk. "This is so sudden, Bob."

To end on a happy note, here's a little incident to brighten up the week:

"Romeo, Romeo, wherefore art thou, Romeo?" cried a voice from the stage.

"I'm in the balcony," replied Prof. Hazlett. "It's cheaper."

Dormitory Fund Grows to $23,000

A total of $23,000 has been raised to date on the new dormitory fund.

Mr. E. Warren Richardson has started on a tour to contact the alumni chapters which have not yet responded. Dr. Paine and Mr. George Failing will start next week on a similar tour.

Failing & Cowles Attend Convention

Rev. George Failing and Miss Ruth Cowles will attend a convention of the American College Public Relations association in Elmira, N. Y., on Jan. 18-21.

The purpose of the convention is to acquaint those attending with public relations procedures in other colleges.

EDITOR'S MAILBOX

Dear Editor:

On numerous occasions, I have wanted to buy a snack at the Pantry after the basketball games and other events. Why is it that no one is admitted after 10:15 p.m.? It has been the usual custom in past years to close at 10:30 p.m., whether a crowd will come in at the last minute or not.

I realize the management may want to get home earlier and that the help may be tired, but the Pantry has obligations to perform until 10:30 p.m.

Also, may I add that many joyous times are missed because the management will not put up with the very slightest amount of commotion.

I hope these comments will be taken in the right spirit—really we (the students) would like to have some action taken on these matters. Complaints are growing more and more serious and I think something should be done as soon as possible to correct the present situation.

Biggs Hospital
Ithaca, New York
Jan. 4, 1951

Dear Houghton friends,

The Star was the best way I could think of to thank all of you who remembered me at Christmas time. I truly appreciated the lovely cards and letters so many of you sent me.

I'm getting along very well, and have found a few precious Christians here. We have a doctor here who is a Houghton graduate, Dr. Kenneth Wright. There is also one nurse who is a very sweet witnessing Christian, and nurses like her are rare indeed in a hospital such as this one. The woman in the room across the hall was a gospel worker, and she sings gospel songs and accompanies herself on a "ribe." In the same ward there is another girl who has come to know the Lord, and she, my roommate and I are taking a Bible course together. I have a lovely roommate who is very eager to know more about the Saviour who is so precious to us. We take turns reading the Bible aloud and enjoy discussing it. I think it is helping us both to a clearer understanding of God's Word.

I shall appreciate your continued prayers for my physical need. I would also like you to pray that God will use me here to glorify Himself, for that, I feel, is His purpose in sending me here. There are many, many here who need Christ and some who do not even realize it. I have taken Galatians 2:20 as my scripture verse while I am here.

I would enjoy hearing from you at Houghton if you would care to write to me. I came to love Houghton in the short time I was there, and I trust that I shall be able to come back next year.

May you all have a joyous 1951 as you continue to study and to work for Him, whom to know is life eternal.

Sincerely in Him,
Rosemary Palmer.

Schizophrenia . . .

By OLE KEN DECK

If you almost didn't read this on account of the title, don't be scared off—you'll probably find it a lot different than you thought. This is a story of people, or a person, whom you know very well. You know how, when you are tied down to doing certain things for a real long time, you occasionally have to break loose and sort of go wild? Well, just listen to this.

I've sat around in the dorm office quite a few evenings, waiting for the paper to come in so that I could catch up on the news. Seeing the head resident there most of the time, I've often wondered just what her duties were. Well, from the information that I can gather, she is mostly a law enforcement agent for the top brass over in Luckey Memorial. You girls have probably felt the lash of her whip when you didn't get your lights out just in time, or perhaps you were campused for two years for getting up to get an extra blanket in the middle of the night, or some other thing like that. If you have, don't feel bitter—that's her job.

Another thing she's supposed to do is be on hand for counseling her charges when they have weighty problems bobbing around in their wee little heads, and I guess that's just about a full-time job when you have a dorm-full of girls with heaps of them (problems). I can fully realize why she is getting gray headed prematurely, why her fingernails are bitten off short, and why she has almost become a nervous wreck. It certainly is a pity.

However, let's not pity her too much, for I have it from a good authority that she gets around occasionally (and How!) For instance, the other night she took five of the boys out for a real ride. Her excuse was that she wanted to "visit a sick friend in Rushford." On the way back the boys were asking her whether she knew anything about Sand Hill, to which she replied, "Sure, I use that short cut all the time!" (Gaoyadeo girls please take note—these are all direct quotes.) She didn't seem to be worried when the boys took a wrong road, in fact, she told them she "could stay out all night if I want to," and then after they had been going for a while she said, "Oh boy! I haven't seen a house in a long time." When the boys began to run out of gas she reassured them by telling them, "I can tell you how it feels to run out of gas . . . It's happened to me three times before."

I suppose you want to know what happened to the boys. Well, they got back to Houghton safely, once they finally stopped following the head resident's directions and found the right road.

Let's hope that the good overseer of Gaoyadeo doesn't do what she said she would do when the boys told her they were going to see that her quotes got in the Star—leave town.

Now you see what can happen to you if you have to set an example for too long a time—you might turn out with a split personality.

DICK PRICE

In case you see any junior walking around in an absent-minded manner, with an out-of-this-world look in his eye, you'll know he's just reminiscing on last Wednesday's thriller at Fillmore High gym. The fellows and girls did the impossible, according to the pseudo-authorities around the campus, in taking a double-header from highly favored soph teams.

The girls provided a last minute hair-raiser, with the juniors emerging as victors in the battle for second place. They now rail the pace-setting seniors by one game. Incidentally, it was the junior lassies who handed the seniors their sole defeat. Assuming that both the senior and junior girls defeat the frosh, I'd like to point out that the final standing in the women's class league will be that predicted by this column at the beginning of the season—seniors, juniors, sophs, frosh. And at this stage, a frosh upset seems unlikely.

The fellows gave all the fans a surprise, for with the sophs leading by 13 points in the third quarter, the juniors came back with a barrage which finally tied up the score at 52-52, and raised it to 59-53 before the final buzzer.

Big Dek hammered the boards for 17 points the first half, but could find the hoop for only 7 in the second, while his 24 points were practically matched by Al Johnson's 23.

Fouls were profuse, as Wilson went out early in the third quarter, followed by Dole, while Hunsberger, Castor, and Johnson for the juniors were retired to the bench by the same

Arnolds Win Contest

Leora and LaVerne Arnold, seniors, were first-prize winners this year in Fillmore's annual Christmas season home-decoration contest. They were awarded the $25 prize for decorations representing a pipe-organ and angelic choir.

route a little later. Danks took the trip in the closing minutes.

Should the frosh men defeat the juniors, the sophs would become automatic champions. However, if the juniors win, they will meet the sophs in a play-off tilt to determine the championship.

Senior Girls Win, Down Sophs 23-17

On January 5, the senior girls virtually clinched the girls' class series by taking their second victory of the season from the sophs, 23-17.

High-scoring laurels go to Joan Carville, who dumped in 18 points for the victors, and to sophomore Barbara Bean, with 9 points to her credit.

The half-time score read 13 to 7, with the seniors leading the sophs. At the end of the third quarter, the score board registered 23 to 17. No more scores were made by either side throughout the remaining quarter of play.

Sophs Snow Frosh, 55-36

Led by Johnny Wilson with 15 points for the evening, and Paul Dekker with 10, the sophs snowed under their frosh rivals 55-36, on the night of December 18.

Jerry Jack and Chuck Paine each tallied 13 markers for the stubbornly fighting frosh. After taking the lead early in the second period, the sophs were never in serious trouble, using eight different men, all of whom scored.

Sophs Still Lead, Beat '51-ers 59-49 Undeclared in 5

Clinching the game in the final minutes, the soph hoopsters kept their record unblemished by virtue of a 59-49 victory over the seniors last Friday night.

The contest began as a close match, with Nichols connecting for the seniors, and Dole and Zike hitting for the sophs. A two-point margin separated the teams at the end of the first quarter, and the first half found the sophs leading, 30-28.

Early in the third quarter, Hostetter put the seniors in front with a foul shot, but the sophs retaliated with a barrage which made it 42-37 going into the fourth quarter. Baskets by Nichols and Hostetter brought it to 42-41, and the two teams traded basket for basket until the sophs pulled ahead 45-48, to remain in front for the remainder of the game. Before the seniors were back on their feet this margin was increased to 10 points.

Zike paced the sophs with 21 markers, while Nichols posted 16 for the senior cause. Shooting percentage told the difference, as the sophs had a mediocre 31%, while the seniors hit only 21% of their shots.

Juniors Overcame Sophs 59-53; Dekker & Johnson High Pointers

The class of '52 gained a firstplace tie by coming out on the long end of a 59-53 score before a packed gym at Fillmore H.S.

A one-hand push-shot by Al Johnson with six minutes to go in the game climaxed a junior drive that overcame a thirteen point deficit. From then on, Dane Turner's boys never gave up the lead.

The speed of the game resulted in frequent fouls, and each team lost three men via this route.

The first quarter showed at the start that playing on an unfamiliar court had no ill effect on the play of the teams. From the start a scoring duel emerged between Johnson and "Double" Dekker. While neither boy was really "hot," they tossed up enough shots to keep the totals mounting. Both teams used the fast break extensively, and many of the points were netted in this manner.

The pattern of play was the same in the second quarter as the first, but the sophs pulled slowly ahead with Dekker and Wilson leading the way. The Blue and Grey had an eight point advantage when time ran out in this canto. Dekker seemed to be intent on wearing the cords out as he dumped in 17 points in these 20 minutes of play.

Things slowed down considerably in the second half, and the shooting percentages dropped for both teams. The third quarter saw the winners start their drive to victory as Castor and Johnson each matched Dekker's five marks.

The Maroon and White started to hit in earnest in the last ten minutes. Their man-to-man defense held their opponents to only two field goals, while they garnered eight; four of them going to Al Johnson. His 22-foot set tied up the game, and two jump shots from near the foul line helped put the game on ice.

The game was marked throughout by fast, aggressive play, excellent passing, and fine defensive work. The loss of several of their starting players hurt each of the teams, but the sophs much more so than the juniors.

Dekker came out ahead in the scoring column by one point over Johnson with 24 counters to Johnson's 23. Castor and Price also hit double figures for the winner.
