NINETEEN

FORTY-NINE

When the eastern sun is sinking
Toward the crimson west,
Thoughts of thee, fond Alma Mater
Fill our loyal breast.

Chorus:

Houghton, Houghton, now and e'er
May thy name be dear,
Ever on through life to conquer,
And our hearts to cheer.

Honored lives for thee have fallen,
Hearts that broke and bled
Have been wrung thy cause to prosper
And thy light to shed.

Other schools may claim their thousands,
We're a smaller band;
But for God and righteousness we
Take a noble stand.

Soon from out thy halls of learning
All must take our leave;
But thy memory still we'll cherish
To thy precepts cleave.

When o'er earth thy fame has risen
Like the morning light,
'Twill but rise the earth to gladden
And dispel the night.

Greetings from Houghton

Serving with Humility

In an age of self-assertion and personal gratification, it is not only refreshing, but exciting, to contemplate the life of a man whose purpose of living is that of pleasing Almighty God, and consequently, of serving his fellow-men. Nor is such purpose a guise, a mask, or an intrigue, after the universal disposition of man to seem only and not to be, in the personality and experience of Claude A. Ries. Diligent in thought, consistent in practice, and warm in spirit, Dr. Ries continuously rings a positive note in our midst, whether we sit under him in class, listen to him in chapel, or seek his counsel in private. He ever avoids the extreme, thereby creating in the flesh and blood of physical reality, a living example of that balance and proportion without which we are at loss to understand either our God or ourselves. Therefore, with deep respect and veneration, we dedicate the Boulder of 1949 to this man of unfeigned godliness and humility.

FOUNDED ON THE ROCK

Truth . . . By Revelation

WHENCE DID I COME? Why am I here? Whither am I bound? These are not new queries; they are as old as the days of man; they represent the innate thirst of man to know—both that which is internal within, and that which is external to his essential being. Far from being the idle speculation of a fanatic few, this search is universal. But, what has it accomplished? It has both advanced and retreated; both constructed and exploded theories; both employed and destroyed methods. It has inspired the beautiful as well as the grotesque; and, yielded fruit along with frustration. Man is still unsatisfied But the Almighty has not stood idly by: God has come down. In the person of Jesus, the Messiah and the Incarnate Word, God has manifested Truth unto man. Jesus came from the Father; glorified the Father on earth; and, returned to the Father. In His life, He magnified God; in His death, He justified man, that he, likewise, as a son, might glorify the Father. Houghton College is a concrete example of the efforts of men who recognized as Truth the revelation of God in Jesus Christ, and acted thereunto to the glorifying of God as God, and the serving of man as man.

MAN MUST KNOW. But can he? To what extent? By what method? From the maze of philosophical speculation with all its apparent contradictions and labyrinthine ramifications, man seeks the truth of the totality of life. He can reject neither the physical nor the material, the supernatural nor the natural from the sphere knowledge, without denying his experience in its completeness; nor can he reconcile them in any intelligible fashion. But God, in Christ, has revealed Himself in the flesh, and has brought, thereby, to man the Truth, which eclipses extremes and reconciles them within human experience. For, to accept the person of Christ is to know God; and, to know God is to know Truth. Upon this foundation, Houghton College presents a rigorous curriculum, designed and followed by men who know God, and relate each phase of scholastic endeavor to the advancement of His Kingdom.

Administration

As students we are proud of the high type of Christian leadership Houghton possesses. Our administrators have been an example and a source of strength to us, who came to college to learn a way of living, and not mere facts.

We treasure the gracious way in which Professor Fancher is always so willing to pinch hit for Dr. Paine. The light often burning in the registrar's window after hours is symbolic of the untiring devotion Miss Davison brings to her mountain of work. Aggressive management is the key to Mr. Smith's success.

The warm, attractive atmosphere of Miss Beck's office, as well as the kindness and sympathy shown by both Miss Beck and Professor Wright to those, who venture within the confines of the deans' offices, makes such an experience a remembered pleasure. In every way, our administrators help make Houghton an inspiration to us.

DIVISION OF English

RAY W. HAZLETT, A.M.

JOSEPHINE RICKARD, Ph.D.

JAMES HARR, A.B.

Theoretically the English department is just a division of the Liberal Arts program. Actually it seems to be a handicap to the student fulfilling requirements, but to the major student it presents a challenge which seems, to him, greater than that of any other department.

The practical side of English is stressed in Houghton. The Speech department places emphasis on proper oral presentation; the English department has as its aims the use of fundamental processes in creative writing, and a more than impressionistic appreciation of literature as a whole.

For the major student in English, a vital appreciation of literature is emphasized concomitantly with the attainment of a growing knowledge of the mechanics and basic fundamentals of creative production. The four divisions, Prose, Poetry, Drama, and Prose Fiction, are correlated so that the courses cohere and become a well integrated whole. Voluminous reading is required as background material for all work undertaken in these courses. Class work in general is composed of critical analysis, drill on the fundamentals of creative production, and background study, which helps in understanding certain literary trends. The major student, immured with reading lists, realizes the field is, as Professor Hazlett says, "the work of more than a lifetime."

In cooperation with The Lanthorn, the English department sponsors a yearly literary contest. Students are urged to submit entries to be judged by an invited group of critics; the winning material is printed in the second semester edition of The Lanthorn.

To enable students to realize their needs as public speakers, and to familiarize them with the essentials of good speaking are the functions of the department of speech. This concerns not only ministerial students; persons in all professions are at sometime in their lives called upon to speak before some group.

Dr. King conducts a class in applied debate from which he chooses Houghton's debate team.

DIVISION OF History, Social Science,

No one will question the belief of this division that "a knowledge of the enduring values of past generations should aid one in correctly evaluating those of his own." Houghton's history "profs" aim to instill within the student the ability to interpret historical facts and human experiences in the light of modern developments, and to recognize their weight and significance in our world of today.

Increasing interest in the social sciences is evidenced by enrollment in these subjects. Nearly thirty percent of the graduating class of 1949 are enrolled as social science majors. Many students majoring in this field are preparing for specialized work in other fields.

Included in this division is the department of education, striving through professional and practical training to produce efficient Christian teachers, who will be prepared to take their place in the community where they are laboring.

In the field of psychology, fast becoming one of our largest departments, students are instructed in psychological theory and the professional aspects of mental health and disease.

There are at Houghton College professors who should be thankful for the episode which took place at the construction of the tower of Babel. For, had not some Israelites become overly proud, these professors would not be holding their present positions, and consequently would never have found their proper eddy in the ebb and flow of life. (It is likewise doubtful that the Israelites spoke the English language, but that's a homonym with a different meaning.)

Houghton's foreign language division is composed of as heterogeneous a group of individuals as one would find anywhere. Naturally enough, each professor reflects personally the culture and the mood of the country whose tongue he teaches. Retiring, smooth-talking Dr. Pierce Woolsey conducts his French classes by the Socratic method, wittily capitalizing upon the idiosyncrasies of language to keep his 8 am charges mentally alert and receptive. Tight-lipped Mr. Fancher coaxes his German students over the strong and weak endings, under the inverted word-order, and around the pronunciation of an unlauted "u", while he pedals his way through Germany on a bicycle. Zealous Miss Pool seeks to produce stouthearted, "r" rolling Quixotes in short order by the utilization of los discos, conversacion, parental discipline, and hot tamales. Earnest Dr. Claude Ries endeavors to reveal the Apostle Paul to his theologs by setting him up on standards, or by hanging him upon a series of dashes. At times, the good apostle is laid to rest in the comfortable, arched position of a participial modifier while Dr. Ries enriches the class with gleanings from years of both personal study, and that of outstanding, Christian scholars. Lastly, from within the Classics sanctuary, genial Mr. Stockin proudly extolls the glories of Homer and the virtues of Cicero; frankly admits the partiality of Herodotus and the exaggeration of Xenophon; and, revels in extracting the wisdom of Plato and the overpowering sagacity of Aristotle. Credit is due our Classics professor for setting the pace in adding to his room atmosphere conducive to the development of enthusiasm for his field of study.

A cosmopolitan group, to be sure; accordingly, each professor contributes that necessary part in creating a well-balanced division.

DIVISION OF Science, Math

In the science department we find those individuals who spend their days in labs and their nights with books that must be "chewed and digested". Among these are some of our future medics, physicists, engineers, technicians, research workers, nurses, and teachers.

Peering into a microscope, helping his zoology students locate a treacherous parasite or perhaps just a harmless little amoeba, is Dr. George Moreland, head of the division. Underneath his quiet reserve and humor, we often wonder where he finds cranial accommodations for his range of lecture material.

Across the way, Dr. Crystal Rork's botanists are examining the fruits of a field trip, while a bottle of fruit flies are conveniently breeding in one corner for the class in heredity.

Down the hall, the lights of the physics lab are on day and night. Dr. Wightman is proving to his beginning classes that physics is a great and fertile field. Advanced students, possibly of atomic physics, are busy in the inner lab working on something harmless—we hope.

The chem lab downstairs has a reputation for the dispersion of the odiferous. This year two big assets have been added.

One is Dr. Floyd Reese, instructing the organic and physical chem classes; the other, a newly equipped room for advanced students. Still working on a 26 hour day, Miss Burnell keeps her assistants busy, as she prepares for her classes a set of unknowns designed to remain so forever.

Closely allied to the lab sciences is the department of mathematics, headed by Dr. Robert Luckey. "It can be easily proved", says Doc Bob, as the class in advanced calculus goes home to four hours of concentration on problem #1. Doc will work it tomorrow morning in five minutes. Mrs. Moon is priming the beginners for the more rigorous mental commando courses.

“. . . Be ready always to give an answer to every man that asketh you a reason of the hope that is in you . . .”, epitomizes the vision of the teachers in this division, who are intrusted with the training of future ministers, missionaries, and church workers.

Thorough knowledge of the Bible, a grounding in Christian theology and philosophy, an understanding of the reasons for their beliefs, and practical training in actual situations to be met are stressed as students prepare to meet the spiritual demands of this modern age.

DIVISION OF Music and Art

This division is Houghton's answer to the results of recent psychological tests which find a negative correlation between religious interest and esthetic appreciation.

Almost a world of its own, as music students can readily testify, the music department has the distinction of being the only department with a building to itself. Other of its unique features are the facts that of all the sections of the college it has the largest faculty, the greatest number of possible major courses, and the most extra-class activities and organizations connected directly with it.

Scholastically, the music department has much to boast of both in the realm of standards, much to the sorrow of many an aspiring Horowitz and Caruso, and in the opportunities offered. Having been accepted for full membership in 1948, it is accredited by the National Association of Schools of Music, and is one of a few departments in the state that is authorized by the Regents Board of New York State to train public school music teachers. This year the department has been run by a committee of the music faculty and Dean L. A. King, temporary director.

Students interested in a music major soon discover the variety of possible courses open to them. Besides the traditional piano, voice, violin, organ, and public school music curricula, a program in church music and one in music literature have recently been added as potentialities for a major.

Of course, a few liberal arts students do wander into the no-man's land once in awhile. When they do, it is usually to take advantage of the chance to take applied music (with or without credit), to join one of the department's various musical groups, or perhaps to try their hands at the course in music appreciation.

The music department may be in a building all its own, but no one can say it isn't enterprising, and eager to help enrich the cultural life of the whole student body. Besides sponsoring numerous student recitals, and concerts by the department's musical organizations and faculty, it sponsors annually a series of five concerts by outstanding, nationally known artists.

Formerly pushed into a corner on the fourth floor of the Science Building, the art department, which is proud of its talented Ortlip family, has moved into roomier quarters designed for it in the new building next door to the music department. Here, as there, students learn not only the techniques and appreciation of great art, but also the depth of enjoyment that comes from actual dabbling with the oils and brushes as they discover that they too can paint.

Seniors

Seniors, huh? Sure, wheels. Remember when we first started rolling back in . . . well, it wasn't so very long ago. We started out with our tires full of confidence taken from the air pump of the good old high school alma mater. We bounced along merrily registration week, but when we reconsidered the road map, the way suddenly looked l-o-n-g and oversupplied with academic ruts.

How we ever made it up those mountains, we will never know. We were running on the rim, the motor was hacking like a full-fledged TB patient, and lo!—a traveler's haven marked "Christmas Vacation". We coasted in.

Several weeks later we emerged from hibernation, still smelling strongly of zo lab formaldehyde. After a short period of anticipation, we entered the much-talked-of Tunnel of Terrors, or, as it was more familiarly called, First Semester Finals. Wheezing from exertion, we rattled onto the level road and came to a stop in the shade of a huge oak tree marked "END OF FIRST SEMESTER". In due time we arrived on a huge plateau, where we were greeted by a bright sign: "Welcome, ex-frosh".

Must we go into detail concerning our further travels of the following three years: how we persecuted and prosecuted those who followed us . . . how we dug holes, put up road blocks and strewed grade points in their way . . . how we ceased being wise fools and became just plain . . . uh . . . juniors . . . how finally, and much to our great astonishment, we blossomed into seniors? Sure we're wheels—considerably patched, true, but well-rounded. Take a good look; we won't be here long. We're rolling on.

IN THE BEGINNING WAS THE WORD, AND THE WORD WAS WITH GOD, AND THE WORD WAS GOD.

He treats his fans well, too.

No . . . this is the way it's done.

Head to head?

It's an old story.

"The lowing herd wind slowly o'er the lea"

I caught ya!

Blasting off that Houghton mud.

Some of the boys
preparing for finals.

It's 1949? Man, but time flew! Ah, how well we remember the first few daze of registration in September '46—that comprehensive exam (never knew I forgot so much)—personality tests, “just call me old worry wart”—the first chapel, “greetings, oh, you're going to like it here!”

First few weeks we explored every building on the campus. Gradually we began the process of acclimation to this new life. We made lots of wonderful friends, and gained a nickname—but who wants to be called ‘Stubby’?

During our sophomore year, college routine was old stuff. Most of us had done the high-dive on the ice in winter; and spring?—“wait 'til I retrieve my boot from that last mudhole!” Racing to breakfast we had paused to enjoy the sun-tinted, olive green sky. Nor can we forget the campus covered with sparkling snow, and blue shadows, and golden sunlight. We had heard all the mellow jokes about industrial Houghton—about how we had sneezed at the village limits on our first visit and wound up on the other side of town before we realized it, and how, walking over from the post office, we had beaten the train.

This year we returned to the campus with a homey, we-be-long-here feeling. There were games to be played, meetings to be called, and new studies; but most important, we had to sit down more often this year and do much heart searching. The Lord sent us here in '46, and we needed to renew our visions, and strengthen our faith. Tragedy as well as comedy filled the air with excitement; we were brought closer together. Fond are this year's memories; albeit, we look to the future.

AND THE WORD WAS MADE FLESH, AND DWELT AMONG US, FULL OF GRACE AND TRUTH.

September 10, 1947, was banner day in the history of Houghton College, for on that day was born to our Alma Mater a small, insignificant, bundle of joy, namely the Class of '51. After being relentlessly subjected to diverse sorts of examinations, tours, and parties, she was immediately thrust out on her own two feet to face the life or death battle against the sophs. Through three days of contests, valiant struggle, wearing freakish clothes, and fighting on greased poles, the infant class proved to her "superior" class, however, that she had "what it takes."

Since early in her career, our class has acknowledged her complete dependence upon God in everything she was to undertake, not only in the prayer meetings, but also in each class, cabinet, or committee meeting. The class chaplains have worked to enrich and unite the class spiritually.

Under the leadership of our commander-in-chief, Joseph Howland, and the guidance of our necessarily tactful and wise advisors, Mrs. Alice McMillen and Mr. George Wells, our class last year went through two semesters with good success. Shall we ever forget our hockey championship, the fun at class parties, and the blessings which we as frosh shared with one another in all areas of our college life?

September 1948—we celebrated our birthday by welcoming the new frosh! In spite of circumstances, we got acquainted and grew to like each other almost immediately. We elected class officers and settled down to work. Remember the lively talk about class jackets and the many people who "died" at strategic points in our Christmas party?

The Class of '51 has reached the half-mark in her Houghton course, and is looking to the Sovereign, for He will lead us.

Freshmen

Here we are looking slightly wan, perhaps with bags under our eyes, but as sound in mind and body as can be expected. Now that we have survived a year of intellectual pursuits, there is a glimmer of a chance that we may live to see graduation in '52.

Looking back on our hectic existence as Houghton frosh, it's a wonder we didn't collapse long ago. Remember initiation week? Sandwiched in between two gigantic signs, tin cans clanking from our ankles, we trudged wearily from class to class always at the beck and call of the domineering sophs. Abject slaves—that's what we were. Waste-paper baskets bulging with books, the chapel bell ringing as a signal to salaam, air-raid whistle blowing—all were a part of that epochal week. And, much as we hate to admit it, we loved it.

We had other troubles too, especially in the dining room. In our gross ignorance, we innocently dug into our ice cream with a spoon—of all implements. Then that beastly business of meal tickets! Either we could never find the things or they were so battered and torn that we couldn't tell what serving we were supposed to eat anyhow.

We mustn't forget our valiant frosh basketball team! Those boys fought against the more experienced upperclassmen and gave them battles they'll always remember. We nearly lost our voices cheering the night we upset the lofty senior applecart. It was a glorious climax to our first season of basketball.

Then there was the Christmas party, and carol singing, and coming back again after vacation to face a barrage of exams. But we lived through them. We're part of Houghton now—a lowly part, we'll admit, but we guarantee you'll be hearing things from us!

AND I SAW, AND BARE RECORD THAT THIS IS THE SON OF GOD.

ORGANIZATIONS

TO KNOW TRUTH, one must experience life at its broadest point of development. This necessarily includes a well-balanced mental diet which avoids any extreme. At Houghton College, there is adequate opportunity to attain this balance through participation in student publications, language clubs, science groups, esthetic societies, musical organizations, and Christian endeavors. All of these voluntary associations serve to develop and integrate the personality of the student, that he may translate precept into practice, and the concept into the concrete. These activities are, then, means to ends, not ends in themselves. They exist as a source of student edification, that the student might live unto the glorification of God. Likewise, these activities foster harmonious campus life, and render practicable the very principles which underlie their existence.

STUDENT COUNCIL

No group will long exist without the necessity of a form of government. Houghton campus, therefore, is not without hers. The fifteen students comprising Houghton's Student Council meet bi-weekly in plenary session to legislate in the interest of the student body. Classes are proportionately represented by popular election.

The goal of this group is the goal of all unit government—to act always for the good of the individuals whom it represents. The Student Council, as all other unit governments, has not attained this goal. But, different from many such governments, the Student Council has never ceased to strive toward this goal, has never ceased to pray for wisdom in its action, and has never lost its vision of broader horizons in Houghton campus life.

This year's body is presided over by Dave Kaser, and includes within its membership the president of the student body, Warren Ball.

EXECUTIVE LITERARY BOARD

The activities of the Executive Literary Board are directed toward one very specific function—the supervision of all student publications. Although little publicized itself, the committee determines the policy for each of the student organs: the Boulder, the Star, and the Lanthorn; reviews their respective financial reports; and, annually nominates candidates for the positions of editor and business manager of each, to take office in the following year.

While the authority of the committee is not final in the selection of these officers, since additional nominations may be made from the floor when the elections are held, nevertheless, a great measure of the responsibility for continuous, effective direction rests in its hands. Membership on the committee is limited to six—the president of the college, the faculty advisers and the editors of the Boulder and Star, and the vice-president of the student council.

Houghton STAR

An immeasurable amount of time per week spent in hard labor made Houghton's journalistic publication, the Star, an appreciated and eagerly read newspaper. Under the editing of Robert Bitner and Mary Harris, the Star staff showed improvement in the quality and quantity of the work it accomplished, as well as in the efficient manner in which it operated. Informality and variety of make-up was a characteristic feature of the paper this year.

The Star's features included "The Rut", which gave a touch of humor, and a sports column, which kept the local fans yelling. A more serious note was sounded by such articles as "Count Your Blessings" and "Alone With Him"; and, a high intellectual standard was promoted through editorials, interviews, musical critiques, and the column, "Talk of Many Things".

LANTHORN

Crosby checks with Fancher, Harris

The Lanthorn is the literary publication of Houghton College. Before this school year it has been produced annually, consisting mainly of entries submitted to a yearly literary contest required of English students. The editors have merely tossed together the winning productions, paying little attention to format or possible literary quality in work that did not place high in the contest.

This year two editions of the magazine were presented with emphasis on thought as well as imaginative qualities. Editors solicited contributions from any student, requiring only that he present his material in adequate stylistic form. They sought to discover persons with imaginative powers who neglect to enter the contest. The new stress on art work and page make-up was another trend in the right direction.

A CAPPELLA CHOIR

Our hearts thrilled within us as we sang the mighty surging strains of Bach's magnificent "Blessing, Glory, Wisdom and Thanks". Our spirits stilled as we whispered von Gluck's mystically moving De Profundis. All this meant that we of the Houghton College A Cappella Choir were privileged to give of ourselves to one of the greatest of earthly ministries—sacred music.

Possessing the largest choir membership in the history of the college, 52 as contrasted with 40 last season, we completed an inspiring season under the direction of our leader, Mr. Donald Butterworth, and management of Mr. Bert Hall.

There is no excellency without labor. Now that we look back upon this year, the hours of intense practice we spent in the preparation of our music do not seem wasted or without value. The strain of our spring tour, which took us to the mid-west and Canada, was rewarded with the knowledge that we had been instrumental in deepening others' spiritual experience, for listeners united with us as together we extolled the Almighty in an everlasting paean of thanksgiving.

RADIO CHOIR

When Houghton's program of radio enterprise was first introduced, there was a natural demand for a supply of music for the recordings to be made. At first the a cappella choir, plus various smaller combinations of singers and instrumentalists, was the main group featured on Houghton's first radio attempt, a fifteen minute program called "Founded on the Rock." It was soon discovered, however, that the choir was too large for successful handling in radio work, so about half the choir members agreed to do extra work by taking part in a special radio choir for the rest of that season. This year to meet this demand for music our group was formed.

We have had various responsibilities this year. One of our chief duties has been singing for a new series of "Founded on the Rock" broadcasts, a group of twenty-six weekly programs released over each of twelve FM or AM stations covering New York, Western Pennsylvania and Rhode Island. On this program a narrative of a "Giant for God," an incident in the life of some outstanding Christian, was featured. Our part has been to furnish the musical setting for the story. In addition, we have sung on "Voices of the Morning" and other spot broadcasts.

ORCHESTRA

Our orchestra work this year has given us a new appreciation of the difficulties and rewards of orchestral music. As is true in all types of performance-directed effort, we probably received a greater thrill from the music we presented than did the audience, who hadn't shared the privilege of the hours or work and fun that went into the preparation of our two concerts.

During the fall months we rehearsed at least twice a week with the result that we were able to give several concerts in nearby towns. Two other events of our first semester were our home concert in December which included "A Mighty Fortress is Our God," the first movement of Beethoven's eighth symphony, the introduction to the third act of Wagner's Lohengrin, and a modern suite by a Negro composer; and the playing of the orchestral portions of the Messiah for its annual presentation by the Oratorio Society.

We gave another concert in the spring. This time we played, among other things, Schubert's Fifth Symphony, "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring" by Bach, and Beethoven's "Overture to Egmont." All our work was done under the direction of Mr. John M. Andrews. Gordon Talbot was concert meister.

We set out this year to prove that a band is not limited in its repertoire to marches, but can play sacred music as well. With this in mind we were able to give several public appearances. Once each semester we presented a chapel program, and the last half of the year we played a few concerts in nearby high schools in addition to presenting music at local college athletic events. During the first semester we also made a recording centered around the life and works of Bach.

Future plans will have us make a series of recordings similar to our experiment this year to be broadcast on a outside station. Also proposed for the future are short weekend tours to nearby churches. This would gradually be worked to a schedule similar to that of the a cappella choir, including longer tours and a ten-day trip during spring vacation.

Membership in the band is open to any person capable of playing a band instrument. Our rehearsals this year were regularly held each Monday and Wednesday for an hour period. Again this year we were fortunate in having Mr. Raymond Alger as director and Miss Myrtle Miller as baton twirler.

ART CLUB

October, with the artistically colored leaves falling and pungent autumn in the air, found us of the Art Club all assembled before a cheery fire at Yorkwood. Starting us off in the proper spirit, Mrs. Alton Shea delighted members with recollections of her experiences in France and Spain, and the exhibition of her sketches and paintings done while there. After that came pumpkin pie and coffee. Mmm-m-m! . . . Then November, with Winter's first chilly blasts, and the novelty of the first meeting to be held in the long-awaited new art lab. Easels, brushes, models, props, and even the familiar smell of paint had moved from their traditional spot "under the eaves," to the more accessible, roomy, northern end of the new building. Mrs. Herschel Ries had us absorbed in a demonstration of the use of textile paints. Hm! Only doughnuts this time . . .

So it went—a film on etching, slides of the craftsmanship and matchless coloring of canvases by Corot, experiments in building form with lithograph crayon, led by Mrs. Gordon Stockin. With each meeting in the hands of a different committee, there was a chance for greater variety and the expression of original ideas.

EXPRESSION CLUB

Our expression club is Houghton's only dramatic outlet, and is especially interesting and valuable to those of us who, like our president, Meredith Sutton, are studying drama in connection with an English literature major, who are minoring in speech or who like to participate in dramatics just for the pure enjoyment of it.

Our fundamental aim has been to help each member to acquire a greater knowledge of the tools of esthetic expression, and to gain actual experience in the techniques of public speaking. We have coupled this with the promotion of interest and development of ability in expression. In addition, this year we had the experience not only of taking part in programs, but also of planning them as well.

Our meetings were devoted to giving programs which included choral speaking, short plays, radio skits, and dramatic monologues. Some highlights were a program given by Mrs. Edna Lennox, advisor, a radio play which was broadcast over WAVL, and our club party at Letchworth.

It was the feeling of each of us that our time spent in expression club was especially valuable, not just in terms of present enjoyment, but in view of profit to be reaped in the future from such experience.

STUDENT MINISTERIAL

We are students who are preparing for full time Christian service in some phase of religious activity. Our club aims to provide its members with practical training through information and advice concerning functions and problems related to the church, evangelistic efforts, and the minister's life.

Our guest speakers this year included Mr. John De Brine, director of the Rochester Youth for Christ, Mr. George E. Failing, assistant to the president of the college, and Dr. Rufus Reisdorf, Sunday school secretary of the Wesleyan Methodist Church.

FOREIGN MISSIONS FELLOWSHIP

The Foreign Missions Fellowship has been growing ever since it became the missionary arm of the Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship. Our chapter at Houghton is no exception, increasing in interest and membership until more than 75 students attend the weekly prayer meetings.

In addition to praying for missions, we meet every other week to consider current problems of mission work as presented by missionaries recently home from the foreign field. In response to their challenge students are now supporting three missionaries.

TORCHBEARERS

Realizing the seriousness of our theme "a charge to keep I have," we accepted as our purpose "to serve the present age" by bearing the torch of God's truth to neighboring towns and villages through our extension groups. Our organization is the channel through which the Christian service on Houghton campus is organized and directed.

On the first and third Sunday of each month, those of us who are not out of town doing extension work meet in the afternoon for prayer and instruction. From these times set apart we go out refreshed and inspired to push forward the religious work of the college. At our meetings various members of the faculty, pastors, and laymen discuss aspects of Christian service. The high spot of this year was our spring series of five messages on the work of the church.

Groups going out from the college this year under our direction have done door to door visitation, ministered to several hospitals and jails, such as the Fillmore Hospital, Lamont Nursing Home, Angelica County Home, Rocky Crest Sanitarium, the county jails, and Attica State prison, and presented evangelistic services, radio programs, and services in many churches.

PSYCHOLOGY CLUB

Comparatively new in this age of enlightenment is the science of the laws of human actions—psychology. New also in Houghton's circle of student groups is our psychology club, organized this year in response to the clamorous appeals of many students majoring or minoring in the subject.

The raison d'être of our psychology club is to aid its members in their interpretations and evaluations of human experiences and emotions. For those of us who are preparing for graduate work in psychology in anticipation of jobs in research psychology, clinical work, counseling and guidance, industrial psychology, social and institutional work, and hosts of other jobs in this field, our club with its emphasis on Christian psychology is proving especially valuable.

Under the guidance of our faculty advisor, Mr. Marven Nelson, and the direction of club president, Robert Harter, the organization has done much through the medium of lectures, discussions, and motion pictures toward accomplishing its goal. Aiding the president were Vice-president Robert Smith, Secretary-treasurer Barbara Cotanche, and Chaplain Joseph Howland.

INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS CLUB

With John Rommel as president, and Dr. Frieda Gillette as faculty adviser, we boast the largest membership in our history. Our club projects vary. A panel discussion on election returns, a talk on the Near East, movies of U.N. activities, a report on the Yalta conference, and a movie on the life of Franklin D. Roosevelt maintain the interest of our group in national and international affairs. In addition, we sponsor weekly newscasts in the dining hall.

EL CLUB DE LOS QUIJOTES

“El Club de los Quijotes” is one of adventures and of learning to understand the people of Spanish countries. In an entertaining way, “los Quijotes” strive, by the practical use of the Spanish language, learning in detail of the Spanish customs and culture, and even by learning to cultivate the taste for some typically Spanish food, to attain that degree of understanding which will enable us to be better fitted to help strengthen the links uniting the Americas.

LE CERCLE FRANÇAIS

Under the leadership of Henri Du Bois, Douglas Silvernail, and our advisor, Dr. Woolsey, we have learned anew to appreciate France and the ideals for which she stands.

While France has been struggling to recover from the physical and moral scars caused by the war, members of Le Cercle Français have not lost faith in the enduring quality of the nation, its people, its literature, its art, or its culture. The stirring notes of "La Marseillaise," France's national anthem, still ring out as a symbol that France is rallying, and gaining for herself a definite place in a reconstructed world.

We have been introduced through the pages of L'Echo, our French literary medium, to great authors—Lamartine, Moliere, and Anatole France. We have seen the works of famous artists—Carot, Millet, and Gautier.

Who of us will ever forget our recorded play, "Le Soif des Pierres," our Christmas party, or our many futile attempts to say more than "Oui, Oui," or "Non, Non"? We shall long treasure memories of Le Cercle Français, for to us it opened up vistas, it spelled a living language.

PALAEOLINGUISTS

Our purpose is the stimulation of interest in Latin and Greek languages, customs, and civilizations. This is made easier by the fact that the number of students studying the classics in Houghton is higher than the general trend in the average college in New York State.

Our aim was carried out in many ways. For example, at the December meeting we sang Christmas carols in Latin, and heard a report from Mr. Gordon Stockin, our advisor, on a classics convention he had attended. In January our speaker was Dr. Stephen Paine, who spoke on "Language and Life," dealing with the study and appreciation of languages.

Under the direction of our president, Charles Samuels, we also sought various forms of profitable entertainment with a classic flavor. At the second meeting prospective new members had to sign as Roman-style slaves and submit to the initiation devised before they could gain recognition as citizens, and hence members of the club. Several of us read short poems and articles pertaining to ancient Greek and Roman practices, customs, and manners. In the spring we held a Roman and Greek banquet.

SCIENCE CLUB

We are still a baby group, for we organized our club in May of 1948. Our aim is to stimulate an interest in all phases of science through the medium of papers and reports given by students, faculty members, and guest speakers.

Our officers this year were Chester Tingley, president; Marabel King, vice-president; Jane Wight, secretary-treasurer; and Dr. Robert Lucky, faculty advisor. Our activities were under the direction of two committees, the program and activity committees, which planned the various events taking place every third Wednesday of the month.

Typical of our meetings were lectures on such subjects as FM radio, "eight hundred pairs of ears," and amino acid nutrition. As an extra feature in January five films were shown dealing with the general subject of animals. The programs were planned to represent a different division of science each meeting. By the end of the school year each section had been represented in some manner. Our plans for progress include the publishing of a pamphlet containing special achievements, inventions, or discoveries made by the students during the school term.

PASTEUR PRE-MEDIC SOCIETY

This year, under the direction of Dr. George Moreland, faculty advisor, and John Woodhams, president, our club was launched as an organization exclusively of and for pre-medical students.

On the first Wednesday night of each month we met to hear and discuss basic techniques or latest discoveries of the medical world. Sometimes our speaker was an expert from a near-by hospital or laboratory. At other times the members themselves took up topics of interest and presented their findings to the group.

Annually, many outstanding students of the country are given national recognition by the publishers of "Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities". Contained within this publication is a short biography of each chosen student.

This year, nine Houghton College seniors were thus honored by the joint action of the college dean, the dean of men, the dean of women, and a Student Council committee, on the basis of scholarship, character, popularity, and participation in extra-curricular activities.

ATHLETICS

MAN is not only a psychical being, but a physical entity, and therefore needs the development of the body to complete his complex experience of life. At Houghton College, it's "athletics for everyone and everyone for athletics". Though intercollegiate contests are not allowed, the college maintains a full-blown sports schedule to urge and aid the development of physical fitness within the student body. College policy accents the element of personal adjustment to opposition in combat, rather than that of personal gratification derived from recognized skill and fame. Athletic events are conducted with the purpose of attaining physical and mental coordination unto the praise of the glory of God and not for the glory of the individual.

CHEERLEADERS

VARSITY

The '48 touch-football season witnessed the brawn, brain, and speed of four class teams and two color squads, and took by faith the superiority of the varsity. We'll always remember the last, closely-fought Soph-Junior contest and the final Purple-

Gold game, that saw the Purple Pharaoh almost take home the honors. Nor will we forget those telephone wires, which far out-classed the field in pass-interceptions and in blocked punts. With the end of the season, the old field saw its last action.

Second Row: Lombardi, P. Nast, Dongell, Flint, Maeda

Kneeling: Giacobelli
Standing: Guest, Strong, Sutton, Beach, Buck

Basketball

VARSITY

If the hardwood of old Bedford could speak, it would doubtless redescribe the final, official Frosh-Senior game, in which the Seniors by a one point margin, suffered their lone defeat of the season. Credit must be rendered to the champs for producing some of the finest basketball ever witnessed at Houghton.

Field Hockey

VARSITY

From almost the initial face-off of the season, it was evident that the sophs were in for a good year. After winning three straight games, they moved into first place in the class series, and were never headed for the rest of the season.

The climax of the year came in the final contest of the color series, when a determined Gold squad defeated the Pharoahs, 8-2. Although there was no traditional varsity-frosh game, eleven girls received varsity letters for their play in the class and color series. This year's play displayed the best quality yet seen on the campus.

First Row: Werres, Shore, Phillips, Lemmon
Second Row: Gibb, Anderson, Ellenberger
Third Row: Mote, Knapp, Armstrong, Ejoy

First Row: Bardwell, Gebhardt, Werres, Lemmon

Girls' Basketball

VARSITY

Although the class basketball series was more closely contested than that of field hockey, the sophs continued to assert their superiority by subduing the defending, junior champions.

Purple easily overpowered her Gold rivals to become the first victorious Purple squad of the year. A strong varsity was subsequently chosen by Coach Wells.

The Big "H" Club limits its membership to men who have won varsity letters in four major sports, and to women who have earned letters in three. This year, the addition of swimming to the major sports increased the opportunities for qualification.

ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

The Athletic Association, under its new constitution and the able guidance of President Beach, functioned smoothly this year in advancing athletic activities. Members are chosen by the Varsity Club; Coach Wells acts as adviser.

BOOK IV

BOULDER

SOCIAL

MAN does not live unto himself, nor can he live for himself, if he is to arrive at Truth. Proper adjustment to the world's social order and therefore, complete exploitation of all latent associational qualities, is necessary to the maturity of man's personality. This is a phase of life which must neither be avoided nor prostituted. Healthy social relationships are the sign of a mature and vibrant soul. Houghton College actively fosters an atmosphere which cultivates the highest motives in man's relationship to man. This atmosphere is not derived simply from adherence to natural law, but from direct obedience to the Incarnate Word of God. The Lord Jesus Christ wove into the fabric of experience the pattern for us all — with emphasis not on the particular, but on the principle. These principles constitute a challenge to any man, and a necessity to life to that man who would know Truth.

FAITH SEMINARY — Scholarly

Emphasizing thorough training in the original languages of the Bible, Faith Seminary is a graduate school of theology, offering a balanced curriculum leading to the degrees of Th. B., B.D., and S.T.M., with the M.R.E. for women. It is accredited by the New York State Board of Regents. Its faculty of eleven well qualified instructors includes such outstanding scholars as Dr. Allan A. MacRae, President and Professor of Old Testament, Dr. R. Laird Harris, Professor of Biblical Exegesis, and Dr. J. Oliver Buswell, Jr., Professor of Systematic Theology and Apologetics.

FAITH SEMINARY — Spiritual

Vital spiritual life and testimony is maintained along with scholarly standards. Faith stimulates missionary and evangelistic interest in the classroom, in the frequent prayer meetings, and in the numerous Christian service opportunities.

FAITH SEMINARY — True to the Word

The seminary stands for the entire truth of the Scriptures, including its premillennial, and gives superior training to men and women who will fill responsible positions of leadership in the pastorate, the teaching field, or in missionary and other Christian service, that the man of God may be "thoroughly furnished unto every good work."

When the eastern sun is sinking
Toward the crimson west,
Thoughts of thee, fond Alma Mater
Fill our loyal breast.

Chorus:

Houghton, Houghton, now and e'er
May thy name be dear,
Ever on through life to conquer,
And our hearts to cheer.

Honored lives for thee have fallen,
Hearts that broke and bled
Have been wrung thy cause to prosper
And thy light to shed.

Other schools may claim their thousands,
We're a smaller band;
But for God and righteousness we
Take a noble stand.

Soon from out thy halls of learning
All must take our leave;
But thy memory still we'll cherish
To thy precepts cleave.

When o'er earth thy fame has risen
Like the morning light,
'Twill but rise the earth to gladden
And dispel the night.
