*How firm a foundation, ye saints
of the Lord,
Is laid for your faith in his excellent Word!*

*What more can he say than
to you he hath said,
To you who for peace
to Jesus hath fled?*

*"Fear not, I am with thee,
oh, be not dismayed;
for I am thy God, and will still give
thee aid;
I'll strengthen thee,
help thee, and cause
thee to stand Upheld by my righteous,
omnipotent hand."*

*“When through the deep waters I call thee to go,
The rivers of sorrow shall not overflow;
For I will be with thee thy troubles
to bless,
And sanctify to thee thy deepest distress.”*

*"When through fiery trials thy pathway
shall lie,
My grace, all sufficient,
shall be thy supply;
The flame shall not hurt
thee; I only design
Thy dross to consume,
and thy gold
to refine."*

*"E'en down to old age
all my people
shall prove My sovereign, eternal,
unchangeable
love;
And when hoary hairs shall their temples adorn,
Like lambs they shall still in my bosom be borne."*

*"The soul that on Jesus hath leaned for repose,
    I will not, I will not desert
        to his foes;
That soul, though all hell should endeavor to shake;
I'll never, no never, no never forsake."*

What Houghton Has Meant

by J.S. Willett. Star Sept. 1909

The close student of history knows that geographical environment has much to do either in developing or narrowing national life. Its influence is none the less potent on the community and individual. The selection of Houghton, N.Y., as the home of an important educational branch of our church work showed a recognition of this principle in molding and expanding those favored with attendance at Houghton Seminary.

Nature's effort to make the place ideal has been reinforced by sturdy, thrifty, and, in the main, upright inhabitants. The deep, clear straight lines of Gospel truth found early lodgment and under the fostering care of a deeply spiritual church there has been no abatement in their power and sin in many forms has been driven out.

Hence the saloon, gambling dens, poolrooms, with all of their blighting attachments for student life, find no place of refuge here. Under these advantageous conditions we entered as a student of Houghton Seminary in the fall of 1894, and for seven years of consecutive work we reaped long and lasting benefit from our Alma Mater. During that time every year noted advancement in the line of equipment for more accurate and broader work and since our graduation a new and commodious building with still better surroundings and thoroughly modern equipment, has taken the place of the old building. In this splendid progress every true alumni feels his heart beat faster and loyalty to his Alma Mater deepens.

History and Location

Houghton Cottage was established in 1492, a short distance from Rochester and all points east. It is favorably lacted two miles beneath the waters of the Genesee river. The mountainous section of the campus, however, sometimes appears above the rushing torrent. Train connections with Houghton are excellent. The "Hoodlebug" usually runs twice a year.

Purpose

The manufacture of matches is the avowed purpose of Houghton Cottage's existence. Students usually enter singly, but depart in pairs. Success has marked its very effort.

Advantages

The Cottage is prepared to provide any course that two or more students desire to elect, the teacher being chosen by the students, subject to the immediate dismissal for any interference with social activities. In this last feature Houghton stands as a pioneer in America. The system has resulted efficiently in reducing the amount of work done to a minimum.

- ▼ The first science laboratory, 1894

Horticultural Contests

Each year the students conduct a Horticultural Contest open to all undergraduates. For this a prize has been established, furnished by the income from what is called the Conscience Fund, contributed by the class of 1520. The student who presents the most successful mustache receives first prize of fifty dollars, the next most successful one draws twenty-five plunkers. It is customary for the winners to pool the proceeds and go get a shave.

Social Life

The students are given as much liberty as any group could wish. The events of a social nature take place on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Friday, Saturday, and Sunday nights ONLY. They are under as much supervision as it is possible for one pair of chaperones to give a sixty-room "frat-house" or large hall.

Expenses

To provide a minor part of the expense of maintaining the cottage, for paying off the national debt, and building a canal across the middle portion of the U. S., the following fees are required:

- Tuition — $95 (will be asked for every two weeks)
- Athletic Fees — $20 (admits the student to $5.00 worth of games)
- Any other fees the faculty can think of will be charged.

COURSES

Astronomy—This course is designed to meet the needs of young ladies who are ordinarily caged in the "Dorm," and for their gentlemen friends. Laboratory exercises are held in pairs on any convenient park bench on a moonlit night.

Zoology—This course is recommended to meet the need of prospective butchers. Thorough training is given in dressing chickens (not in the latest styles tho'), killing cats, etc.

Chemistry, General—Advised for Frosh who wish to appear as high brows to the rest of the student body. There's Chemistry, Organic — This course is especially recommended for future bootleggers. A very detailed study of alcohol and antidote is given.

Economics—Learn to make one dollar answer for two (persons). Plan for the future. Let the events of the past guide the present.

▲ (above) Student body and faculty, 1907.

▲ Students try to flag down the "Hoodlebug," 1925.

► Pioneers in food.

Other courses improve the ability to express all sentiments in either poetry or prose.

Modern Languages—Necessary for all students desiring to put a few things over on his next door neighbor, and to be able to express his true thoughts at the same time.

History—A detailed, chronological record of all those few important events which have taken place outside of Houghton.

Mathematics—This course is to help all Freshmen to change their minds about majoring in Math. Required of all Frosh; but upperclassmen take it at their own risk.

Oratory—A good course to develop your lungs, learn some good stories, and attempt to cultivate your memory. Special attention given to farmers in the art of stopping horses by shouting, "Whoa!"

Music—Courses filled with thrills and trills. Runs down the keyboard very popular. Better penmanship developed by proper finger movements. Enjoyable courses; something doing all the time except during the rests.

Physics—A course filled with many an electric thrill. A successful completion of the course is a sufficient recommendation for a Ph.D. Credit—Seventy hours.

Sociology—All too short a time to become acquainted. Class association in the A.M. Special laboratory periods each afternoon and on certain designated evenings. Course growing rapidly. One must sign up in advance, not later than June 1st. See instructor for pre-requisite courses.

When I clung to all the present for the

*The history of Houghton is its faculty, those who continue teaching and those whose formal service in the classroom has ended. It is the professors emeriti who have built this college, for without people who cared about education, about students, about creating a Christian liberal arts college, we would not now be seeing Houghton into its 100th year.
Although they no longer teach formally, they continue to serve.*

To the emeriti faculty, we dedicate this Centennial Boulder.

INSTRUCTION.

In addition to the preparatory course, or common English branches, instruction will be given in all the branches that are usually included in the scientific and classical courses. We propose to give students as good advantages in Houghton Seminary as they can find anywhere in the State.

METHODS OF TEACHING.

Those methods of teaching will be adopted in every department of the institution, which will put the student in a way to help himself. Cramming the pupil full of mathematical principles and scientific deductions is not education. He will be taught to think—to think independently and for himself. We shall strive to make him conscious of his own ability to investigate and demonstrate.

GOVERNMENT.

The rules of the school will be enforced with firmness, yet such methods will be adopted as will secure a voluntary self-government. It is expected that students, while in attendance, will deport themselves as ladies and gentlemen. The following are the rules adopted:

REQUIREMENTS.

- 1st. Registry of names at the office on entering the school.
- 2nd. Adjustment of bills—one-half in advance, and the remainder at the middle of the term.
- 3rd. Strict observance of study hours.
- 4th. Attendance at church on the Sabbath.
- 5th. Punctual attendance upon all regular exercises.
- 6th. Attendance at chapel exercises.
- 7th. Observance of temporary prudential rules.
- 8th. Habits of good order and propriety at all times.
- 9th. Occupants of rooms shall be responsible for disorder in them, or injury to them.
- 10th. All excuses from duty are to be obtained before-hand, in all possible cases, and in no case must they be deferred later than the following Tuesday.

PROHIBITIONS.

- 1st. Unpermitted association of ladies and gentlemen.
- 2nd. Visiting, or receiving company on the Sabbath.
- 3rd. Smoking or chewing tobacco on the premises, or the use of all intoxicants, profane or obscene language.
- 4th. Attendance upon dancing, play parties, skating rinks, theatres, horse races, etc.
- 5th. All games of chance prohibited.
- 6th. Leaving school or town without permission.
- 7th. Dropping any study without consent of Principal.
- 8th. The use of gunpowder and explosives, and the carrying of fire arms.
- 9th. Visiting billiard saloons, drinking saloons, and kindred places.
- 10th. The organizing of secret societies among the students.

BOARDING.

Good board can be obtained in private families for $2.50 per week, rooms furnished. Students who wish to board themselves can find good rooms.

TUITION.

Tuition is put down very low to meet the pressure of hard times, and almost any one can, at these low prices, obtain an education.

Preparatory year, (which embraces all the common English branches,) per term of thirteen weeks, $4.00.

All higher branches per term, $6.00.

Students are required to pay at least a half term's tuition in advance.

DRAWING AND PAINTING.

A full course in Drawing and Painting will be given to those desiring. Freehand or Blackboard Drawing ought to be taken by every pupil, as it trains the eye and hand for the constant demand made on the scholar in the class room. The course in Freehand will be especially advantageous to those who are fitting themselves for teachers.

But he knows the way that I take;
when he has
tested me,
I will come forth
as gold.

Seniors

Four Years

from the 1925 Boulder

"Fled like the phantoms of a morning dream—
A strange, fair dream, and now the sun has risen,
And the day's work begun. Yet blame us not
If, while we gird ourselves, we linger still,
Wistfully musing over what we dreamed."

The four years of our sojourn in Houghton's halls have been critical years, not only in our lives but in the history of Houghton College. In a peculiar way the first two years "fled like phantoms of a morning dream" — the cherished dream of receiving our degree from Houghton College. Because of this hope, we, perhaps, as no other class, eagerly followed the last steps to the culmination of lifelong efforts in the attainment of the charter for Houghton College, which was granted in April 1923. While we can never fully realize what this achievement has cost in the sacrifice of individuals during the forty years of continual effort toward this goal, we feel especially indebted to President Luckey, the Faculty, and those who have gone before, who have made it possible for us, as the first graduating class, to call Houghton College our Alma Mater. The realization of this hope has held so much for those who entered in 1920, that eleven of that number have remained five years rather than receive their degrees from some other institutions. We have witnessed the steady progress which the college has made in all lines, and we believe that the ideals which have been held before us have become, to a large extent, our own ideals.

The adjustment to the educational policy of New York State has made it imperative for many of the Seniors to carry very heavy schedules, in addition to much outside work. As a consequence of this, our activities have not been as many or as varied as we desired them to be. In older colleges and universities, the Senior class has had the three preceding Senior classes as examples. As we are the first Senior class, we have found many problems to work out largely on our own initiative. Our attention has been engaged in part with the establishment of traditions, which it is customary to hand down from year to year. The Faculty have aided us in all these problems with lessons from their own experience. We first considered the matter of Senior privileges with the Faculty. Such as were consistent with the policy and administration of the school were granted.

Interspersed with our business activities have been those seasons when we gathered as one family group and learned to know each other as social beings. Though differing in age, temperament, and interest, we have a common meeting-ground, and there's a spirit in our midst that makes everyone feel at home. We are very grateful to the members of the Faculty and to the residents of Houghton, who made the pleasant occasions possible by inviting us to their homes. We are looking forward to the last few weeks that we will be privileged to spend in Houghton's halls, trusting they may bring enjoyment and mutual benefit from our associations . . .

And the great question that the harrassed Seniors hear reiterated by nearly everyone they meet takes some such forms as this, "What are you going to do next year?" And from the variety of answers, we conclude that there are among our number school teachers, ministers, lawyers, doctors, readers, and business men.

"The years will bring us, hastening to their goal,
A little more of calmness, and of trust,
With still the expectancy within the soul.
O Father, as we go to meet the years,
We ask not joy that fame or pleasure brings,
But some calm knowledge of the sum of things—
A hint of glory glimmering over tears;
That he, who walks with sanction from Thy hand,
Some token of its presence may have seen,
Beneath which we may tread the path serene,
Into the stillness of the unknown land."

Literary Societies

from the Houghton Star, Nov. 1, 1918

The Neosophic Society of Houghton Seminary was not established simply for a few minutes to be wasted or idly used, but for the same purpose that all other things in Houghton were brought forth — that we might better fit ourselves for the walks of life. No one can say that he does not need the practice in writing, reading, singing, or speaking, which this society affords. This society not only gives each one a chance to sit and listen to others, but it breathes within him a desire for nobility which has possessed the entire being of some worthy character who is quoted or read. Who can read or listen to the poems, readings, or essays of those men and women now have gone to the topmost round of the ladder, without hungering for a chance to follow them. Those great ones of the past were a few years ago at the bottom of the ladder availing themselves of every humble opportunity toward success. Can we, like Europeans, be content to live in the past? Let us make the present society one of high nobility and of great achievement.

*Now, I'm learning to fly
And this freedom is like Nothing that I've ever known.*

Yeats Festival

T.S. Eliot called William Butler Yeats the "greatest poet in this language, and so far as I am able to judge, in any language."

On November 5 and 6, Houghton celebrated the work of the Irish poet and playwright. The Yeats Festival included a lecture by Notre Dame scholar Lynn Thiesmeyer, a student-faculty poetry reading and the performance of two plays.

young john wesley

... in the midst of today's growing appreciation of Wesley not only as a revivalist but as theologian, this composer wishes earnestly that Wesley's contribution be felt by all believers. How may an opera serve this wish? The composer has chosen to show Wesley as a young man, vulnerable, changeable, increasingly concerned with the state of his soul. It is hoped that he be seen to be likeable, donnish, engaging, smug, exasperating — in short, that he be seen as a man; and by means of such a view, that he excite our sympathy and, yes, our love. To love a man is to wish to know him more.

— William Allen

WINTER WEEKEND 1983

Winter Festival '83 was created to involve varieties of groups within the campus. The theme "Cats" brought a week of "Feline, Fun, and Frolic." The committee — Mark Leavitt, Steve Lindahl, and John Yarbrough, attempted to bring about a relaxing week of activities to create school spirit and promote friendship. Steve Jones, escorted by Kim Zahn, was elected Snow King for Saturday evening's banquet.

Graduation

- ▲ Presentation of the class gift by the Class of 1983 President Doug Geeze to President Chamberlain.
- Charles Colson gave the Commencement Address, "Lessons from Wesley, 1983."

▲ Bessie Gilmore, the oldest graduate of Houghton College, received her diploma with her granddaughter Laurie Fiegl, also a 1983 graduate.

The Houghton STAR

"The Gleam of The Star." February 1909.

We need not go far beyond the circle of the brilliant rays cast by the great arclight of Modern History to find a world without a printed page. The production of books in any form was so expensive that their possession was limited to the wealthy. Knowledge, the chariot of progress, drove most heavily for as yet no wheels had been fitted to it. But the mind of invention, ever alert to the needs of the hour, made such a condition remain a fact of Medieval History. With the introduction of the printing press, a new order of things began. Today, the statement made so long ago is doubly true, "Of the making of many books, there is no end."

▲ Male Quartet, an early extension group, 1911.

◀ The Philomathean Society.

We can no longer wait for the slow arrival of the daily paper, but, hour by hour the additions fall from the great presses almost at our doors. When we see long trains running here and there, loaded with mail for a million reading tables, it seems almost an imposition to increase the burden of literature that those tables are bearing. Indeed, it is little less than an imposition unless that which is sent forth has a mission and it is only the consciousness of a mission that gives us courage to place before the public "The Houghton Star."

It may be that no great astronomers will advance and contest the claim of first noting our appearance. Yet may it not be that this "Star" will influence the thought of the world as much or at least play as great a part in shaping the destiny of the world as have some of those distant points of light whose discovery has created so much emotion among scientists.

We may not know the exact character of the star which the magi followed, but we do know that as they journeyed from the East, guided by its rays, they found in a little village the world's great Teacher. If there are wise ones today, from the East, West, North or South, who will follow the gleam of this "Star," they will find in a little village among the hills of Western New York some of the followers of that Teacher, teaching yet the great truths which He gave to the world. They will find a new life beginning; they will find swinging open before them doors of possibility and opportunity of which they never dreamed, doors that no man but themselves can shut.

Hints on Handling the Faculty

The Houghton Star March 15, 1918

The faculty is a constant source of study. Some students study them more than their text books for if once the instructor's character is puzzled out they don't need to study the text book so much. What emotional feelings those teachers inspire; sometimes wonder, frequently amusement, and very often anger. In passing, it should be noticed that an experienced hand soon learns that it never pays to become angry at a member of the faculty.

There is a type of student who doesn't need to handle the faculty thus. Such have no need for it for they are the "goody-goody" kind. They always have their lessons, they never disturb others, they never annoy others, they always pay strict attention, — and you know the rest.

Then there is the opposite; the ones who work harder to get out of their lessons than it would be to get them. They lay awake nights making up stories to tell the faculty after they have skipped classes and then worry themselves sick wondering when they will be found out. These belonging to this class are often very clever while others simply try to be so. They study the weaknesses of each member of the faculty. They learn their hobbies. They try above all things to get and then to keep on the right side of each of them. They usually know better than to tell all they know, choosing as their motto, "what folks don't know won't hurt them." The deans get many special attentions. Boxes of candy, hunks of lemon pie, and other sweets are not rare articles among these worthy people especially before some entertainment. A little personal illustration will vividly picture to you a very common means of handling the deans and other members of the faculty as well. When I first came to Houghton, I was a good example of the type who delighted in breaking rules but was terribly afraid of the consequences; so much that I very seldom indulged. One day, however, yielding to temptation, I went auto riding. Everything went fine until upon returning to Houghton, who should we meet but the dean! I was more than frightened and so rushed to one of my friends for consolation. She immediately said, "That's simple. Become penitent, get the 'weeps,' and go confess to the dean." More than one, I believe, has found this policy successful. It is really the best way in the long run for "truth will out" and so I advise this method in preference to others.

I might write page after page on this topic for each person has his own way to handling the faculty. However, I advise each of my readers not to borrow from the experience of others but to learn for himself. Experience is the best teacher.

Underclass

Hints for Freshmen

Freshmen who are just entering upon the duties of college life should carefully observe the following rules:

1. When in the library, always whisper to your neighbors and do your studying in a loud tone of voice. In this way you can also practice oratory and elocution. This method has been successfully tried in China for several hundred years. After reading books or periodicals please scatter them around the room; the librarian is paid for keeping them in order, and will appreciate these small tokens of your affection. Throwing paper wads and pencil shavings on the floor will also help Mr. Elliot in performing his duties as janitor. Remember that he, too, is hired for just this kind of work.

2. If any freshman should desire to be brought prominently before the public, he can accomplish this by smoking cigarettes, swearing, dancing or playing pool and cards.

3. In case of receiving a call from the dean or any other member of the faculty, the following method has never failed to bring results: If it is a cold night and the dean is expected the next day, pour several buckets of water on the steps. While he is ascending them the next morning, throw a bucketful of very warm water and a hungry bulldog from an upper window. This will help in making a warm reception, and if you should happen to come down the stairs in time to save his life, he would doubtlessly feel exceedingly grateful and would deal very leniently with your case, even if you had broken some of the rules above.

4. When a rival to whom you are diametrically opposed is strolling around the campus with the choice of his heart, try this: Secure a good supply of snowballs, rotten apples or stale eggs and waylay them. Be careful not to get cold storage eggs for the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals might interfere, and besides, poultry of any description are forbidden to trespass on the school premises. This method has always succeeded in the case of umpires, so we see no reason why it should not prove effective in a case of this character.

5. If you should be fortunate enough to secure a position as waiter you will have many opportunities to display the versatility of your talents, and to enliven the conversation at luncheon hour. Here are some of the most common ways to procure these ends: Dropping a tray loaded with pie, pudding, coffee or similar articles of diet; spilling a pitcher of water down the neck of your hostess and sitting on two legs of your chair during after-supper devotional exercises, and then losing your equilibrium. There are numerous other amusements in which experienced waiters engage, but by watching and practicing them, you, too, may become an adept in their use. Diners can also help in preventing this hour from becoming dull, occasionally tipping over a glass of water, and by putting their elbows in their neighbor's sauce or pie.

6. These hints are given especially for the freshmen because we always do things vice versa and, on the other hand, the higher classes would scorn to follow advice given to the verdant freshies.

Sports

The writer can still see throngs of students hiking through all sorts of weather to the vacated school building on "Old Sem Hill," to indulge in an unsystematized, unregulated, yet tolerable, basketball combat. Combats they were in truth as some less fortunate always emerged with all appearances of having met a formidable foe. Many readers may no doubt retrospect upon those days with a sense of satisfaction, but we must all admit that such contests represented excitement ordinarily accruing from a foot race or a snowball fight. It was sport, but sport for the sake of beating someone else by sheer Herculean methods. To the victor belonged the spoil. I can still recall one brawny lad who always wormed out, literally carrying his opponents down the floor to defeat. I can, also, sense the chagrin of approaching zero as a limit because of his mighty onrushes.

Time, however, has brought its changes. Houghton has caught the vision of other schools in recognizing the attention and needs of athletics as forming a fundamental part of mental development, and has now a systematized plan. The best qualified contestants are picked in basketball, baseball, tennis, track and field to represent their respective color, "Purple," or "Gold." These representatives always do honor to their supporters and to the school. Many remarkable records have been made which are shown in tabulated form under track and field. The contests are played as sport for sport's sake; courage, fairness, honesty, cheerfulness, initiative, and courtesy regulate our athletes in these friendly encounters.

Thus a bigger vision for physical education in Houghton has transformed the rough and tumble basketball, the back door baseball, and the crude field meets into a systematized and efficient organization. We believe there are still greater visions ahead, but do not care to speculate on what changes the future will bring to our athletics. Suffice it to say that our present system is almost as thrilling and beneficial as intercollegiate contests. In fact, our athletic standard of efficiency, is so high as to secure respect and honor in the display of our official letters on the breasts of successful contestants. Too much credit cannot be given to the regulation of a scholastic clause which requires all our athletes to make a passing grade in every subject and an average grade of 70%. Since our sports must be unique, we have worked out a corresponding system which is appealing to the athletic desires and is intellectually profitable to each and every student.

At the time of this writing, only the basketball series has been completed. These contests proved to be the best in the history of Houghton athletics. Both teams played a hard, fast, and generally consistent game. Unlike intercollegiate athletics, we do not see that kind of insanity which bids fair to ruin the interest of people who love to see fair play. We believe that our contests should build for character; teach patience, grit and courage. We trust that Houghton athletics shall never see these fundamentals of character development sacrificed at the price of a mere desire to win. The challenge is ours. Let us maintain its standard at all cost.

Men's Soccer

The soccer team closed this season with a winning record of 10-7-1. The highlight of the team's season was the outstanding play in the Elizabethtown College Tournament where Houghton played the best three games of the season.

The team's most valuable player, Dan Ortlip, scored 13 goals and had 7 assists to lead the team in scoring. Dan was named to the New York State All-American Division III team and to the MacDonald's N.A.I.A. All American team. Ken Eckman did an excellent job at goal, allowing an average on only 1 goal per game.

According to Coach Burke, this year's soccer team was an excellent team and the prospects for 1983 are bright.

Women's Soccer

While the women's soccer team was young and lacked experience on the intercollegiate level, the lady Highlanders surprised many opponents as well as the home crowd by completing a .500 season and tallying an impressive 31 goals. Coached by Bob Smalley and Mark Eckler, the team's skills improved and Christian sportsmanship was exemplified.

Through much dedication and spirit, the women learned about perseverance from Devil's Back, endurance from last minute victories, and unification from playing on the Lord's team.

Under the leadership of captains Cindy Wright and Noel Fleming, the team gained the community's acceptance and support. Highlighting the season was the 2-1 victory over Buffalo State University.

*If you can't be a pine on the top of the hill,
Be a scrub in the valley — but be
The best little scrub by the side of the hill;
Be a bush if you can't be a tree.*

Field Hockey

The Field Hockey season closed with a record of 12 wins and 5 losses. The highlights of the season were Houghton's 2-1 victory over Notre Dame and the 3-0 win over Oswego.

The old record of 22 goals scored in a season was broken by Rebecca Thorn who scored 32 goals, and Lori Capone added 23. Denise Smith tied the record for the most shut-outs in a season with 4 and allowed only 1.31 goals against per game.

The season proved to be very exciting and rewarding. The women had a real desire to play for Jesus Christ and this drew favorable remarks from Christian and secular opponents.

Cross Country

This year's Cross Country team, led by co-captains Rob Coy and Colleen Manningham, compiled a 5-5 record in dual meets. At the N.C.C.A.A. District meet, the men came in third place and the women in fourth place. Both teams, men and women, qualified for the N.A.I.A. Nationals and competed in Kenosha, Wisconsin.

They are a young team and look forward to more improvement each year.

The Buffalo Campus Celebrates
Houghton's Centennial

▼ The Suburban Campus Float in the Homecoming parade.

▲ Madrigal Dinner performed at the Buffalo Campus by the Main Campus Students.

◀ Mayor James Griffin of Buffalo taking part in the festivities.

“Since 1969, when Buffalo Bible Institute merged with Houghton College, the Buffalo Surburban Campus has offered a two-year liberal arts program with special emphasis on Christian ministries and the behavioral sciences.

A strong developmental studies program has recently been initiated to supplement the two-year program. Another feature is a broad series of practicum experiences in the city for students in Christian service, sociology, psychology, education and business administration."

SO I SAID, OF COURSE THERE AREN'T ENOUGH NEW MISSIONARIES. THEY'VE BEEN SCARED OFF BY ALL THAT TALK ABOUT TAKING A GREAT LEAP OF FAITH, AND PLUNGING INTO THE UNKNOWN.... HOW DO YOU EXPECT ORDINARY MORTALS TO DO THAT ?

AND HE SAID,
ONE STEP
AT A TIME.

TO TAKE THAT FIRST STEP, CONTACT:

*A thing of beauty
is a joy forever;
Its loveliness increases;
it will never pass
into nothingness.*

—John Keats

*Because we love something else more than this world
we love even this world better than those who know no other.*

—C. S. Lewis

*Then felt I like some watcher
of the skies
when a new planet
swims into his ken.*

—Jon Keats

*In the depth of winter,
I finally learned that within me lay
an invincible summer.*

—Albert Camus

The past is but the beginning of a beginning, and all that is and has been is but the twilight of the dawn.

—H. G. Wells

*There's an angel standing in the sun
And he's crying in a loud voice,
"This is the supper of the Mighty One."
Lord of Lords, King of Kings
Has returned to lead his children home
To take them to the New Jerusalem.*
