Houghton College admits students of any race, color, national or ethnic origin. The college does not discriminate on these bases, or on the basis of sex in any college administered program.

Dear Editor:

Recently a local high school senior became a Christian. She has been active in modern and chance dance and mime, this summer winning a scholarship to Pennsylvania Governor's School of Arts. However, as a new believer, she sees little appreciation or participation in these fields from the general Christian community and is somewhat baffled.

The MILIEU article on Catherine Sevier and mime is a ray of hope! I would like Ms. Sevier to send information on such Christian groups or even on Christian colleges with a major in dance (is there such a place?).

I say, bless Houghton for including this course [mime]. This girl is interested in dance, music (flute) and nursing as a career—is bright and talented and marvelous material to be a Christian artist. Help us please!

Pauline Fox '62

Food for thought: A check with admissions failed to show any Christian colleges with such offerings and MILIEU forwarded the letter to Ms. Sevier in California. —Editor

COVER: Developing capacities for teamwork, teaching the satisfaction of shared accomplishment and encouraging servant/leaders are components of Christian community which Houghton seeks to foster in the '80s.

Members of the college's winning soccer team were among the scores of new students to work their way through the college's acclaimed year-old initiatives course during the first days of classes. Individual and group efforts are required by the course's 17 obstacle/challenges. Scaling the wall emphasizes strategy and cooperation.

Applying the lessons learned on the course in academic disciplines and life situations now becomes the larger task.

Some Summer Things

On July 26 Houghton College held an all-day auction of items stored in three warehouses—the former Breyer milk plant, district school house and recreation hall. Furniture, fabric, kitchen equipment, musical instruments, a truck—all were objects of eager bidding that netted the college $5,500. Too, the milk plant building was sold.

In the crowd observing the auction was Harriet Meeker, Class of '16, back in Houghton for the first time in 30 years. A retired teacher from Succasunna, NJ, she was visiting her onetime pupil, emeritus art professor Marjorie Stockin. During her visit Miss Meeker showed me the World War I memorial to her brother Harry, William Russell and Curtis Rogers—all alumni killed in that conflict. Three now giant hemlocks stand silent tribute to their sacrifice. Made a note to recommend formal demarcation of the trees at the October centennial planning committee.

Officially representing the college among the many students in ministry over the summer was Son Touched, which completed its eighth tour—8,000 miles, 54 concerts in 48 churches before nearly 8,000 people. Group founder and Church Relations director Ralph Biesecker called the tour the best ever. Nine member Malachi, on its first outing, journeyed 5,000 miles to 31 churches and reached 3,000 people. Both groups overnights in homes, another outreach.

This fall Biesecker is working with a group of 140 students interested in outreach to form several new teams for ministry this year. He also hopes to field an athletic team for camps next summer.

MILIEU urges you to read President Chamberlain's 1980 report which follows. Together with an overview of the year's activities is a listing of those who contributed financially to the college's operations last year. The lists are as accurate as computer records and careful hand-checking can make them.

1980 PRESIDENT'S REPORT

Houghton College

Introduction/Academics/Alumni/Buffalo Suburban Campus/Business/Institutional Advancement/Student Development

"Houghton strives to provide the models, the knowledge and the understanding essential for students to recognize and develop every aspect of what it means to be human—body, soul, mind and spirit."

Education with Unity and Purpose

In the third century the Carthaginian Christian theologian Tertullian asked "What has Athens to do with Jerusalem, the Academy with the Church?" He answered his own question by stating "We have no need for curiosity since Jesus Christ, nor for inquiry since Evangel." Sixteen centuries later John Henry Cardinal Newman took the opposite position when he asserted in The Idea of a University, "... all branches of knowledge are connected together because the subject-matter of knowledge is intimately united in itself as being the acts and the work of the Creator."

Houghton College insists along with many other Christian liberal arts colleges that Tertullian was wrong and Newman was right. Houghton affirms a long tradition which insists that it is appropriate and necessary that Christians pursue knowledge with assurance that such a pursuit can enhance our understanding of God and all that He has created.

Today many schools place great emphasis upon specialized and vocational education. The basic question such institutions pose in developing their curriculum and their courses is "What can the learner do with the information and the knowledge we provide?" The liberal arts college instead asks the question: "What will all this knowledge and information do to the learner?" As a Christian liberal arts college Houghton strives to provide the models, the knowledge and the understanding essential for students to recognize and develop every aspect of what it means to be human—body, soul, mind and spirit.

Addison Leitch in his essay A Christian View of Man captures much of the meaning and the method of the Christian liberal arts college when he states:

"This dust of the earth has to do with many of the subjects we teach - math and physics, economics and sociology for example, and I mean no minimization at this point. And you cannot teach Christian physics any more than you can teach blue mathematics. They are their own justified disciplines but there is a difference here in a Christian college; it is a question of the dust of the earth being inbreathed with the breathe of God. Is there any inspiration - about ends as well as means, about meanings, truth pointing to the Truth, about the wonder to be found everywhere? Higher physics and higher math will push a man into philosophy if only in a consideration of what he is doing really and why . . . it is very dangerous to try to make a Bible course out of physics or even of biology, but Christian liberal arts colleges can do two things in any discipline; they can hire Christian teachers and they then make living Christianity a live option . . . The advantage of the Christian college is that while choices are being made Christianity can be intelligently presented as one of the options."

This annual report includes information about people and programs and projects combining to create a climate that will help students grow in their commitment to Christ and in their concept of what it means to be scholar-servants.

Academics

Under Dr. Shannon's capable leadership curriculum is constantly added to or revised.

During the past year the faculty identified a need for improving student advisement. Mathematics Professor Fred Parker coordinated the development of responses to this need, signally the introduction of a mentor program. This program will guarantee each freshman an advisor who will be concerned about helping him or her understand all aspects of college life and participate fully in the wide range of opportunities available. Mentor activities will be closely coordinated with that of other faculty advisors who provide curriculum guidance. The program will also provide students additional information and assistance in selecting and entering careers. We anticipate that these improvements will increase student satisfaction and performance and so improve retention.

Since 1936, Houghton College has offered art courses. Ortlip family members introduced visual arts here and laid a firm foundation for the major approved last year by faculty, trustees and the State Education Department. Already the art major has attracted seven students and it promises to help Houghton recruit and retain many additional students in the future.

Added to the science program was a computer minor. Students now have access to additional courses in computer science and 10 computer terminals are used regularly by those minoring in computer science, along with students in other disciplines. The search continues for a faculty member with specialized computer training and experience.

Last Spring the Carnahan-Jackson Foundation of Jamestown, NY, approved Houghton's proposal for a $50,000 grant to improve audio-visual facilities and equipment with special attention to upgrading the television studio. That grant has been used to acquire new color equipment and the studio is being completed. These facilities will enhance educational opportunities for communication students and will enable the college to prepare video tapes for educational and promotional purposes.

Each year the National Science Foundation funds a limited number of student research projects at colleges and universities nationwide. Last year six Houghton students were honored when their project researching the antiseptic activity of silver electrolytes was selected for funding. Their work, guided by Professor Larry Christensen, has been productive and we anticipate that the project will receive continued funding leading to publication of several professional papers.

Houghton graduates continue to be admitted in large numbers to some of America's finest graduate-professional schools in theology, medicine and law, plus a wide range of other graduate schools in the 34 majors Houghton offers.

We applaud the outstanding work of Richard Alderman, Wayne MacBeth and the entire admissions staff. Their efforts, with major assistance from faculty, students and staff, produced a 22% increase in applications and the largest group of new students to enter Houghton for more than a decade.

Alumni

Throughout the past academic year Colonel Silas Molyneaux served as Alumni Association President and Dr. William Tromble continued to provide administrative leadership and assistance to the association.

For the first time in its history, Houghton had a separate annual alumni fund appeal this past year. Alumnus Chet Rudd was the national chairman for this drive and he was assisted by some 150 alumni volunteers. Their efforts produced nearly $65,000. This annual alumni fund will support the alumni office expenses related to the fund itself. Additional monies will be applied to the current funds of the college, though in unusual circumstances the Alumni Board may identify a specific project as their choice.

In July the summer alumni weekend theme was It's About Time. Besides the sessions devoted to time use, highlights included special recognition and anniversary classes. The 300 alumni participating, enjoyed an antique auto show as well as an auction which included the sale of bricks from Bedford gym. (To be distributed after Bedford is demolished!)

Chapter meetings are one of the major activities of the alumni association. Thirty-six chapters help alumni keep informed about current campus happenings and provide opportunities for renewing personal friendships and shared college memories. Six Chapters have provided scholarship support, either for international students or for students from their own geographic area.

Most importantly alumni show their loyalty by urging their children to attend Houghton. Last year and again this fall, half a hundred new students were children of alumni.

Returned alumni from the Class of '60 greet former Dean of Women Bessie Rennick at Summer Alumni Weekend reception.

Buffalo Campus

Dr. Ronald Strumbeck is in his fourth year as Buffalo Suburban Campus Dean. Under his leadership the Continuing Education program has grown rapidly and the number of regular and full time students has also increased. Last year that increase was almost 10 percent over the previous year. Enrollment approached 400 students in the regular Continuing Education Program. Another 600 additional individuals attended special "Walk Through The Bible" seminars.

During 1979-80 Buffalo Suburban Campus cooperated with five other area colleges in offering a college course by educational television. While enrollment was small the course brought Houghton College to the attention of many people in metropolitan Buffalo and has served as the basis for increasing educational television offerings this year. The number of student teachers and business interns from the main campus based at Buffalo increased significantly. This traffic helped increase use of dormitories and produced income from auxiliary services there.

A Ten For Ten Thousand fund raising plan was introduced at Buffalo campus. Using volunteers from the metropolitan area and assistance from the main campus, the program achieved its first real goal of raising $10,000 to support Buffalo campus current expenses. It also laid a foundation for volunteer organization which will benefit the campus in the future.

The Buffalo campus budget remains a challenge and concern as we again had a modest deficit. These deficits are declining and the value of the campus is increasing. Too, we are within two years of liquidating the capital debt. Consequently we will be able to operate that campus with a balanced budget if we achieve another 10 percent enrollment increase there.

The Buffalo campus can help Houghton College to serve the greater Buffalo area effectively, while offering enormous potential for enriching and enlarging the educational options available to students at the main campus. In 1980-81 we will seek to capitalize upon these opportunities.

Business

Treasurer and Business Manager Kenneth Nielsen and those who report to him are responsible for budget preparation and control, management of auxiliary enterprises, maintenance of buildings and grounds, endowment investment and supervision or representation of the college in renovation and construction projects.

This past year projects have been finished and others are nearing completion in each of the above categories. The Fancher Hall renovation project was completed last March at a cost of almost $249,000. Over the summer a modern, well-equipped Health Center has been built in the basement of East Hall, a CETA grant of $248,000 helping to finance much of this addition. A gas well was completed and lines have been installed enabling Houghton to use its gas to heat five campus buildings. The $175,000 cost of this project was met by grants from the Department of Energy and the New York State Energy Department.

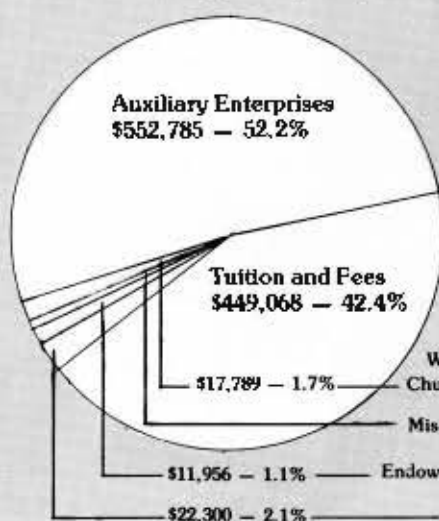

The new physical education center was the most challenging and time consuming capital project this year. College trustee and contractor, Lawrence Olson, proposed a pre-engineered building which enabled the college to save a million dollars compared with the cost of a conventionally constructed building. Even at this reduced cost we have been able to retain the teaching stations and the recreational facilities of the original plan. Robert Fiegl, as the construction superintendent, and Kenneth Nielsen, as the college representative have worked carefully with Mr. Olson to help the college obtain a building that will add enormously to curricular and co-curricular campus activities. We eagerly anticipate the dedication of this center on October 11.

Of potential long-range value to the college was the creation of the Willard Houghton Foundation to increase the flexibility of the college in receiving gifts and making investments for Houghton benefit.

Despite careful cost controls by most departments last year, the college incurred deficit of more than $50,000. For 1980-81 we have projected a surplus which will offset last year's deficit. Achieving this goal will require universal adherence to budgets plus God's blessing and help in meeting fund raising goals. Especially important will be additional major gifts for the gymnasium so that the college can avoid adding building debt service to the current fund budget.

1959-60 Budget $1,059,656

1979-80 Budget $5,997,950

The graphs above show where Houghton income dollars come from and point out the growing emphasis on tuition. Experts say tuition should constitute no more than one third of a college's budget.

Institutional Advancement

1974-80 was Dr. George Huff's fourth and final year as Executive Director of Institutional Advancement. Though he has retired, I am pleased that Dr. Huff will continue part-time as a deferred giving counselor. Again last year giving for all purposes—current funds, restricted gifts and capital projects—exceeded $1,000,000. Of that amount nearly $400,000 was for the new physical education center.

As the word "development" suggests, certain aspects of obtaining necessary financial support for Houghton require long-term cultivation, but their eventual impact is crucial. For example, during the past year the development office held several estate planning seminars to help people achieve Christian stewardship goals in planning their estate distribution. Out of these sessions nine individuals requested assistance in preparing wills that included Houghton. Others may have taken similar action without our knowledge or assistance. The eventual impact of such activity is illustrated by two estates closed this past academic year. One will provide music scholarships in memory of Dr. Robert W. Woods while the Werder estate has made a significant contribution to the construction of the physical education center.

For some people gifts in kind are most attractive and beneficial to the support of Houghton. During the past year major gifts in this category have helped in the completion of the Fancher Hall project, the new health center and especially the new gymnasium in which the plywood subfloor was provided by trustee John Mervine and the hard maple floors for the racquetball courts and the gymnasium were provided by businessmen Don Meyers and John Yansick. A major unitrust was also consummated during the year.

The most eloquent evidence of the success of the various development efforts is the listing of the thousands of alumni, other friends and organizations who supported the ministry of Houghton College in 1979-80. Broad based individual support—often sacrificial—is essential, both for the significant total it produces and for the gifts it enables us to attract from major donors, foundations and corporations.

Dr. Huff's anticipated resignation led to a lengthy search for his successor. After identifying and interviewing many candidates, Dr. Jon Balson was chosen as Executive Director of External Affairs. His modified title indicates an administrative reorganization in which the efforts of all those responsible for external affairs will be coordinated through Dr. Balson's office. I believe this modified structure will facilitate cooperation among and between these offices and so increase their effectiveness. Further strengthening the development effort has been the addition of Mr. Deyo Montanye to direct government relations and Mr. David Jack to direct an expanded phoneathon for current fund giving.

The creation of the Willard J. Houghton Foundation (mentioned earlier) will complement the President's Advisory Council on Excellence (PACE), which continues to grow in stature and effectiveness. PACE through its group sessions or its individual members has provided helpful ideas about programs, facilities and financial support.

Student Development

Dr. Charles Massey has given creative and effective leadership to the Student Development office which, while it appears last alphabetically in this report, is a central and crucial part of Houghton College Life.

This office worked closely and carefully with the business office to plan the new health center and cooperated with the physical education department to develop policies and procedures for the use of the new gymnasium.

As a liberal arts college Houghton rightfully stresses the overall development of its students. However, an important and legitimate concern of students are the jobs they will have while studying at Houghton, as well as the careers they may enter upon graduation. To meet this need a Job locator Program was established to assist students in finding summer employment. It is a significant addition to the total services offered by the Career Development Center.

A major activity and accomplishment of the student development council was the creation of a new judicial system. Its elements relate to dormitory life as well as to campus standards of conduct. Procedures and structures which have been approved by the faculty and the Board of Trustees include improved means for maintaining and enforcing the standards of the college while protecting the rights of individuals, striking a healthy balance between informal campus procedures and a highly technical, complicated judicial system.

Last year a new chapel seating and attendance taking procedure was implemented. Faculty and staff sit with groups of 12 to 15 students whose attendance they record. This encourages greater contact among faculty, staff and students and provides a more personal approach to dealing with chapel attendance problems—another example of continuing efforts to keep Houghton a warm, human and personal place.

The Student Development office with assistance from Conferences Director Barbara Hora, designed, advertised and implemented an Elderhostel program. This program which brings senior citizens to campus was very well received and we anticipate further expansion.

Wanted: 1,400 Missing Persons

Scores of alumni addresses become obsolete annually, mostly through unannounced moves. In July MILIEU began systematic presentation of the unknown list, hoping other readers could help the college secure current addresses. More than a dozen new addresses were subsequently received and we seek your continued help with these names listed alphabetically by class.

Winning Ways Continue for Soccer

The Highlander Soccer Squad has taken up where it left off last season—winning. After posting an 18-2-1 record and NCCAA National Championship, the Highlanders are off and running with three wins.

The season opener with Biola of California gave a real scare to the Highlander crowd as Biola dominated the early going and led most of the first half. Then Jon Ortlip lifted a nice pass which Doug Johnson headed over the outstretched goalie and James MODOZIE eased the ball in for the score. Brian Davidson with an assist from MODOZIE netted the winner and Peter Roman iced it with another to make the final 3-1.

The first road trip found the going a little easier as Houghton posted two shutouts. Baptist Bible fell 5-0 as Kevin Austin got his first shutout. Davidson picked up two goals in less than two minutes followed with goals by MODOZIE and Johnson—all in the first half. The 2-1 win over Barrington the next day again saw Coach Burke empty his bench. MODOZIE and Davidson scored.

Junior Brian Davidson is leading scorer with 4 goals while James MODOZIE, the newest of the Nigerian Connection, has 3. Senior Kevin Austin and Junior Doug Johnson have looked very good in the early going. All American Peter Fuller and Jon Ortlip are heading up a defense that is stingy. Only time will tell if the Highlanders can match last year but the prospect is exciting.

WITNESSES THROUGH SPORT

Four Highlanders joined other teams for the summer to use soccer as an evangelizing tool. Peter Fuller and Jon Ortlip traveled in the Mid-East and Europe with Soccer Friends while Bob Wieland and Mark Eckler traveled to Central America and the Caribbean with Sports Ambassadors.

Soccer Friends had the better record of 8-2-2 playing teams in Israel, Jordan, Holland, West Germany, and Austria.

One of their major wins was over the number one team in Jordan 1-0. The soccer and fellowship was good, but as Peter Fuller was careful to point out, "Our number one goal was to evangelize." Bob Wieland also emphasized that while Sports Ambassadors' record was not that good, "it was one of the best spiritual trips with over 100 decisions for the Lord being made."

Campus News

Seven Join Faculty

Houghton College Academic Dean Dr. Frederick Shannon has announced six new faculty appointments at the Allegany County campus.

Friendship (NY) Central School Principal 1973-1980, Dr. Willis Beardsley, Class of 1960, becomes Associate Professor of Education. He holds an Ed.D. 1978 from SUNY at Buffalo. Miss Mary Conklin, M.A. 1974 SUNY at Binghamton, returns as Assistant Professor of Sociology after a three-year leave of absence to complete residency requirements for a Ph.D. in sociology at Johns Hopkins University. Mr. Richard Smiley, 1977 M.A. Concordia Seminary, is Assistant Professor of Christian Education; he had pastored the Chapel of Dunes in Gary, IN since 1978.

On the faculty of Toccoa Falls (GA) College since 1975, Mr. Charles Bres-ler, M.S. 1974 University of Scranton, assumes new duties as Assistant Professor of English. Doctoral candidate in organ at Eastman School of Music, Mr. John C. Stowe will serve as Interim Assistant Professor of Organ while completing degree requirements. Mr. Ben King, 1974 M.M. Texas Tech University, becomes Assistant Professor of Voice; he previously taught at Nicholls State University, Thibodaux, LA.

Dr. Jon C. Balson will be Executive Director of External Affairs (see President's Report photo). A 1968 Houghton graduate, he earned his M.A. and Ph.D. in linguistics from the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill. Most recently development officer for Monell Chemical Senses Center at the University of Pennsylvania, he earlier taught German at the American School in London, England and at Chapel Hill. Balson is also a former grant coordinator for Cumberland County, NJ, and congressional aide to Representative William Hughes of New Jersey.

Enrollment Hits 1,200

With 436 new students admitted at the main campus and 132 attending at Buffalo, Houghton's enrollment is at a six-year high. Forty-five freshmen earned state regents scholarships and five are merit scholars. Women comprise 60 percent of enrollment and 146 students commute. Here 701 of the 1,140 students are New Yorkers, but 35 states and 10 foreign countries are represented.

Though 12 students transferred to main campus this fall, Buffalo's enrollment is up nearly 16 percent with even male/female distribution. Fifty-nine new suburban campus students are freshmen.

Main campus frosh number 357, accompanied by a record 116 transfers. Since there are only 218 seniors, odds appear good for a main campus enrollment next fall over the 1,200 mark for the first time in years. Another factor/goal in achieving that level will be improved student retention. (See President's Report, page 4).

Forty-eight seniors are student teaching in 15 western New York school systems—30 in elementary education, 5 in secondary schools and 7 in music. Six main campus students are participating in business internships in metro Buffalo.

Summer Conferences

Last summer the college hosted 21 conferences, 300 overnight vacationers/guests and participated in the national Elderhostel program.

Conference size ranged from 1,000 United Methodists to a 12-member Canadian family reunion. Cheerleading camps, church retreats, academic conferences and two daily public school recreation programs were some others.

Since the mid-'70s 300 colleges in 38 states have joined to offer Elderhostel—"vacation with a purpose for those over 60." Forty-five persons attended Houghton's initial five-day session in August. Drs. Stockin and Munro interacted with attendees over "Hot Issues in Bioethics" and "What's in a Word", and Dr. Gillette offered historical lectures. Elderhostelers attended a community youth play, visited Letchworth Park and participated in sports and socials coordinated by emeriti professor Alice Pool.

For details about next year's two Elderhostels planned here, contact conference director Barbara Hora at Houghton. Actual registration is made in February through Elderhostel, 100 Boylston St., Suite 200, Boston, MA 02116.

Half the college's gas needs may be met by the new well as treasurer Nielsen opens valve.

Gas Well Tapped

Fourteen months after Houghton College drilled an experimental gas well near its Stebbins Playing Fields, tests are complete. US Department of Energy and New York State Energy Resource Development officials call the well "above average" for its type, the valve opening ceremony is history and gas is flowing to five college buildings—Shenawana and East Hall residences, the new physical education center, Fine Arts and old Health Center. That's half of the college's needs.

Drilling and testing cost $168,207 essentially paid for by the two agencies. Tests showed a daily yield of 135,000 cubic feet at 250 pounds pressure. Devonian shale, the source of the gas in Houghton's well (see MILIEU, June 1979) covers much of New York's Southern Tier, and there is hope that wells similar to this one can reduce regional dependence on foreign sources.

Houghton must reimburse NYSERDA first year savings on gas, benefits thereafter accruing to the college. Treasurer Kenneth Nielsen, who spearheaded the project, says savings will be realized in 18 months.

Profs. McCallum, Hegberg Resign

Professor of Psychology since 1967, Dr. Floyd F. McCallum left in August to become Professor of Psychology at John Wesley College and Minister of Counseling at First Wesleyan Church, High Point, NC. In addition to teaching responsibilities, he will oversee the college's accounting procedures and offer a variety of counseling services through the church. Feeling "the Lord wants us to do this," he explained the new post permits him to continue his two major emphases—counseling and teaching—and adds the opportunity to preach. "All three areas of ministry will be available to me as long as I'm physically, mentally and emotionally able to serve—about as good a setup as you can have for retirement!"

Dr. McCallum views his Houghton years as ones of fulfilling counseling and teaching ministry—"The Lord enabled us to advance the psychology department in terms of numbers and strength and accomplish something worthwhile here." "Houghton is a good place to serve; we had planned to live here til retirement until this opportunity arose." McCallums will move into the Wesleyan Arms Apartments, the retirement center in the High Point Wesleyan complex incorporating grade school, nursing care facility, day care center, church and college.

Dr. Susan Hegberg, Associate Professor of organ last year, has accepted a similar post at Susquehanna University, Selinsgrove, PA.

RIES SCHOLARSHIP BEGUN

Family of the late Dr. Claude A. Ries, vice president of the college, theology professor and division chairman for over 40 years, have established a scholarship in his memory.

Eligible for the award will be juniors and seniors contemplating the ministry after seminary, and/or international students committed to serving their national churches. Recipients will be announced when the fund will sustain an annual award of $200. Contributions are solicited.

Perpetual Admissions Machine?

Robert Ripley used to contend that Chinese passing a fixed point at a specified rate could march by forever. The picture above suggests a similar possibility for Houghton College were all its alumni children to return here for college.

Aggressive recruiting and alumni loyalty were factors in enrolling the most new students in 6 years at Houghton this September. Among the new are 50 second or third generation Houghtonians and 12 missionary kids.

academy '66, college '70; James Stephen Crosby, ex '68; Priscilla Crosby Piersma ex '63; Robert Crosby, Jr., ex '65; Wesley Lytle '67, and Bernard Lytle '69. In that order, today Bill is a nurse in Ottawa, Ont, while Ester teaches English as a second language. Steve and Bob Crosby both live in Anchorage, AK; Steve with the governor's office, Bob as an architectural designer of low-cost energy efficient housing. Priscilla is part-time nurse at the Houghton College Health Center. Her husband Bernard is professor of physical chemistry here. Wesley Lytle is an executive with Tamco Industries, Lima, OH and Bernie pastors the Wesleyan Church of Big Flats, NY.

Among them, these alumni are known to have nine children. Can success elude Houghton in its second century with such potential multiplied nationwide?
