

BOULDER 1968

THE HOUGHTON
COLLEGE
BOULDER

Dedication

A student may forget the details of polymerization, but he will remember the professor who made that process come alive. Bringing to class a deep understanding of the chemical sciences augmented by a wide background in the liberal arts, this professor vitalizes his subject with fascinating analogies and sharp humor. As some chemistry majors have said, "he treats each electron like an individual personality."

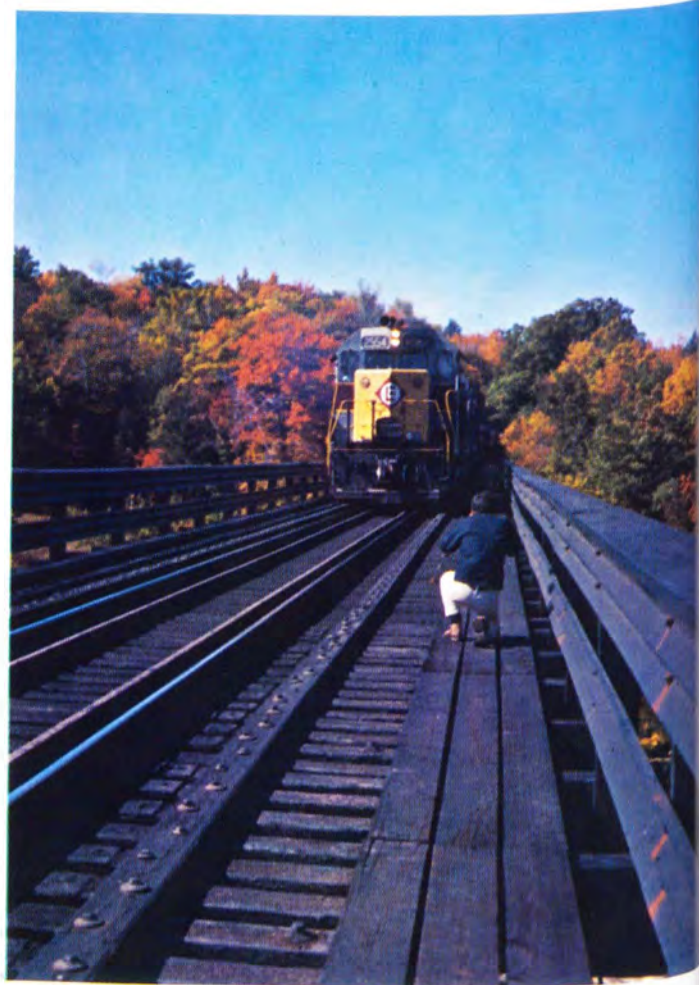

His concern for the students—their intellectual growth, their spiritual welfare, their social development—epitomizes the Christian college ideal. With the keen desire that his students develop the whole man, he acquaints them with a variety of subjects—cultural and spiritual. A typical organic class may include singing "Happy Birthday" to Beethoven and probing Christian classics.

Students will always remember him as a quick-witted professor who could spot the Morrison and Boyd text at one hundred yards, as a St. Patrick's Day enthusiast, as a stiff grader, as a friend. With pleasure we dedicate the 1968 Boulder to Dr. Frederick Shannon.

FOREWORD

Boulder '68 allows me to wander down
Letchworth paths . . . to walk across the bridge on my way to the Inn . . .
to climb creaking stairs to the biology lab . . . to sit in my old chapel seat . . .
to see how I have changed from then
'til now.

Every new September beats with higher goals and greater spirit . . .

to involve myself . . .

to reach for better grades . . .

to establish my sense of values . . .

to encounter God . . .

Freshmen grasp a new start . . .
trying to remember names
at receptions . . .
obeying at initiation . . .
returning to Stop 2 at registration
. . . then classes.

Others watch, thinking--last year or two years ago . . .

But now we are the Honor Court . . .
the Big Brothers . . .
the Seniors.

Soon . . .

it is the time to build floats . . .

to honor a queen . . .

to root our team on to victory.

A new semester . . .

I stretch mentally . . .

I reach spiritually . . .

I grow.

I find a lonely path to a grass-covered mountain . . .

A long view . . .

A cold breeze . . .

Just me . . .

Mud on my shoes .

I want to be free . . .

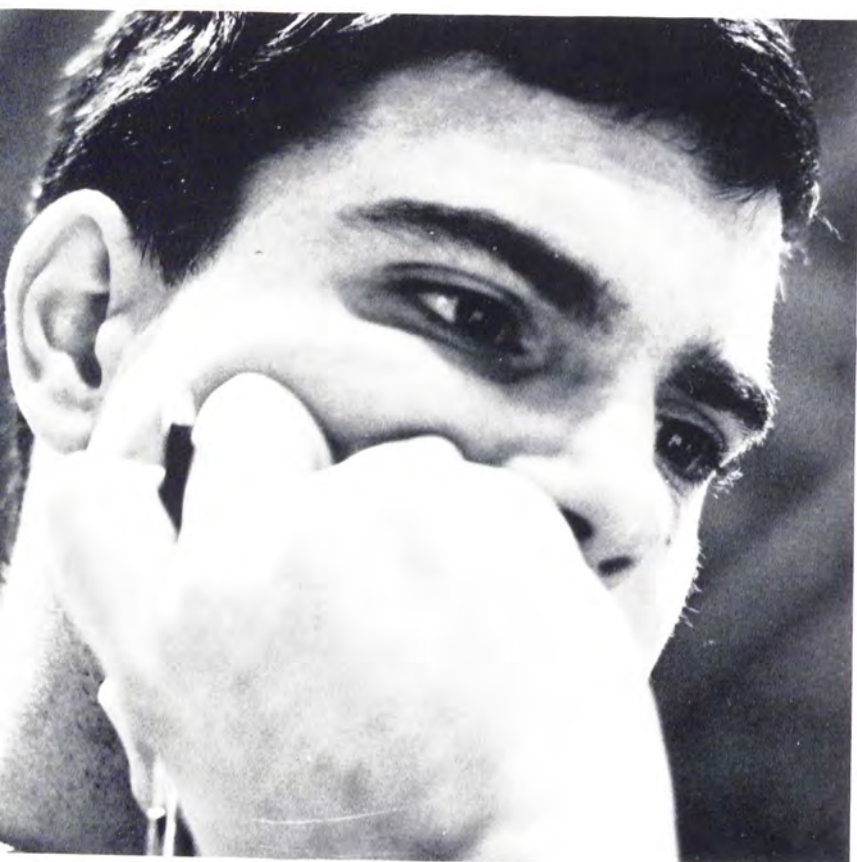

to go beyond the saccharine answers to life . . .
to stop this civil war with myself.

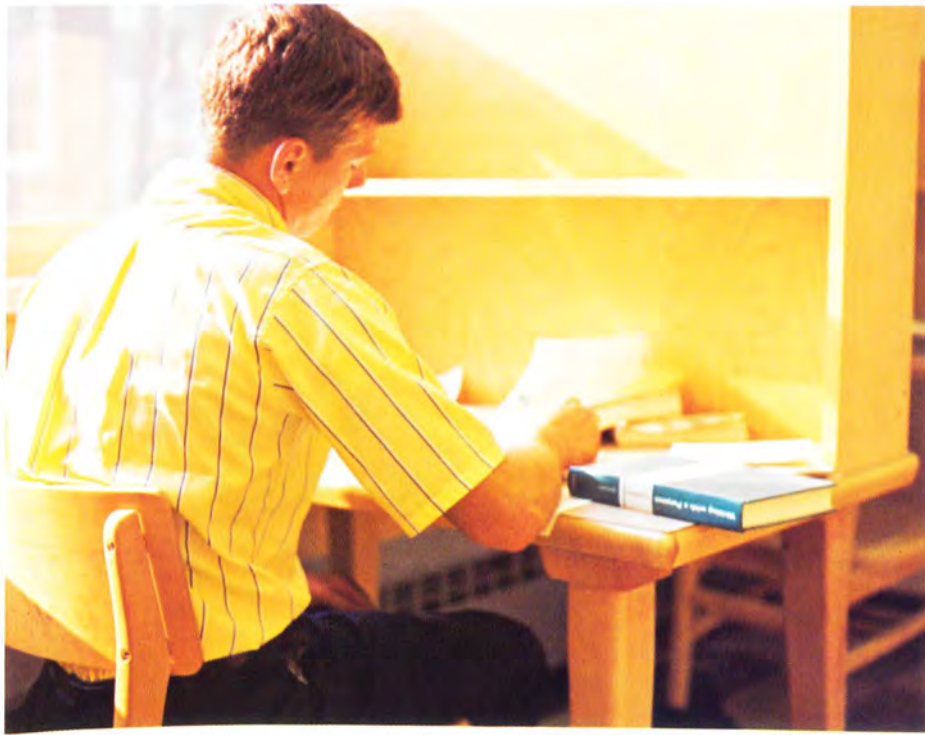

I search for a Divine will . . .

I try character surgery . . .

struggling . . .

I stop.

to encounter my own personality . . .

A person with my own mask and my own scars . . .

A person without roots . . .

looking for a purpose . . .

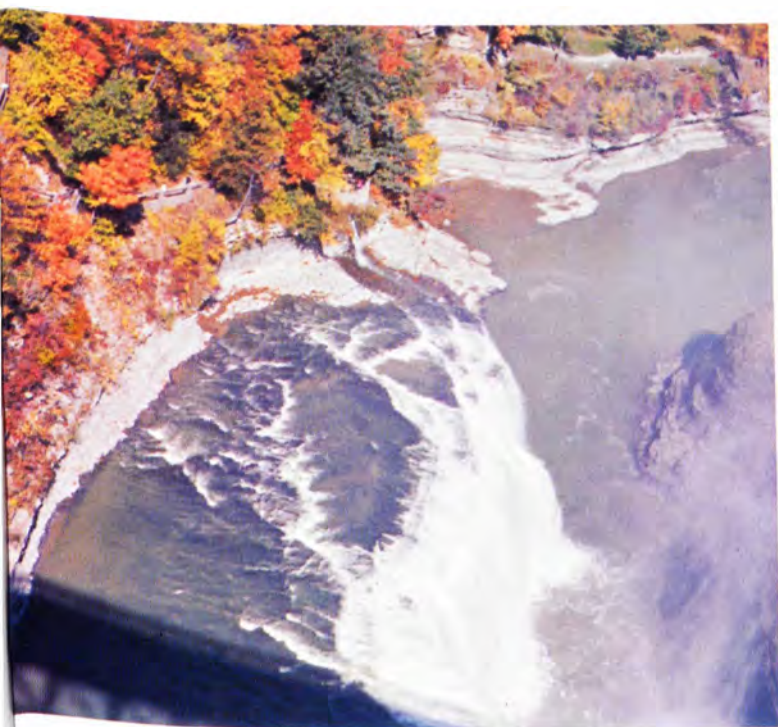

I learn that God wants no less than maximum creativity . . .

I stay for awhile
in my Gethsemane . . .
until I can give myself . . .

And when I walk away . . .

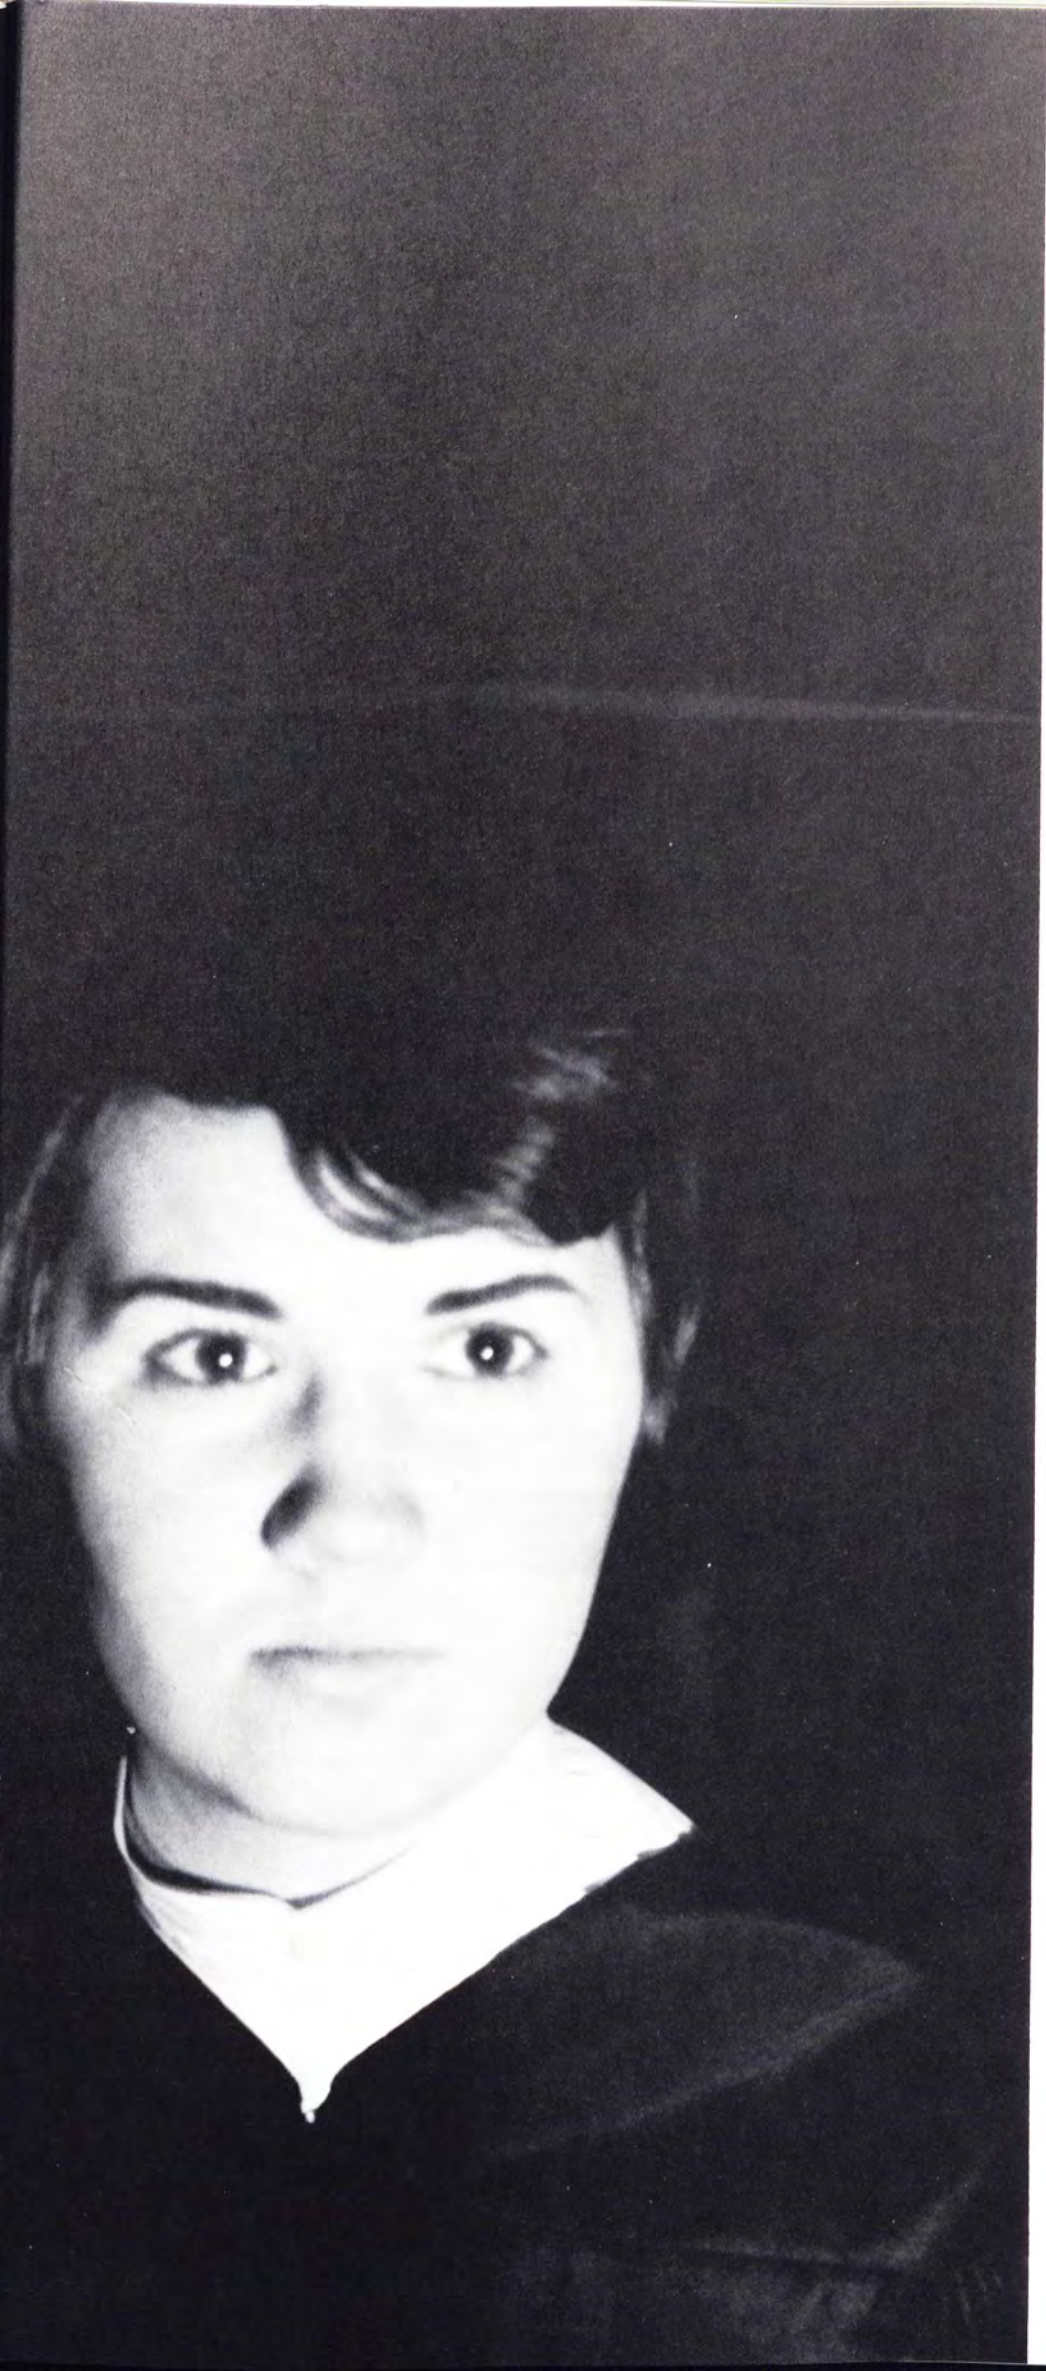

I see life sparkling . . .
Each new day is a journey . . .

. . . to a country never visited.

Who's Who

Connie Smith

Delmar Searls

Kenneth Kirby

Citizenship, leadership and Christian witness were the criteria used in selecting eight seniors this year as nominees for inclusion in Who's Who in American Universities and Colleges. These seniors have sought to achieve the best in a Christian liberal arts education. They have contributed enthusiastically to campus life.

Zoology major John Freeborn has extended his abilities beyond the laboratory. He was vice-president of his Freshman class, president of his Sophomore class and a member of the Dean's Liaison Committee. Vitally interested in missions, he has served as both vice-president and president of Foreign Missions Fellowship. John, a Gao waiter, anticipates further studies in graduate school or medical school.

Ken Kirby, a classics major, has led the Senior class as president. A sports enthusiast, he has participated in varsity soccer, house-league volleyball and basketball. While maintaining a dean's list average, he has been an able business manager of the Boulder, a member of the Dean's Liaison Committee, a waiter and assistant cook at Gao. Ken will attend seminary in the fall and hopes to teach New Testament Greek in college or seminary.

Representing her class as a Homecoming attendant for two years, Luda Leinster has pursued an augmented history major in preparation for teaching. Besides assisting in biology lab and waiting on tables at East Hall, Luda has participated in an extension trio, Christian Student Outreach, teen work and University Outreach. Her offices as Student Senate Secretary, Sophomore class secretary and Senior class chaplain have marked her as a vital school leader.

This year's Homecoming queen, Janet Pape, graduates as a writing and English major. She has exhibited her abilities as Star reporter, Boulder literary editor and Lanthorn editor. She also placed second in the short story division of the college literary contest. Yet, she found time to participate in Oratorio, in Foreign Missions Fellowship as a prayer group leader and as Gao dorm secretary and president. Jan hopes to further her writing talent in graduate school possibly in England.

Nora Swindler

Mathematics and physics major Delmar Searls plans to attend graduate school and teach on the college level. He has been an active participant in Christian Student Outreach, Debate club and Purple-Gold baseball. A math grader and a physics lab assistant, Delmar has used his practical experience serving as president of the Science Club and organizer of the Math Club.

Petite but energetic Connie Smith has occupied her study hours with a social science major. While working as the college telephone operator, she has exercised her leadership abilities as a member of the Dean's Liaison Committee, Foreign Missions Fellowship secretary and chaplain of her Sophomore class and Student Education Association. After graduation, Connie plans to teach elementary school.

Nora Swindler, a writing major, has given much of her time as Boulder layout editor, Lanthorn layout editor and Star reporter. She has worked as librarian for Operation Mobilization, and secretary of Christian Student Outreach and International Outreach. An assistant resident at the Academy's Maplecrest dorm, Nora would like to pursue studies in journalism and perhaps become a missionary editor-writer.

Versatile Tom Willett, a prospective teacher, has been involved in many areas of campus life. As Freshman class president, Senior class chaplain and Foreign Missions Fellowship treasurer, he has assumed positions of leadership. Besides competing in soccer and class basketball, he has been a member of College Choir, WJSL staff and Student Senate.

Seniors

David Sartell, Treasurer; Ken Kirby, President; Nancy Osterman, Secretary; Richard Close, Vice-president

To be a Senior is to look forward and backward at the same time. We see underclassmen struggling with our old problems, and we realize that what was important to us four years ago is no longer important. We lived from rain to snow to rain and walked through the subtle trap of discouragement. Our minds opened, our values stabilized. Now we are veterans at decision-making, but veterans do not stop; we go on to sign our first contract. We have absorbed four years of study, but we are only more aware of how little we know. Yet, we welcome the opportunity to give rather than take. So we turn our tassels and walk from Wesley Chapel the last time facing that once-so-distant future. We step forward. A man. A woman.

ADMINISTRATION - STAFF

The President

Dr. Stephen W. Paine—a humble scholar, a brilliant man with a common touch, a man dedicated to God. He speaks to executives and students with equal interest and has developed the art of remembering faces and names. We know him for his taxi cap and his 1926 Rolls Royce—Vicki—for his meaningful classes and his fatherly concern for the Houghton family. This year we have missed Dr. Paine since he has taken his first sabbatical leave in thirty-four years. Near Asbury Seminary in Kentucky, he has worked on revisions of his Greek textbook and a translation of the Book of Acts for the Bible Translation Committee of the Evangelical Theological Society. He has studied Hebrew and traveled to Vietnam, Japan, Australia and parts of Europe. More than a year's vacation and a time of rest, President Paine has experienced a period of enrichment, a time to collect new ideas for next year's task.

The Acting President

Chief administrator of the fiscal, academic, and disciplinary aspects of the college, mediator between the Board of Trustees and the Faculty and Local Advisory Board; these are the positions of Houghton's President, and for the year 1967-68 the positions of Dr. Robert Luckey.

As Vice President in Development, he was partly accustomed to his new responsibilities. All-knowing as to the complexities of college finance, he was further introduced to the intricacies of college organization. A veteran problem-solver, Dr. Luckey possesses a keen insight which penetrates to foundational principles. We understand that he will accommodate these principles . . . this far.

This year, Dr. Luckey acts as President.

Today, Dr. Bob speaks in the chapel hour to Houghton College. He speaks of Samuel's compliance to the dictates of the Lord. None of his words fall to the ground. We scrutinize his testimony—Christ's witness should be positive, aggressive, winsome.

Academic Dean

Dignity, humility and spiritual insight are the characteristics which make Dr. Hall respected by those who come in contact with him either in the classroom or on the administration and faculty of the College. Even with the triple obligations of Professor of Philosophy, head of the Theology Department and Academic Dean of the college, Dr. Hall still finds time for the personal needs of individual students and faculty. Among his responsibilities as Dean are curriculum planning, schedule changes and substituting for Dr. Luckey in chapel and faculty meetings when he is absent. Academic guidance and final decisions in educational policies also require much of his time. Dean Hall understands the problems and does not underestimate them; he meets the demands of a small campus.

Dean of Women

Excuses to sign, innumerable questions to answer, committee meetings to attend, the demands of six hundred girls to listen to attentively, and the surge of last minute obtainers of late "per" are but a minute degree in which one day in the life of Dr. Lola Haller can be measured. Academic guidance, discipline and general counseling play important roles in the office of our Dean of Women. But of far greater importance is the willingness and readiness to lead a student into a harmonious relationship with Christ. Her manner of guidance is quiet and patient. Her attention and consideration of individual needs is prayerful. Her counsel is sound and her interest genuine. Her confidence is reliable and her advice worthy of note.

Dean of Students

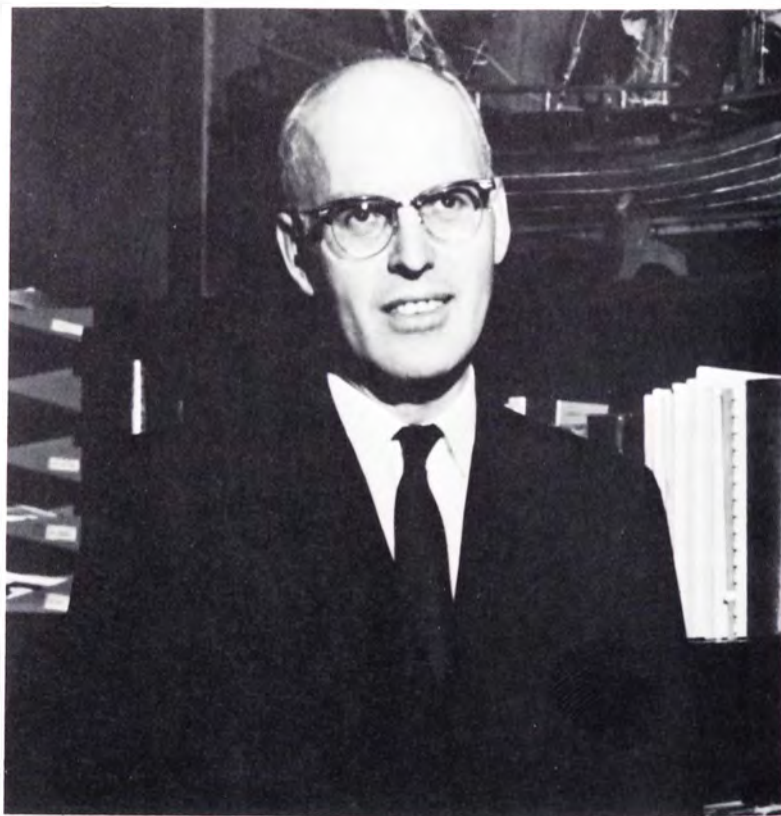

An overseer long acquainted with the needs of youth, Dean James Mills supervises more than committees entitled Grants and Loans and Bureau of Appointments. As a counselor, he shares in student problems—financial and personal; as a partner, he shares in student successes.

Having completed the ministerial course at Houghton, having mastered psychology courses at Temple University, and having held several pastorates, Mr. Mills is qualified to meaningfully conduct our student affairs. Qualifications, however, must parallel dedications, and Dean Mills is persuaded that things happen when Christ is the object of our dedication. Committed to his new position as a member of the Administrative Committee, our Dean of Students is also working on his doctoral thesis. Dean Mills works closely with student leaders, especially now in planning the two student floors in the Campus Center—student offices on the main floor, bowling alleys, shuffleboard, table tennis . . . somewhere. The Dean of Students—overseer, and something of a seer.

Staff

The working community classified as the staff of Houghton College performs the essential tasks without which collegians and faculty alike could not function. They plan and cook the meals, find available jobs for graduate students, arrange class schedules, and maintain the college grounds and buildings. Business manager, head residents, secretaries, nurses, and janitors are also included under this general classification. Their work brings them into direct contact with the personal problems and needs of individuals. It is their careful fulfillment of their duties which has made the staff an important part of the college.

Pastor

Pastor Angell faces the task of ministering to a diverse congregation of students, faculty, administration and village residents. He meets the challenge by delivering informal, practical chapel talks and thought-provoking messages in Sunday worship services. By keeping in contact and proving himself to be an understanding counselor, Pastor Angell meets the needs of the student body. Always willing to aid his parishioners, he is available to any who seek his assistance. The pastor's Spirit-filled life shows in his sincerity and dedication.

FACULTY

English

"The principle of the Freshman English course is to make experience come to life in words."—Dr. Josephine Rickard, Chairman.

"Literature adds a dimension to life that no other discipline can. It gives you that perspective you get when you walk down a railroad track."—Professor James Barcus.

"Speechmaking and oral interpretation, to me, are more than the ability to gracefully wag the tongue and wave the arm in resonant articulation of 'how now brown cow' or 'roll on, thou dark and deep blue ocean, rooooooll.'"—Professor Abraham Davis, Jr.

The old and somewhat rusty shingle hanging over this department's door reads merely: ENGLISH. Ten faculty members share the small room congested by six cumbersome desks, numerous filing cabinets, and several shelves of books. However, this unimposing cubicle on second floor Fancher has not lessened the enthusiasm of its occupants to broaden the horizons and increase the perspective of their students through a better understanding and greater appreciation of life through literature.

Foreign Languages

The process of conveying our ideas to others is taken for granted until we attempt it in another language. Struggling to roll r's and to lose the short American a is just one part of the beginning. Dialogues and drills become monotonous, but the frustration at our inability is replaced by excitement and a sense of accomplishment when we begin to actually "think" in another language. After the fundamentals of vocabulary, grammar and pronunciation are fixed in our minds, we have a basis upon which to build and the opportunity for a broad field of investigation. Word meanings, expressions and idioms often have relevance to the culture of a specific language and can only be understood in that context. Literature in a foreign language opens an entirely new world because language is more than words and rules for words; it is a part of people and the means for cultural exchange.

History and Social Sciences

Man asks: Who am I?

Some of the answers to that question are found in the Journal of American History, the Primer of Freudian Psychology, or in the latest edition of Fortune. Still other answers are found on the athletic field in a grueling clash of flashing spikes.

In many ways the nature of man is static. So we attempt to discover patterns in his nature by searching the aged newspaper, plotting profit curves and examining vital statistics. But only with interpretation and criticism does meaning come from these dry facts. Then, man has a chance to know himself, and in the knowing, an opportunity to improve.

Psychology and Education

With growth come division and multiplication. Additional faculty and new courses precipitated the divorce of the education and psychology disciplines from the Division of Social Sciences. The new division, composed of education, psychology and physical education, emphasizes the behavioral investigation of man, especially in relation to the educational process. In education courses, students struggle with lesson plans, learn to budget classroom time, and search for valid testing principles. The theoretical knowledge is then tested during several weeks of practice teaching under the combined supervision of the Education Department, the local school, and instructors from the student's major field. Psychology students analyze human personality and behavior by examining statistics, case studies and laboratory experiments. Because both groups of students work with individuals, they propose to understand the reasons for a man's behavior as well as the methods for making his life more complete.

Fine Arts

Charles H. Finney, M.Mus., Ph.D., F.A.G.O.
Chairman

Impressions in sound and color, as demonstrated in this year's Church Music Festival, add dimension to our appreciation of the fine arts. Such creativity, displayed at student recitals, concerts and exhibits, originates and is nurtured in the practice room and the studio.

The musically-oriented student finds innumerable ways of expressing himself in orchestra, band, oratorio, chapel choir, or college choir. In the art studio, the listening lab or craft workshop, the liberal arts student also finds an outlet for his aesthetic interests. Hours spent in frustration perfecting Shoenberg or arranging a distorted splatter of oils amid a maze of easels are rewarded in public performances and student art displays. Yet, greater is the reward of personal satisfaction that comes when we are free to express ourselves.

Science and Mathematics

Organization, logical thinking and curiosity characterize a scientific study. Although many facts and techniques are memorized, the practical knowledge gained in these areas is the goal of an educator. The organization and precision needed in a mathematical proof or an experiment are achieved through continued practice and discipline. Because the step-by-step procedure requires patience and a specific method, it trains the mind to function systematically. To uncover a basic principle behind a discovery, one must use a logical method of hypothesis, experimentation, observation and conclusion. Curiosity is whetted when an inexplicable situation arises; then research begins. This curiosity is the real basis for discovery but only when it is accompanied by logical thinking and organized experimentation.

Theology and Christian Education

The propensity for thought is uniquely a human quality which when coupled with his superior intellect gives man the potential to look into and beyond his own self. By putting into practice the rules of logic, confronting himself with the ideas of great minds, and analyzing the tenets of his own faith a man becomes a more complete, a more perceptive being.

This thinking individual, the expected product of the Theology Department has the opportunity to expand his mind by exposure to varied philosophical concepts and consequently expand his soul by relating these concepts to the teachings and person of Christ. After careful self-evaluation the student will be prepared to effectively communicate his thoughts and his faith.

ACTIVITIES

James Wert, President

Student Senate

"Progress through Understanding" was President Wert's campaign slogan and the banner under which he chaired the Student Senate. But progress comes not without controversy as evidenced in the spirited debate over the extension of library hours—one of the first items on the agenda which the Senate tackled.

Progress may mean the improvement of the traditional. Thus, the Senate continued to oversee the use of television facilities, expanded faculty fireside discussions, scheduled more nights for the college coffee house—the Spot—and once again revised the Student Guide. They also sponsored a graduate school conference with Dr. Boyd Litzinger of St. Bonaventure University as the main speaker.

Progress may also show an appreciable change in the status quo. Under the heading of new business, the Student Senate organized a concert series which starred Frank Boggs and the Avant-Garde. The quality of the Senate Programs was enhanced by internationally-acclaimed talent including Vonda Kay Van Dyke, Miss America of 1965.

Spiritual

Man is God's messenger, living to learn the joy of life through sorrow, to gain knowledge from experience, to give away the thoughts that weigh upon his mind to keep religion from being buried in books or in doubt.

Christian Student Outreach

Christian Student Outreach is the outlet for students who wish to put their Christianity into action. To provide for individual interests the organization is divided into various groups that go out on Sundays and some afternoons and evenings during the week.

Children of surrounding areas are reached through the efforts of released time classes, Bible clubs, and the Sunday afternoon classes at Craig Colony. Interaction with high school students occurs at Teen Work where CSO workers share their lives with young people whom they understand because their problems are similar. Opportunity Camp unites the Houghton College student with underprivileged teenage boys. Individual friendships between the student of the secular campus and the active CSO worker provide an avenue of witness in Campus Work and International Outreach. Adults are also met with the challenge of Christ in visits to Craig Colony, nursing homes, migrant camps, and house-to-house visitation.

Christian Student Outreach aims for interaction in relating Christ to the individual; but each individual reached means that an individual must go. It is one man who bears a burden with love and tries to meet the problems of a needy world with one solution—Jesus Christ.

Campus Work

On college campuses across the country a revolution is taking place. As in no other period of our nation's history, youth are questioning the values and ideals that made these United States strong and great. Ranging from a New York sit-in to a California be-in, college campuses have served as seedbeds of revolution—against the standards of our time.

In the hills of western New York, a small liberal arts college is undergoing a new revolution. A revolution of Christian love. Encouraged by the result of a summer ministry on the beach, a group of students under the auspices of Campus Work have sought to spread the reality of Christ's love to surrounding campuses. A concept of love reaching beyond the realm of flashing lights and wilted flowers.

Using a questionnaire in the form of a religious survey, fifty students reached neighboring campuses with the news that life can mean more than an advanced degree or a drop-out's freedom, more than expensive clothes or sandals and levis.

A folk-singing group called "The New Design" expressed the need for Christ in spiritual-folk numbers like "Jordan's River," "Amen," and "Can't Help But Wonder Where I'm Bound." They attended a folk festival at Hamilton College, Clinton, N.Y., and visited several area high schools.

These are collegians presenting other collegians with the claims of Christ. These are Christians realizing the Great Commission in the year 1967-68.

Christian Education Club

"Workmen Not Ashamed" was the theme for the Christian Education Club's annual conference in March. This year's program was planned with a special emphasis on the practical side of Christian service. Area churches were invited for the one-day workshop, during which three representatives of the field illustrated their work through visual aids.

At the monthly meetings the Christian Education Club emphasized service projects. Throughout the first semester, members concentrated on making scrapbooks and stuffed animals for the children of the Houghton church. Second semester's project consisted of assembling packets for World Vision. Special speakers, such as directors of Christian Education, encouraged the members to continue their active work and informed them of vocational opportunities in the field of Christian education.

Foreign Missions Fellowship

Wednesday night prayer meetings; financial support of twelve missionary alumni and of student vacation missionaries; chapel programs of missionary speakers, panels, and a timely Urbana film: this is Foreign Missions Fellowship whose theme for the 1967-68 school year, "An Education in Concern—For the World," best expresses its purpose.

Concern springs from love—"A Revolution of Love." This was the message of the nineteenth annual missionary conquest. Among the several missionaries on campus during the week of November 14-17 was Dr. Marilyn Birch who has been decorated by Queen Elizabeth for her outstanding work in Sierra Leone. Speaker Harold J. Ockenga, pastor of the historic Park Street Church, Boston, explained in chapel programs and in evening services the consequences of such a revolution.

Foreign Missions Fellowship is the arm of Inter-Varsity on Christian campuses. During Christmas vacation over twenty-five college students traveled to Urbana, Illinois, for the eighth Inter-Varsity Missionary Convention; two students worked with Operation Mobilization in Mexico. Others expect to work overseas during the summer—all applications of an "Education in Concern."

Student Ministerial Association

Practical experience in the presentation of the Gospel can be gained through the Student Ministerial Association, an organization designed primarily to enable ministerial students to gain pastoral training while still in school. Students have the opportunity to become part time student pastors, assistant pastors, church youth directors, supply pastors and youth speakers. In a new program adopted by the Houghton Church, pre-ministerial candidates are invited to assist the local pastor, thus providing new areas of service as well as intern training. At the meetings of the Student Ministerial Association guest speakers and discussions help the student to learn various ways of presenting Christ and to broaden his awareness of the needs of man.

College Youth

College Youth, the parent organization of both Foreign Missions Fellowship and Christian Student Outreach, has taken second place in recent years. The purpose of this year's College Youth was stated by the president William Foster: "We are fighting for new life in an old organization." In reactivating the group, activities such as hayrides were provided to interest all students—both college and academy youth—with the goal of forming meaningful friendships between the two age groups.

The major function of College Youth was to organize and present the annual Spring Youth Convention for high school students in the Northeastern states. Teenagers came as far as five hundred miles for a weekend introduction to campus life. Houghton students volunteered to have the teens stay in their rooms in hopes that as private counselors they may erase misconceptions about college life.

Extension Groups

Sharing a personal acquaintance with Christ through the testimony of word and music is the essence of an extension team. Soloists, duets, trios, and instrumental and vocal quartets represent Houghton as a Christ-centered liberal arts college. Coordinated by Mr. Charles Pocock, a group travels twice a month. The trip may be a weekend of meetings, a morning service, or one in the evening. On occasion a team may take part in seven different services. Whether it be two hundred miles away or just a few miles down route nineteen, in a large YFC rally or a village church, the team has an opportunity to radiate Christ. But extension work is more than a ministry to others, it is a great source of growth and strength to each member of the team, for it is in reaching out that he sees himself.

COMMUNICATIONS

Lanthorn

A glow in the valley of the shadow, a significant idea in the mind of man—this is light and appropriately the theme of the 1968 Lanthorn. Respecting the word, the line, the theme, the publication records the scrutiny of its creators.

These creators express themselves in writing, in musical composition, in painting and ceramics, and this year in a form called the photographic-essay. Titled only, this "essay" tells a story or creates a mood by the use of a picture sequence. Another innovation is the inclusion of noteworthy quotes. These sparks were caught by observant teachers and students from lips, from papers and were incorporated in the Lanthorn.

WJSL

The motto of WJSL—"serving Christ, the campus and the community"—is the purpose of the broadcasting program at Houghton College's radio station. Since 1949 it has presented to Houghton students and residents a wide selection of music from spiritual and classical to folk. The Intercollegiate Broadcasting System rates WJSL as one of the top collegiate stations in the country.

This year a group of seventy staff members—all students—accepted the task of broadcasting eighteen hours daily. For the enjoyment of the student, they included coverage of Houghton intercollegiate activities and the "lighter side" morning shows. National and local news coverage was expanded beyond afternoon hourly editions to include evening wrap-up and commentary. The station encouraged greater radio participation by campus organizations such as debate, Student Ministerial Association and speech classes. To facilitate broadcasting, WJSL purchased a $2000 Ampex 440 tape recorder and enlarged the record library to nearly two thousand discs.

Info

Info—this is Houghton's indispensable directory of students' home addresses and college residences and birthdays. Also included is a list of the administration, faculty, and staff, and a calendar of the year's activities. Published before Christmas vacation, the Info is a perennial item on Houghton's best seller list.

Work began early in the fall for the thirty staff members who compiled this year's Info. To each fell the task of securing the vital data of his allotment of students, double checking each address and birth date, and typing the material in exact form. To the business manager came the job of soliciting for ads to finance the publication. And with the position of editor came the responsibility of proofreading the endless pages of names and addresses, obtaining periodical approval from the printer, and coordinating all the work to produce an accurate and useful publication.

Star

Back issues stapled to the rotting ceiling of a soon-to-be abandoned office; a bulletin board spattered with galley sheets, future layouts, telephone numbers and memos; enough odds and ends to meet any miscellaneous emergency and chronically misplaced equipment have everything to do with the making of a newspaper.

Scanzillo was omnipresent, applying psychology to a varied group of people, pasting layouts, making decisions. Palmer assigned, Johnson corrected and Burnam approved the double-spaced offerings from reporters, while Bowditch planned their positions on the pages. Harris oversaw the local sports world, Wilson commented, Schmidt proofread, Butterfield supervised typing, Merzig editorialized and the Tony-Winger team handled photography.

Editors were assisted by their staffs in creating a weekly four-page issue of controversial and informative columns, advertising, news, editorials and a note on "Where It's Happening."

And that is The View From Here.

Editors and their staffs take pictures, write articles, type names and draw layouts. They strive for perfection but sometimes settle for less a few minutes before a midnight deadline. A few people tie the ends together and finish the puzzle, but everyone learns something—and that is the importance of creating a publication.

ACADEMICS

Die Edelweissgesellschaft started the year with their traditionally-spirited hayride and bonfire and a skit, half in German, half in English. They continued to stress the language by singing German folk songs and hymns at monthly meetings. Students and instructors who had visited the country showed slides and explained items of cultural interest. At their annual Christmas party, the German tradition was reflected in a festive celebration with carols and candles according to the custom a few weeks prior to Advent. A spring banquet—German style—culminated the year's activities.

French Club

A knowledge of French culture and history was the goal and emphasis of Le Cercle Français this year. The monthly meetings included discussions by faculty members and students concerning the relevancy of French history to contemporary policies and the influence of modern French philosophers. Movies of skiing areas in France, modern French folk songs and native cuisine at the French Club dinner added to the understanding of life in France. Interested club members attended a production of Moliere's play, The Imaginary Invalid, and some traveled to Quebec for Easter vacation.

The Spanish Club acquaints members with Spanish culture and seeks to improve language fluidity. To give an insight into the customs of Spain, native speakers, such as exchange student Ricardo Torres, were invited to speak at monthly meetings. A "fiesta Navideña"—the Christmas celebration—included Spanish delicacies, carols, a skit entitled "Three Kings' Day," enacting the observance of Christmas in Spanish-speaking countries, and the traditional breaking of the piñata. The year ended with a visit to a Spanish church in Rochester and a Spanish banquet.

Classics Club

This year the Classics Club attempted to stimulate an active interest beyond the Latin and Greek languages to the cultures associated with these languages. The club members examined the relevancy of Latin and Greek in aspects of our own society and explored different elements of the cultures, such as the court system and fighting tactics.

Every year near to the Ides of March, the Classics Club climaxes its activities with a Roman Banquet. This year the theme was "The Last Days of Pompeii." Togas, slaves, exotic food and a miniature volcano highlighted the dinner and symposium which followed.

English Expression Club

Striving to achieve a more professional presentation of Christian dramatics, the members of the English Expression Club launched a busy and diverse schedule. At one of its first sessions the group experienced a "happening" written by Dan Jerome. For the Christmas program of the Anna Houghton Daughters, they read selections from writers such as Kahlil Gibran, Ogden Nash and Robert Southwell. The club also co-operated with the Oratorio Society in its annual yuletide contribution by presenting a dramatic recreation of the Bethlehem scene.

The next major project was producing Helen Kromer's play, The Verdict of One—the story of a young college man tried for the murder of a crippled girl from the slums. Amidst busy schedules, students found time to rehearse from 10:00 p.m. till midnight for several weeks before the performance date—February 24.

They concluded the year by presenting dramatic monologues and readings at the annual Speech Commencement.

Student Education Association

The Student Education Association, one of the largest student organizations on campus, is a pre-professional organization that endeavors to stimulate interest in teaching and strengthen standards of preparation. On the local level, committees worked with area high schools to organize Future Teachers of America; and panels at monthly meetings acquainted students with such information as certification requirements in states other than New York.

The prospective teachers also hosted a regional meeting with State University College of Brockport, Roberts Wesleyan College, St. John Fisher College, State University College of Geneseo and St. Bonaventure University. In addition to participating in group discussions, students viewed the movie, "The Quiet Revolution," concerning modern audio-visual aids.

Annually, local representatives are sent to state level leadership conferences to share ideas and learn of current trends in education. This year a representative from the state level, Miss Marguerite Walters, State Consultant to the New York State Teachers Association, came as the speaker for the annual spring banquet.

The activities of the Student Education Association were planned to make the student realize that teaching is a profession and that it establishes standards worthy of a profession.

Young Administrators Organization

The Young Administrators Organization provides the opportunity for business majors to become acquainted with the structure and function of the economic world. Business leaders, such as Gerald Castiglia, President of Holiday Inn Inc., Hamburg, New York, present lectures to make students aware of problems and changes in administrative positions. The organization meets one Wednesday of each month for dinner and a lecture in the Marine Room of East Hall. In addition to their monthly meetings, the project for this year is to organize a portfolio of stocks and bonds with the financial help of alumni contributions.

Debating—the oldest intercollegiate activity of Houghton College—has stimulated the minds and quickened the thought reflexes of its team members. Using this year's intercollegiate topic, "Resolved: that the Federal government should guarantee to all citizens a minimum annual cash income," the team gained valuable experience in all facets of argumentation.

With the aid of Mr. Edward Willett, the affirmative derived its own plan using business as the center. This approach was original and surprised many of the opposing teams. Tournaments were held at D'Youville College, Buffalo, and Marywood College, Scranton, where the team debated with twelve colleges including Cortland College, New York University, and Temple University.

Besides developing the skill of debating, the team expressed a more lasting effect. One member summed it up as "a real learning experience and an aid in many of the other academic pursuits."

Pasteur Pre-Medical Society

The desire of the Pasteur Pre-medical Society has been to unite pre-nursing, pre-dental and pre-medical students to stimulate their interests in the field of medicine. The organization began its active year with a fall banquet featuring Dr. Marilyn Birch, surgeon in Sierra Leone and recipient of the Alumnus of the Year Award. Monthly meetings were highlighted by outside speakers and films with an emphasis on research in modern medical science. In the spring members visited an area hospital to observe a medical laboratory equipped with a new instrument for analyzing blood. With the guidance of Professor Donald Munro, they also assisted the Red Cross Blood Bank during its two visits to the campus.

College Bowl

Nine members of the college bowl team meet at least twice a month for training and discussion sessions with their adviser, Professor William Roeske, but their preparation goes beyond any meetings. College bowl competition demands continual learning and almost daily practice. Students must keep abreast of specifics in their chosen field and maintain a broad knowledge of the liberal arts. This year the team was challenged in competition with teams from Roberts Wesleyan College, Alfred University, State University College of Geneseo and St. Bonaventure University.

Akadéme

Akadéme is a free discussion group where philosophical questions are discussed within a Christian framework. Once a month the members meet to examine issues such as new morality and campus freedom. Several times they have used articles in His magazine and recordings of Dr. Francis Schaeffer as springboards for discussion. Members comment that "it is stimulating to exchange ideas in an atmosphere where they are not judged."

Music Education Club

The Music Education Club is a group of liberal arts, applied and church music majors who are interested in teaching music. Each month a dinner meeting is held for routine matters of business and special talent from the group. Other features included a film about the piano and special speaker Mr. Mitsuo Kitamura who explained the integration of Japanese and American songs in secondary and elementary education. Besides learning more about the field of music, members participated in a carolling party and song fests of popular music.

College Choir

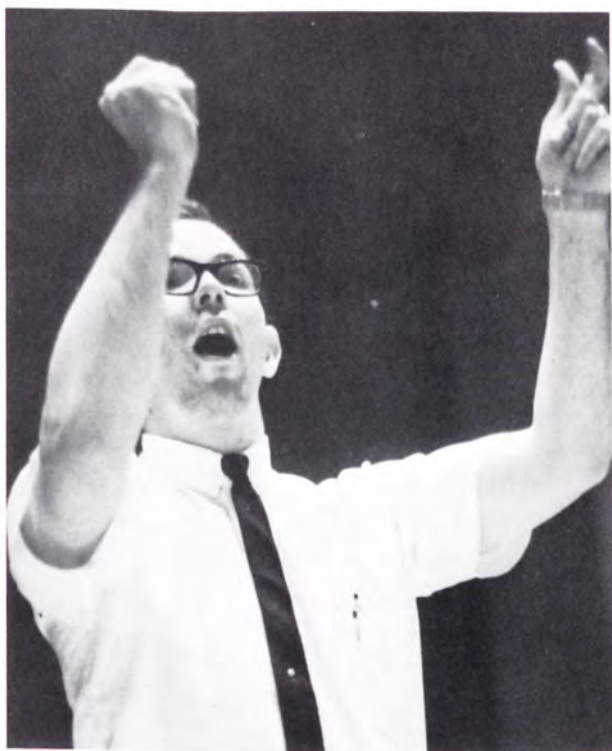

Under the dynamic direction of Professor Donald Bailey, former Director of Choirs at Eastern New Mexico University, the Houghton College Choir experienced a new emphasis on precision and choral blend. Facing the challenge of a November 19th concert, Professor Bailey molded the forty-six select voices into a unity capable of "Making music."

For the first time in its history the choir performed several secular pieces in addition to its repertoire of sacred music and spirituals. The purpose of this addition was to acquaint the choir members, many of whom will be going on to teach music, with worthy secular compositions.

In preparation for a busy spring itinerary of ten days in the midwestern states and weekend tours, the choir added several new works to its collection. These included Bach's Cantata No. 4, a Vaughan Williams motet and the Daniel Pinkham Easter Cantata.

Chamber Singers

Carols, madrigals and opera excerpts comprised the repertoire of the nine outstanding vocalists chosen from the College Choir for the Chamber Singers. Since Director Donald Bailey insists that his Singers have brawn as well as brain, calisthenics became a part of their afternoon rehearsals.

In seventeenth century costume they entertained at a Christmas madrigal dinner where wassail, plum pudding, a yule log and boar's head added to the atmosphere. At chapel services, high school programs and evening concerts, the Chamber Singers were praised for their precise presentation of Bizet's Carmen, "Liebeslieder Waltzes" by Brahms and Britten's "Ceremony of Carols."

Chapel Choir

Over fifty students participated in Chapel Choir directed by Mr. Mitsuo Kitamura. The choir's wide repertoire included traditionals, such as "Praise to Christ" by Bach and Brahms' Requiem, and modern selections, like "Lovely Child, Holy Child" by David N. Johnson. Two interesting numbers they worked on were "Hallelujah" by Beethoven and "Hallelujah" by Mr. Kitamura. For Advent the choir sang Buxtehude's "Lauda Sion Salvatorem" accompanied by violins and cello. At other times throughout the year the choir performed hymns and special arrangements for chapel worship services.

Concert Band

Growth and new activity this year distinguished the Concert Band. Thirty-five select musicians were chosen from the total fifty-six band members to form the Symphonic Wind Ensemble which formed such advanced pieces as Giannini's Symphony No. 3 for Band and Stravinsky's Symphony for Winds.

Desiring to broaden its Christian witness, the Band toured during semester break. Two churches and two Christian schools in Pennsylvania received the bandmen during their three-day tour. Among selections for church performance were Wyeth's "Come, Thou Fount" arranged by Maurice Gardner and Jacob's "Fantasia on the Alleluia Hymn." Suitable for school performances were pieces by Shostakovich, Gershwin and Bernstein.

Not without honor at home, the Band displayed its new sound here in joint concerts given in January and April. The Church Music Festival provided another opportunity for its performance. A concert on Reading Day completed the Concert Band and Wind Ensemble's activity.

Orchestra

The thirty-five members of the Houghton College Symphony Orchestra rehearsed three times a week under the direction of Professor Keith Clark. In addition to their evening concert for students and townspeople, they presented a Children's Concert for area students in grades six through eight. In the course of the concert, the musicians stopped to demonstrate individual instruments and the effects used in certain numbers, such as the clock in Haydn's Symphony No. 101. Both children and adults were delighted with this year's program that included Matinees Musicales by Britten, Chorale Prelude on Silent Night by Samuel Barber and Tchaikovsky's Nutcracker Suite.

Oratorio

The Oratorio Society is one music organization in which students, faculty and townspeople may participate just for the enjoyment of singing. First semester, Professor Harold McNiel directed the one hundred-sixty-voice chorus with orchestra and organ accompaniment in presenting Part I of Handel's Messiah and Hodie Christus Natus Est by Heinrich Schutz. Second semester, under the direction of Professor Donald Bailey, the chorus presented The Creation by Haydn for the Church Music Festival.

Artist Series

The Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra—one of the six great orchestras in the United States—began this year's series of cultural enrichment programs. The Salt Lake Symphonic Choir, the largest independent traveling choir in America, and organist Marilyn Mason concluded the series of first semester. Twenty virtuoso musicians in the Chicago Little Symphony under the direction of Thor Johnson presented the New Year's Artist Series. Two groups from Oberlin College, the Oberlin Wind Ensemble and the Oberlin Choir, presented programs of a wide variety of music. George Shirley, tenor from the Metropolitan Opera, Lili Kraus, pianist, and the New York Woodwind Quartet concluded the series.

Athletic Association

Intercollegiate sports increased the responsibilities of this year's Athletic Association. The club sponsored enthusiastic pep rallies on the quad and rented buses to encourage student attendance at intercollegiate games. In addition, members continued to support and to co-ordinate intra-campus sports, increasing the numbers of teams in houseleague basketball, soccer and volleyball. The Association also improved the letter-awarding system and the Constitution. At the annual spring banquet, outstanding athletes were recognized for their participation and achievement in all areas of the sports program.

Intercollegiate Sports

On May 9, 1967, the Board of Administration of the Wesleyan Methodist Church recommended that "the decision as to participation in intercollegiate athletics shall be made by each college's Board of Trustees." On June 2, 1967, the Board of Trustees of Houghton College granted permission to include intercollegiate athletics in the physical education program for 1967-68.

Houghton's first intercollegiate cross-country team met with five-time state champion Roberts Wesleyan College, September 26, 1967. Houghton's first intercollegiate soccer team beat Messiah College 2-1 on October 7, 1967. The same day, the cross-country team won 23-32 over Geneseo. On December 9, 1967, the Houghton Highlander basketball team lost 82-40 to Point Park College at Pittsburgh.

This is just the beginning of Houghton's intercollegiate sports program. In the spring it will include track and baseball. Next year, tennis will be added and schedules will be forty percent larger.

Cross Country

Hard work, enthusiasm and improvement marked the first year of cross country competition at Houghton. The team ended the season with a 1-4 dual-meet record.

The initial contest, a meeting with five-time state champions Roberts Wesleyan, wound up a lopsided 15-47 loss. Then came a close defeat by Harpur 22-34. The high point of the season was a 23-32 win over Geneseo, where Dave Rejmer finished for Houghton. Homecoming day saw the Highlanders fall to Point Park 18-39. Then came an extremely close 26-29 defeat by St. John Fisher.

More important, however, than the 1-4 record compiled by the team was the progress made by each member. Dave Rejmer, the only senior, established himself early as the number-one runner on the team and continually improved. Jim Elliott worked from fourth place to second and continually pressured Rejmer for the top spot. Steve Holt and Cal Squires also improved greatly and consistently battled for third place.

Soccer

Soccer became the number-one fall sport this year with the advent of the intercollegiate program. The season, although limited, generated much enthusiasm among both players and fans and ended in a 1-1 record.

The soccer men began their season with a 2-1 win over Messiah College. Overcoming a poor first half in which they were consistently out-played, the Highlanders, with goals by Bob Dyer and Ken Kirby, bounced back after Messiah scored the initial tally of the game. A welcome-home ceremony greeted the victorious Houghtonians on their return.

Then came the Roberts game on Homecoming day. Encouraged by the large Houghton delegation that made the trip to Rochester, the Highlanders played their best soccer of the season and held the much more experienced Roberts team scoreless for almost three periods before finally succumbing 4-0.

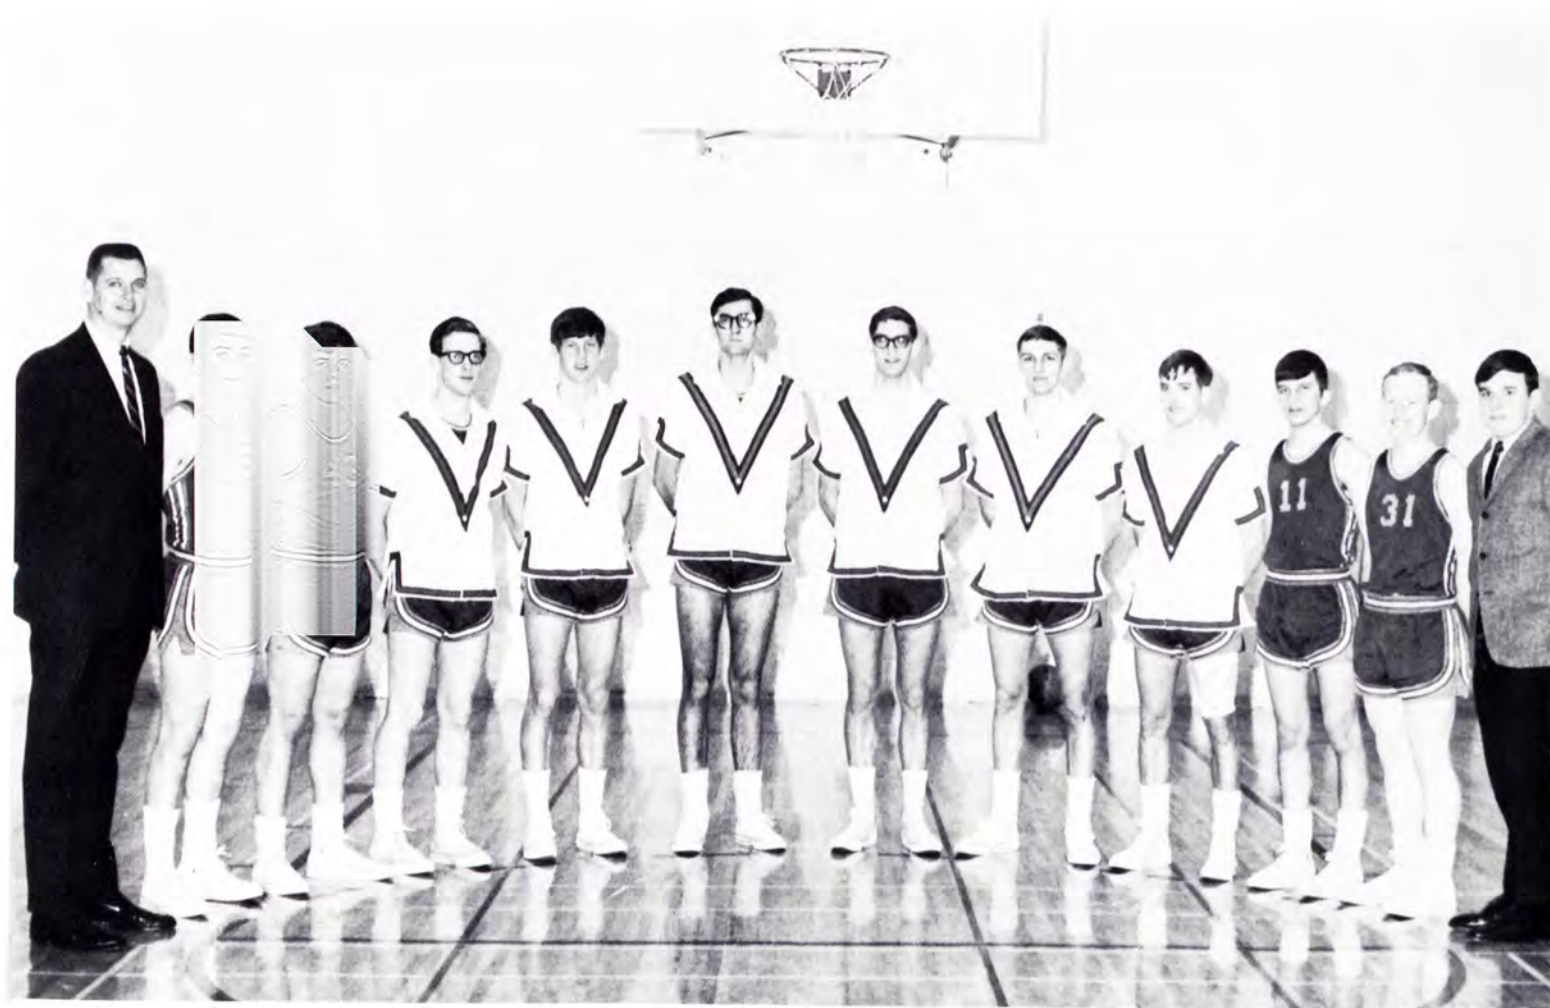

Intercollegiate Basketball

Highlander basketball faced several problems during its initial season. The exceptionally difficult schedule was an unavoidable situation. A lack of height severely handicapped the Highlanders against their taller opponents. Also, several players were unable to participate first semester.

Despite the large number of losses, the team played well, and support at the home games in Wellsville was excellent. As the second semester began, Cronk, Johnson, and Kroeze returned to the team and improvement was evident.

Houseleague Sports

This year proved to be one of the more successful in recent houseleague history as seen in the number of participating teams, the evenness of team strength and the small number of forfeits. Though many predicted the decline of houseleague competition with the advent of intercollegiate sports, the opposite proved true. Football and soccer got off to a good start with nineteen teams and a combined schedule of nearly one hundred games. Johnson House with ten consecutive wins took the football title over the J.P.'s. In soccer the Grapes of Wrath won in a tight race with the Goal Tenders.

Men's houseleague basketball continued the tradition of close competition. Leading contenders in A-league were the Drybones followed closely by the Johnson House men. B-league competition included the Quazers, Chicken Fat Rebellion and Yorkwood House; the Chicken Fat Rebellion proved the superior team. Since the Globe Trotskys and Potlickers held identical records, C-league competition hosted co-champions.

Purple-Gold Football

Gold's football resurgence, which began two years ago, finally reached its peak and resulted in a Purple-Gold championship for the Gladiators, their first in five years. Early predictions of Gold dominance were quickly borne out. Purple, depleted by graduation and injuries, simply could not contend with gold's experience, and surrendered the title in three straight lopsided losses.

The first game, a 36-7 Gold win, reflected the Gladiators' experience as Gold rolled up 633 yards total offense. Dave Kreller, Bill Foster, Gary Fairchild, and Bob Elliott each scored once for Gold and Mike Holmes twice. John VanOrder picked up the lone score for Purple.

The second game, virtually a replay of the first, ended in a 45-19 Gold win. Lee Treichler, Herb Fancher and Mike Holmes made the scores for the Gladiators mostly on passes. Don Tilley, George Brewin and John VanOrder scored for purple.

The 45-6 Homecoming-game win by Gold clinched their title. The standout player was Gold quarterback Mike Holmes, as in the previous two games. Running for four scores and passing to Lee Treichler for another, Holmes figured in five of seven Gold scores. Bill Foster and Treichler added two more on runs. The lone Purple score came on a Dave Wyrzten pass to Ron Lewis.

Field Hockey

Rescheduling games because of Houghton rain was a problem to this year's field hockey enthusiasts. The Junior girls won two games, followed by the Sophomores one win, two losses and no forfeits. From the four class squads Purple-Gold team members were chosen to compete for the best three of five games. Although neither team had the full eleven members on the field, Purple won three straight games with scores of 5-2, 3-1, and 3-2, thus taking this year's title from the defending Gladiators.

Class Basketball

Once again this year class basketball featured close competition as three classes battled for the title. The Juniors, who should have been overwhelming favorites, were depleted of four of their starters from last year, plus two top reserves moving up to intercollegiate competition. The Seniors, who lost no one, and the Sophs, who lost only one man, soon proved competition.

By posting a decisive 72-47 win over the Seniors and squeaking past the Juniors 42-39, the Sophs established themselves as the team to beat. They won two from the Frosh before losing to the Seniors 48-43 and posted a 77-76 come-from-behind win over the Juniors to take a commanding lead. Meanwhile the Juniors won their first encounter with the Seniors 60-45 but lost a narrow one point rematch. The Freshmen, plagued by inexperience and hurt by losing players to the intercollegiate team, lost seven in a row.

Baseball

A more experienced Gold team easily emerged as victors in the 1967 P-G baseball series, with victories of 6-2, 7-3, 4-2, 3-1, and 6-1 as compared to Purple's single 13-2 win. It looked like another close contest at the beginning of the season, but due to several unforeseen factors, Gold was able to take command of the series with only a few occasional glimmers of brilliance from Purple. Gold had several returning starters whereas Purple's line-up contained numerous rookies. Returning for Purple, however, was Al McCarty, last year's leading pitcher, with a 4-1 record, but hindered by back trouble, McCarty was not up to his best performance. Mike Holmes was the clutch pitcher for Gold, firing a 3-hitter in the first contest and showing fine control in most of his games, while Rob Wells and Skip Hartman pitched commendably. Hartman and Lee Treichler were the batsmen for Gold, driving in most of their runs with well-timed hits. Perhaps however, the Gold victory was not due solely to their good pitching, tight defense and clutch hitting, but to the inexperience of Purple. As Al McCarty put it: "We just couldn't seem to do anything right." This year ended the old P-G series. Next year both teams will combine to represent the college in intercollegiate competition.

Track

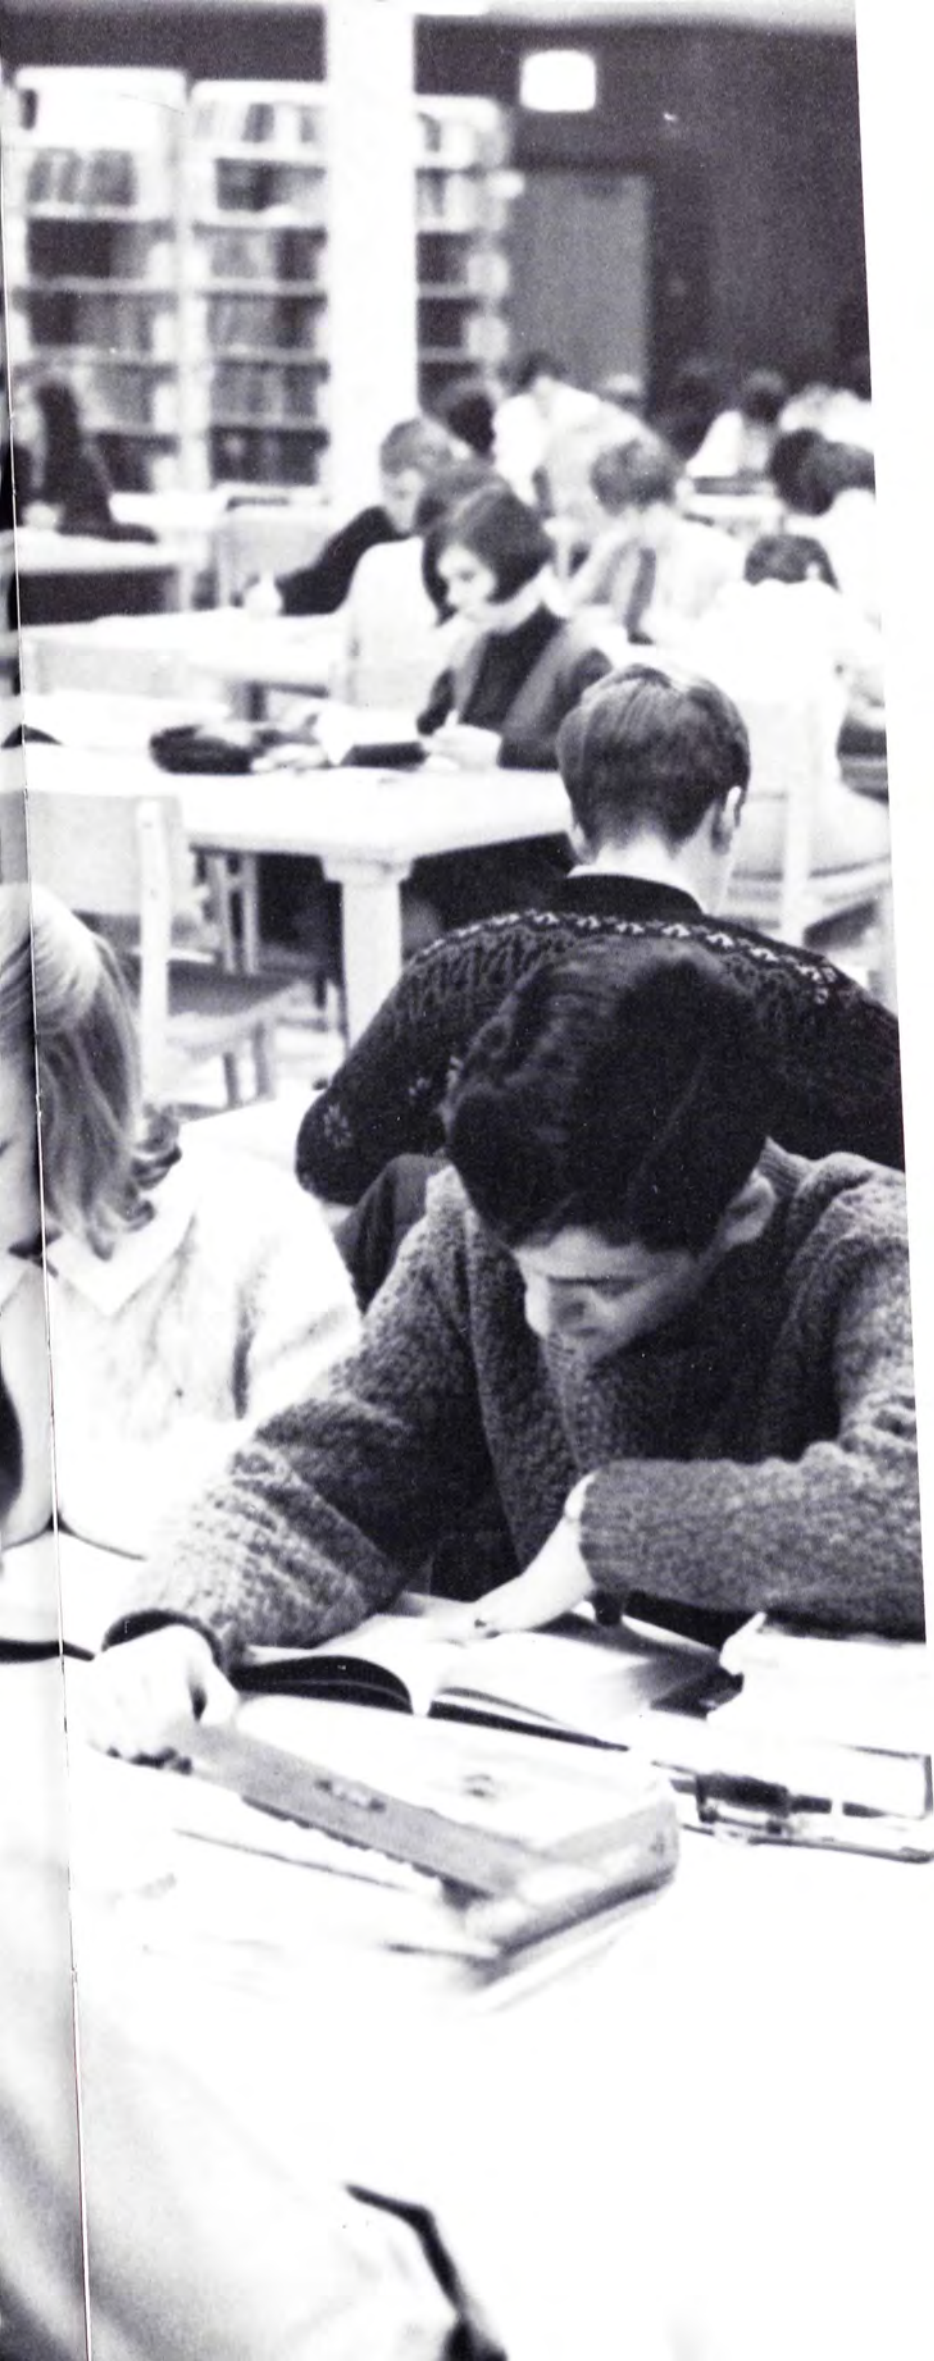

Purple defeated Gold 103-58 in the May, 1967, track meet taking 16 of 23 ribbons. The Purple men defeated the Gladiators 64-47. Jim Parks, with four firsts in the broad jump, high jump, 220 low hurdle and 120 high hurdle, led the champion Pharoahs. Three blue ribbons were awarded Keith Greer who set records in the javelin throw with a 158.0' toss and in the hop-skip-jump with a 38'1" leap. Gold's John Dunnack also performed well with firsts in the 440, 220 and 100 yard dashes. Gold's Bob Zinke came in first with an 8'9" pole vault.

The Purple women, led by Jan Smith and Sharon Nestler, overran the Gold women 39-11. Smith and Nestler each received three blue ribbons and paced Purple to a record 58.9 second 440 relay.

Four years of college.

You must be mistaken!

Only three years.

You must be . . .!

Two years.

You must . . .!

One
left.

Right.

What, besides the feeling of "Where's it goin'?" typifies a class during its third year at Houghton College?

It studies: it reads, peers through a microscope, creates, and discusses.

The Freshmen do that.

Then, it sings. It picnics at Letchworth.

It realizes the triumph of Christ in Tom Skinner.

Even the Sophomores do that.

It takes traditions to task: salutes the success of Inter-collegiate Sports and studies on Friday nights.

Seniors do that. Does a Junior class do anything special?

Yes. It welcomes Freshmen, condemns Sophomores in Honor Court, prepares a Boulder for the Seniors. It philosophizes and involves itself in extension work.

Our Junior Class, the Class of '69? It welcomes Frosh with more fanfare, condemns Sophs with more delight, produces for the Seniors a more colorful Boulder. It reaches in to the Issues, out to the Lost, and if, in its youth it carried a high-hatted black pagan to basketball games, it will be, in its old age, nostalgia-struck throughout a Bugler's Holiday.

Sophomores

Sophomores, according to the root meaning of the word, are the "wise ones," and the class of 1970 was no exception, or so they thought. Knowing what to expect and how to study, they felt ready for a second year of academic discipline.

They returned in September impatient to give orders to Frosh circus performers. It was a delight to see someone else run the track at 6:00 A.M. on all fours and eat oatmeal without a spoon. But with the same good spirit they received the vengeance of rolling in mud, scrubbing sidewalks with a toothbrush and shampooing with lard.

When the fun was over, the wise ones applied their wisdom to books. They realized this was also the year to make out a major-minor card, the year that ends at the halfway mark.

Freshmen

Examination: The plush seats of Wesley Chapel . . . thin lap boards . . . computer pencils. "Please print your name clearly—last name first. You will have twenty minutes for part two."

Registration: Endless sheets of directions . . . first encounter with an advisor . . . the monotony of filling in long schedules. "Is this cash or charge?"

Initiation: Green and white beanies . . . clowns muddled by circus trainers . . . too many calisthenics. "Look out, Frosh, the lions are coming."

Identification: Camel blazers . . . a basketball team . . . class officers. "Nominations are now in order for class chaplains."

Determination: Strong friendships . . . better study habits . . . the thrill of accomplishment . . . the class of 1971 stepping past the beginning. "September pre-registration forms are due Friday?"

The Class of 1968

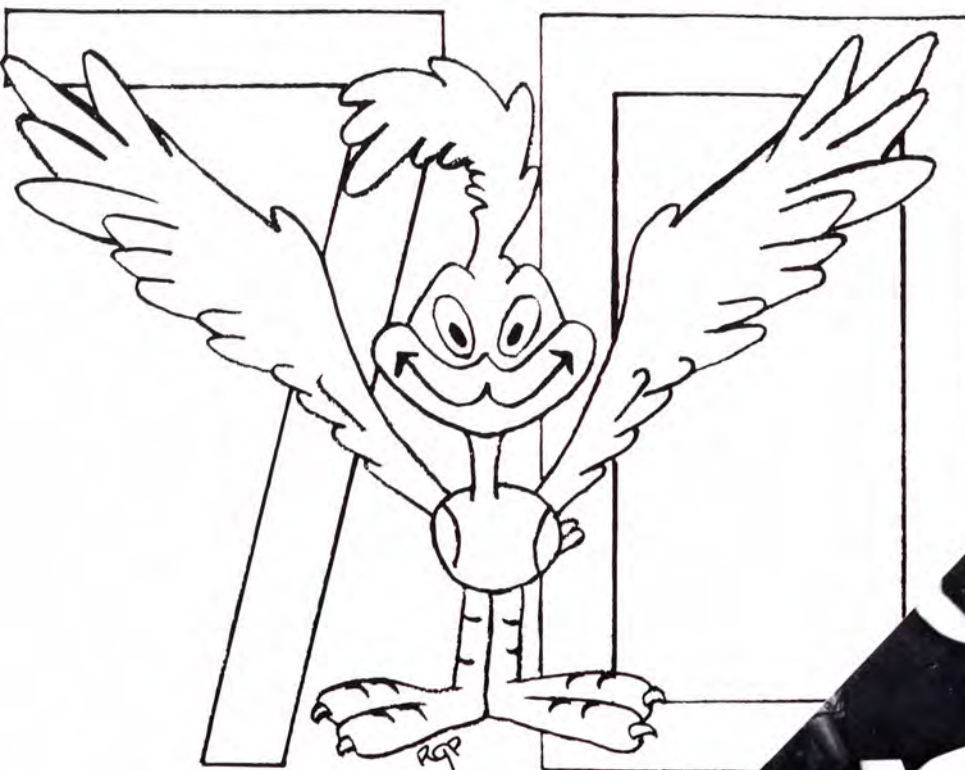

CONGRATULATIONS TO THE 1968 GRADUATES

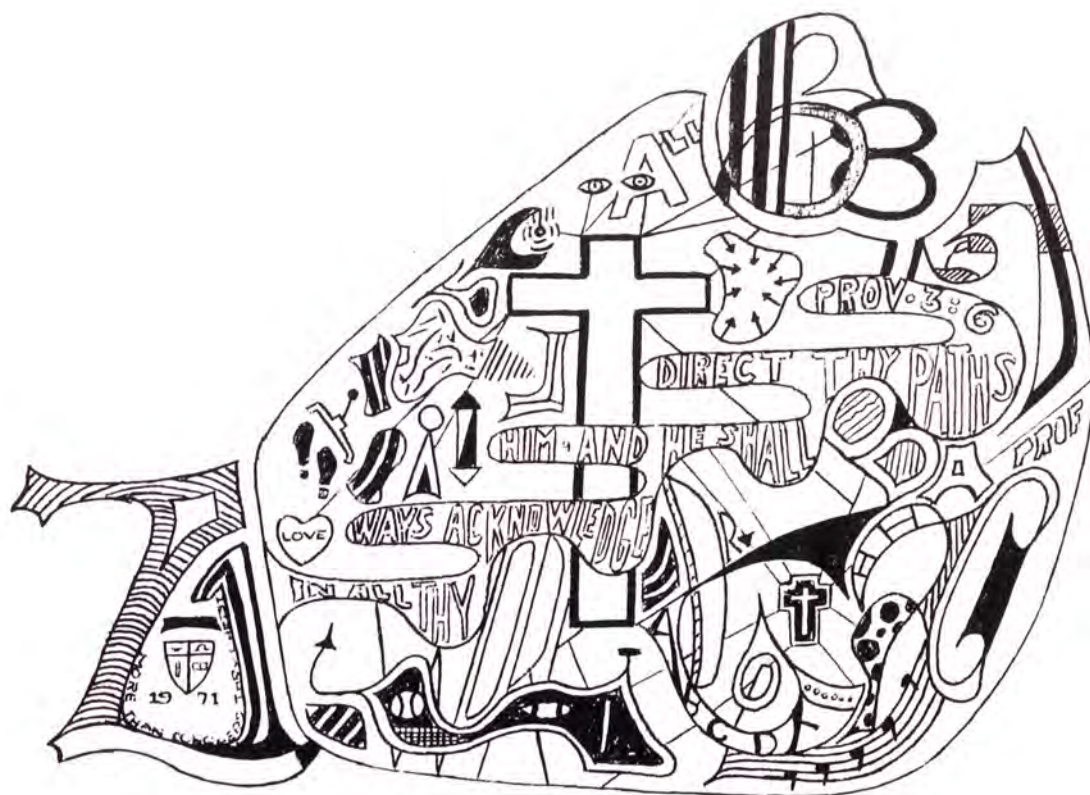

THE CLASS OF 1969

Congratulations to the Class of 1968
From the Class of '70

BEST WISHES TO THE CLASS OF 1968

FROM THE BRAVE MEN OF SHENAWANA

Congratulations
'68 Graduate

You are now a member of the Houghton Alumni Association.

What does that get you?

Service for one thing. The Bureau of Appointments has helped hundreds of seniors and alumni secure positions in the last few years. The bureau holds membership in both national and regional Association for School, College and University Staffing. Students and alumni who are members of the local bureau thus have free placement service through national organization for many professions.

Social Events for another. Through annual meetings, 14 alumni chapters in New York State and 13 regular chapters in other states help you keep in the know about the college and get to know other alumni in your area. There are five-year class reunions too. Held on campus commencement weekend, these meetings update you on what's happening with your classmates. Homecoming signals another opportunity to return to Houghton: look for new buildings, old friends and winning combinations of athletes, speakers, musicians and good food.

Subscription to the "Alumnus" too! Just by maintaining your current address with the college, the college will keep you in touch with campus events and advances, activities of other alumni, and some plain facts about education and Houghton's place in that ever-changing picture.

You can become a member of the Student Foundation Plan.

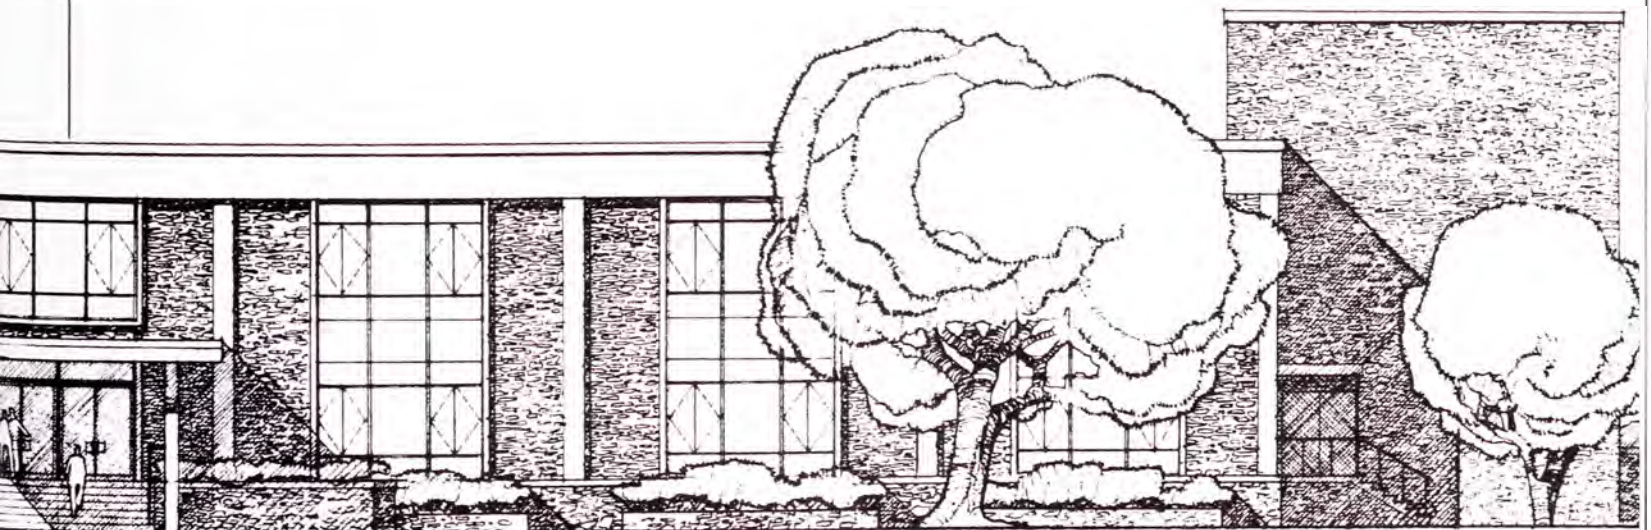

Why should you?

The Student Foundation Plan helped make your college experience possible by filling the gap between your tuition and actual costs of college, buildings, equipment and other taken-for-granted items.

Supporting higher education is a good investment. After all, weren't you worth helping? So's the next fellow, the next class, and the ones after them. The nation, the world and the church need educated men and women who can make an impact for Christ. Houghton helps produce them.

The Student Foundation Plan was originated by the Class of 1926. The 20-year pledges made by its members became a tradition followed by many since then. Based on the pledges of last year, the class of 1968 could, with 100% participation, bring almost $147,000 into the Foundation. That would set a record and give a healthy start to the Campus Center.

The Campus Center pictured below is scheduled for construction as soon as adequate financing can be arranged. Houghton College pledges to invest your foundation pledge payments to this end until the building is paid for. Architects estimate the structure's cost at near $2,000,000. Aren't those reasons enough?

necessary:

that's the way people feel about their daily newspaper.

Add another staple to food, clothing, shelter, the daily newspaper. It's that basic.

Nearly everyone reads it (99 million people on an average weekday).

They read it thoroughly, page by page (71%)

Would feel lost without it or miss it (79%)

They clip it (editorials 53%, ads 28%), quote from it (65%).

And 99 million consumers wouldn't have it any other way—an ever-changing diet of news and events, freshly packaged, eagerly consumed, thoroughly digested, completely welcome, The Daily Newspaper.

Note: 53% clip from editorial items, 28% clip from ads in a three month period.
65% quote from the newspaper in the past month.

Dalla Mia Finestra

From this window I have seen Houghton College. The view has sometimes discouraged me, often excited me and always challenged me.

The staff of the 1968 Boulder has opened a window—this publication—to all who will share with us the memories of the 1967-68 college year. Although each of us has found much satisfaction in the product, we are struck by the realization that, for us, the greatest satisfaction came not from this final product but from its production. We faced the frustration of being unwilling to take the creative initiative in an expression of word or picture; consequently our self-confidence was tried and ultimately bolstered.

All of us learned from the experience: Kathy, Barney, Sherry, Dave, Ron, Joy, Pat, Tony and Winger. Each placed a part of himself in the Boulder. As we turn its pages we see ourselves and Houghton College with new insight.

Paul Palma
