Our President's Message

"And Jesus increased in favor with man", what wonderful hours the twelve must have spent with the Master. The pleasure and benefit to be derived from association of groups of the same sex can hardly be estimated, but in this respect Houghton is far below the standards of other colleges. In fact the Sunday School classes are about the only organized means for such association. One of the greatest social needs of Houghton College is a social center especially for men. The girls' dormitory supplies this in a measure for the girls, but the men have no place that they can call their own. However, in the face of these difficulties there are great improvements that can be made.

In the first place more can be made of the organized Sunday School classes than is being made. The college freshmen boys are setting a good example and we hope the other classes will follow. In the second place both men and women would do well to devote a larger part of their outdoor association to group association of the same sex. A hike, a game, or a feed, when the persons are all boys or all girls has a peculiar charm and a special value that a mixed group cannot have. In the third place there should be some formal social functions especially for men and some especially for women. In your future life some of you girls will be connected with women's organizations, some of you boys will be in the political or business world, and every girl will see the time when she will desire to conduct herself with among a group of women, and every boy will count as one of his greatest assets the ability to mingle with men at perfect ease. In the fourth place I hope the day is not far distant when Houghton College shall have a literary society distinctly for men and another distinctly for women, with suitable rooms for each.

The Athenian Literary Society met for its first session of this school year Monday night, October 5, and elected the following officers:

Pres. Harold Douglas Vice-Pres. Hazel Sartwell Secretary Alto Albro Treasurer A. C. King

Every one of the mentioned officers are capable of fulfilling their respective places, and with our co-oporation, there is no reason why we should not have a most beneficial and interesting Society this year

On Monday night, October 12, fiftythree College students and members of the faculty assembled to the first regular meeting of the Society, and listened to an extremely well balanced and in-

Y. M. W. B. Meeting Miss Driscal Heads Society For the Year

The first meeting of the Y. M. W. B. occurred Tuesday evening Oct. 13. After the opening exercises conducted by Wilford Bain and Robert Hess, the foilowing officers were elected: president, Ione Driscal: vice-president, Cora Frost; secretary, Luella Roth; treasurer, Öliver Christy.

The program commenced with th reading of a message from Mrs. Hazel Banker, our representative in India. Corinne Cole then gave an excellent talk on, "Prayer and the Uttermost Parts", after which Viola and Luella Roth sang a duet that was freighted with missionary spirit. The final number consisted in a reading, "Three Calls in the Night", by Goldie Davidson. Then we spent a few hours in playing games and telling stories. At 2:00 o'clock we retired for the night, some on cots, others on the floor before the fires. Mischief was rampant, and there was little sleep for anyone. At 3:30 all were up again having a good time. Breakfast was ready at 5:00 o'clock, and at 7:00 o'clock all were safely back in Houghton, a little sleepy but still hoping to return for another good time in the future.

"And A Great Door . . Is Opened"

The Book says, "A city set on a hill cannot be hid". But it sometimes happens that higher hills close in around the city and thus keep it from being "the cynosure of neighboring eyes". Such hills, also may keep the city from thinking of what may be beyond its horizon. This seems to be what has happened to Houghton in the years that are passed. It has snugly nestled itself on the side of the hill: has made plans for its own safety, like the peasants in Hawthorne's "The Genesee.

No longer can she settle down as she has done. Someone has turned the spy glasses of his soul beyond the hills; up and down the valley and across the river; someone has seen possibilities for Houghton in the line of service; someone has caught a vision, and Houghton, under God, is going out to make the vision a reality.

think the literary society is one of the organizations we can as well do without". But she concluded the remark with the words, "-If more real effort is not put into it".

A college without literary society is as unthinkable as one without a baseball team. We need both, but we want each to be a "top notcher". If the Athenian Literary Society provides a stimulus for the mental alertness of college students through discussions of real moment, whether they be taken from classical thought or present problems, and does this with an atmosphere of culture, an atmosphere in which Higgins. wholesome humor, and high class entertainment have their place, the Athenian Litarary Society cannot be spared.

Weiners? Yes

What happened Friday evening last week? Oh yes! it rained and snowed, but something more enjoyable than that happened. The girls at the Long Dormitory and a number of friends had planned to have a weiner roast. Do you think the rain and snow spoiled their plans? No indeed!

There were twenty-two young people at the weiner roast which was held at the camp ground. The weiners were roasted over the fire in the kitchen stove. After all had eaten as many as they desired, the rest of the evening was spent in playing games. Two usty yells by the boys concluded this enjoyable evening.

Extension Work

Good Reports From Last Sunday's Services. Encouraging Prospects

"Go ye and preach and lo, I am with you always." To the extension work that the Theological department and the Christian Workers are undertaking, the Lord is surely adding His blessing. Up to date, work is being done in three Sunday Schools, and two Evening Preaching services have been conducted. The Sunday Schools are located at Fox Hill, Dutch Hill, and Allen Center, and the evening services were held at Fillmore and Reports from Dutch Hill for last Sunday were very favorable. The assistance of Mr. Hamilton was greatly appreciated by the people there. About twenty were present. The work at Allen Center is, if possible, even more favorable. The people there are urgently asking that Houghton students give them their Thanksgiving Vacation for revival services, and plans are now being made for them. Mr. David Rees and Mr. Enty were very much encouraged by the increase in attendance last Sunday and the interest shown. The Sunday School at Fox Hill was opened last Sunday with brighter prospects than it has ever been started before. The five representatives from Houghton, Mr. Lutz. Mr. Tucker, Misses Viola and Luella Roth and Miss Rickard, were encouraged by the people who came to the opening session to continue the work, despite every difficulty. The Houghton representatives were greeted with a full house at Higgins in the evening. Miss Frost, Mr. Edwards, Mrs. Young, and Mr. Harold Douglass delivered the message on "The Narrow Way." The special music was furnished by the quartet and a duet by Mr. Enty and Mr. Kreckman. The workers were conscious of the help of the Lord.

Next Sunday evening, meetings will be held at Portageville and Freedom. The department earnestly solicits prayer that divine wisdom may be given in the carrying on of the work.

College Seniors Enjoy First Social Event

when a majority of the class of '26, which had quietly met near the college building, answered present, we started for our first social function of the season. We followed a winding path into the woods until we came to an ideal spot for a roast. Soon a roaring fire was started, and we all gathered around to roast wieners. When the supply of wieners, rolls, pickles and doughnuts had disappeared, we formed it. Thanks to our faithful leader, Miss a circle around the blazing fire and held a solemn council, or as solemn a council as could be expected under the circumstances. The subject of Senior dignity proved so serious that tears dleport, N. Y. and Mr. and Mrs. P. N. rolled out of John Higgin's eyes; or Baillie of North Tonawanda were the perhaps it was the smoke which persisted in driving him and Mr. Carey out day. of their places. Mr. Tingly's victrola furnished music for a little singing fest, and when Miss Gifford discovered that the moon had come up, we all went to a field near by to play prisoner's base. At about nine-thirty we started back, having spent a most enjoyable evening.

School Nature Study Club held its weekly meeting. The story of our last week's hike was very interestingly told Wednesday afternoon, Sept. 30, by Burton Wells. After the business of accepting the constitution and carrying on certain necessary elections we listened to a very instructive paper entitled "Economic Importance of Insects" by Evangeline Clarke. It was decided that we have our next meeting in the form of a hike and weiner roast.
