DEDICATION

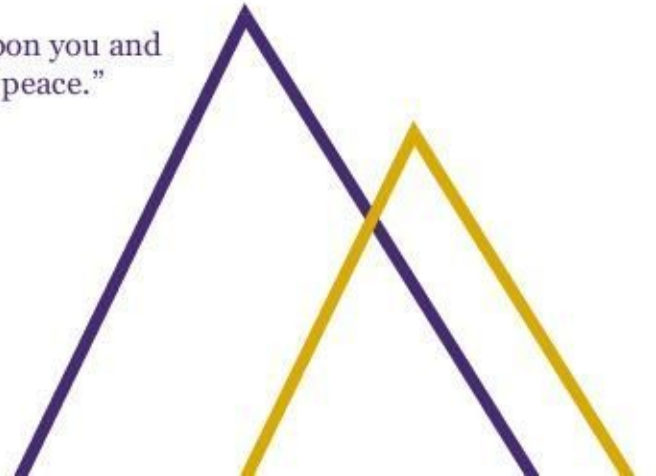

Over the past four years our class has experienced many ups and downs. It goes without saying that we have grown into strong and resilient young people that, even if we do not feel it, are prepared to serve in this world. However, this would not have been possible without the community around us. The saying “it takes a village to raise a child” is evident. Therefore this yearbook is dedicated to those that support us: parents, friends, professors, staff, and community members.

To our parents, we thank you for allowing us to step into the unknown. For raising us in a way that has prepared us for our future and whatever may cross our path. To the friendships that have been created, the ones that have changed, or to the people that pass by us once in a lifetime. The impact that you have made goes without measure. We will all cherish the memories that have been made and the stories that we will laugh about in the future. On campus and abroad, to the professors that have spent countless hours teaching us to be better in our field but also better individuals. You have challenged us, pushed us beyond what we thought we were capable of, and ultimately have helped us to succeed. Thank you to the staff that have provided us with guidance and support. Without you we would not have the day-to-day life we have on campus and truly take in all of its opportunities. And most importantly to the community members. Both those that we have bonded with in Houghton but also those who we have met throughout the world. You have given us a home for when Houghton is no longer that place. You will be there for us when we need a place to stay, a friend to call, or a support group to depend upon.

Four years is such a short amount of time, but it can impact us for the rest of our lives. Wherever your path may take you after Houghton, remember the people that supported you, guided you, and challenged you.

“The Lord bless you and keep you; the Lord make his face shine upon you and be gracious to you; the Lord turn his face toward you and give you peace.”

Numbers 6: 24-26

The image features a series of diagonal stripes in purple and gold, running from the top-left towards the bottom-right. The stripes are of varying widths and are set against a white background.

SPIRITUAL Life

REV. DR.
JL MILLER

Houghton's class of 2023 is unmistakably part of "the wired generation." You all are heading into a familiar world that expects instant connectivity and availability. In many ways, this time in history is a gift that can be stewarded well. You can maintain connections with friends and family across the globe. You have instantaneous access to diverse thoughts and the ability to listen to distinct voices which will broaden your understanding of God's world. For quite some time, progress and growth (even spiritual development) have been inextricably bound up in the possibilities latent within our digital world.

Yet, during your time at Houghton, you have come to realize there is a painful limitation to the relationships you can build in an exclusively digital world. While online church and Zoom Bible studies provide some level of convenience, we must never forget the Christian faith is an embodied experience. Our Creator comes to us through the bodily incarnation of Jesus. Just as we would never be truly satisfied with a marriage proposal taking place via FaceTime, we cannot settle for a faith that is disconnected from embodied experiences. As you seek to pursue Christ as newly-minted adults, remember that your faith is far too large and exciting to be contained within the flickering pixels of a screen. Go to church, eat long meals in conversation with others, hug, pray, cry, and celebrate together. Lean into the gift of being fearfully and wonderfully made as an embodied being, loved by God, redeemed by the Son, and animated by the Spirit.

GAELLEN
NEGUS, '23

A few weeks back, I read the words "Founded on the Rock" etched into my dinner plate. There is godly strength at Houghton and it has seeped into me these four years. My faith has deepened at Houghton. It has matured through interaction with believers from ranging backgrounds as we engaged in seeking the truth together, united in our love for and relationship with the Truth. Chapel and Around the Table conversations presented a variety of perspectives, challenging me to evaluate deeply the things I believe. Opportunities for Bible study with professors and peers have been a special avenue for growth and intentionality in my walk with the Lord. The close friendships I cultivated are a steady source of encouragement and blessing from the Lord. He has formed me through these experiences and gifts. They go with me in His service.

RESIDENCE Life

AMANDA
BURRICHTER, '23

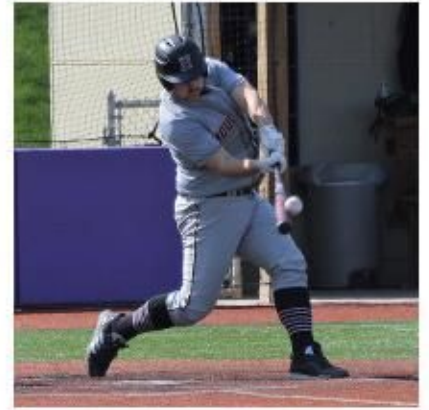

During my time at Houghton I ran on the Cross-Country and Track teams. When I started at Houghton running was just something I did for fun or because it helped me stay fit. Since being on the team my whole perspective on running has changed. Running is a gift and something I am incredibly thankful for. I have learned what it looks like to compete for the glory of God and have been loved so well by my teammates. Being an athlete at Houghton is more than the awards and accomplishments, it's about the community you are surrounded by and recognizing you're so much more than the sport you are competing in.

ATHLETICS

Go Highlanders!

MIKAYLA BOND, '23

When I had come to Houghton I had no idea what I was in for in regards to the school of music. Little did I know that I was going to be learning from wonderful people of God, who care about me just as much as they cared about my education. I have learned so much from every professor that I have studied under, about music, life and about God. My favorite thing about music performances at Houghton is that everything we do is worship, we are giving back to God the gifts that He has given us, and we give all the glory to Him. This is something that is consistent throughout the entire school of music. I have been pushed as a musician, performer, and as a person my four years here at Houghton. Houghton has given me a greater reason for performing, and playing my flute and singing and that is God. It is encouraging to be making music among those who love God and around just wonderful musicians and people every single day. I have honestly been blessed to get to make music everyday that glorifies God, with amazing people who have helped shape me into the musician and person that I am today.

GREATBATCH

School of Music

RACHEL HUCHTHAUSEN, '23

I believe it was at the opening Greatbatch School of Music Convocation my Freshman year that I first heard about our tradition of singing the Doxology after every recital. Through all the changes music students have encountered, we've continued this tradition each time we crowd into the atrium. Granted, this crowding was spaced-out at times. After March of 2020, our performances and rehearsals looked dramatically different with masks over our faces and bells of our wind instruments, performances over Zoom, limited collaboration. Now, I realize the joy of having a stand partner in orchestra, of rubbing shoulders in choir, of being able to see each other's smiles as we pass in the halls. Looking back over the last four years, I've heard how our individual songs have matured, I've seen faithful work through practice room windows, and praise God as we celebrate these performers who are now our friends.

HOUGHTON UNIVERSITY CHOIR TOUR 2023

CHRIST OUR HOME

NEW YORK PENNSYLVANIA VIRGINIA MARYLAND NEW JERSEY

DR. DANIEL HAMMERS, '17

As a member of the class of 2017, there were nearly six years between the time that I graduated from Houghton College as a student and the time that I returned to teach biology at Houghton University as a professor. When I came back, it didn't take long to notice how many things were different, including the renovations to Paine, the new university president, and even the name of the institution itself. However, it also didn't take long to remember why Houghton was such an important place in my life. The things that made Houghton truly special to me – the relationships, the welcoming community, and the intentional integration of faith into day-to-day life – were still there, even though the people that I shared these spaces with as classmates had moved on. I am extremely excited and thankful for the opportunity to come back to Houghton, both to teach and to engage with the people that make Houghton such a unique place.

LETTER FROM The Editors

Thanks for picking up a copy of The Boulder, whether it is yours or you are looking at a friend's. We hope that you enjoy reading and looking through it, just as much as we had creating it! This book serves as a snapshot of memories here at Houghton that you can share with family and friends now and in the future.

We thought that we would never see this book come to print. It has taken many many hours, 65 alone on the design site! It would have not been possible without those that restarted The Boulder two years ago and pushed for the continuation of production despite other setbacks. Many of us do not realize how valuable a yearbook can be, until ten to twenty years from now when we want to look up the name of a classmate or show a funny memory to family.

That is why we want to give a huge thank you to all of those that made this project come to life! With the help of the people in MarCom, Alumni and Engagement, Registrars, Athletics, and the faculty, staff and students, we were able to create this book. We are so grateful for the number of photos sent in and for you all responding to our emails for write-ups and information! Thank you also to our small staff of Chesnie and Anna who helped us with reaching out to departments and clubs to gather photos. You really made a difference!

As we all walk the stage in a few short weeks, we want to extend a sincere thank you to our friends, professors, and parents for helping us get through college. We look forward to what the future holds, but are also extremely grateful for the relationships that have been made and lives that have impacted us. From the editing staff, it has truly been a pleasure getting to know you all, serve you in different ways, and live as students together.

All the best,

Ella & Mary

An accurate look at us constantly working on the yearbook. :)
