Even before the war Miss Lejeune was a career woman, having held an office in the church government in one of the German states, where she was under a bishop and over 720 ministers, her position being head of an organization of women and childten from all the churches in that state. This was Christian work, said Miss Lejeune. I traveled about the state filling speaking engagements when not in my home office.

After holding this job for six years Miss Lejeune established a school for brides, the first and only school of its kind in the world, to her knowledge. Her school was in her 28-room house in Eisenach, Germany, libertice of free speech, writing, or

Rekindling Revival Fires

For over a decade, Christians have been looking to God for a reviva'. Pastors have been urging their people to pray that a great spiritual awakening will sweep America. Judging from the occurances of the last few years, one might conclude that the long awaited nterested party) would like to make is at last happening and that our nation is being quickened to the some comments. realities of God.

selves from various and distant sectors of the country. Christian believers were stirred by the amazingly successful meetings in Los Angeles and Boston under the leadership of youthful Bill Graham. even say that there is more "weeping More recently the spontaneous confession meeting at Wheaton hit the headlines, received space in numerous editorial columns, and earned a two-page spread in Life magazine.

The need and hunger of America for the things of God is plainly indicated by the plans of church bodies for 1950. The Federal Council of Churches, disunited as it is in its message, has united 38 denominations in a national effort by holding 60 city-wide evangelistic campaigns in various parts of America. Simultaneously a New Life Campaign is being conducted by the Presbyterian church for the expressed purpose of winning a million souls to Christ Meanwhile the Methodist church is conducting a great campaign in Philadelphia to rekindle evangelistic fires.

A little over a year ago, St. John's Cathedral in New York City held gigantic evangelistic meetings with 10,000 people attending every day. A repeat performance occured in St. Bartholomew's Episcopal church of New York City, where on one night, 187 pro fessed faith in Christ for the first time.

For a better understanding of what is happening a survey should be taken of some further specific instances of the definite working of God in reviving men's hearts to their soul's need of Christ as Saviot. In a tabernacle campaign in Syracuse, this working was ψ dort. Labor unions cooperated by contributing their time for the contruction of a tabernacle when no suitable meeting place could be four.d. The final result was 312 conversions and 202 reconsecrations

Although containing seats for 3,500, the largest auditorium in Springfield, Missouri was incapable of holding the crowd, and there was a result of 300 conversions within eighteen days.

All America is aware of the gigantic campaign that rocked glamorous and glorious Los Angeles. Here the simple gospel preached in a circus tent resulted in 3,000 conversions, several of which were so outstanding as to definitely move the entertainment religion. The fact that fellows and industry. A similar campaign in Boston resulted in an equal mount girls are allowed to mingle freely of convensions. And there are many other instances of the less spectacular but equally important moving of the Holy Spirit.

The revival Christian saints have been waiting and praying for may be at hand. Many indicators-gross immorality and inter national chaos for example-point to conditions which have previously preceeded nation-wide revivals. It is the special responsibility of every Christian believer to pray for a gracious out-pouring of the Holy Spirit, for it may be the last chance that the people of this splitting globe will have to turn to God.

Now, I have noted that the "Havenots," especially during the past three years, have been labeled "snobs," "bigots," selfish," etc. My purpose has been, during these past two weeks, and I have spent more time and space than I should have, to present practical, truthful defense for the "Havenots." Every effect has its cause, and I intend to lay it bare. The dating problem still exists, and I predict that unless some changes are made in the very nature of the local set-up, the problem will continue.

I have spent much time and thought in preparing this article, and it is not without hesitation that I present it to you, my readers. I realize that I have, to a large extent, set myself up to public condemnation, but I feel that if these few jottings will set you to thinking, which is the first step toward an adequate solution, then my risk has not been entirely in vain. My research and questionings have revealed the following basic causes behind the problem at hand: 1. The desire of dating, not just for the sake of dating, but with an eye towards the future, yet having a purse which will allow for but one or two dates at the best.

2. The presence and potency of social pressure which tends to make "accessories" a must—interpret that as you will. Some will reply "but he shouldn't feel that way . . ."; yet he shouldn't feel that way . . my findings tell me that he does, and our social setup, in this case, to be of value, must be based upon the situation as it is and not on as it should be.

3. The fear that limited facilities, program, time, and privileges will tend toward monotony—the end thereof being the ways of certain ruin. Such a fear is justifiable-for its basis has been proved time and again. 4. The fear, by some, of being classified as a "steady" after one or two dates. Such, however, is almost unavoidable and will be experienced her by the Anna Houghton Daughanywhere.

DEAR MEN: Lately, several strange occurrences have caused me to spend much time in meditation. Perhaps you too have noticed the unusual course which events have been taking for the last month. As I look into the past, I cannot help but observe that no such happenings have ever been recorded in all the histories of life and love. To be specific, the reason for this pistle to you is the frightening list of engagements which appeared in our college newspaper, the Star, a few weeks ago. Mr. Stanley Soderberg would probably say that an amazing number of "have-nots" have slipped into a state of "have." At any rate, this has caused me quite a little worry, because it seems as to the causes of this dire trend, for I could not bring myself to believe that these things happen of themselves. First, I looked to the pist to see if I could determine the causes from history, but only to find that the present situation is unique in every sense of the word.

Leafing through Star after Star, I saw that in the past, the trend was just as one would expect—that is, very leap year showed a great increase in engagements, while the intervening years revealed relatively few of the desk in the periodical room, helping same. That is as it should be. But students find various things tucked still the situation today remains unsame. That is as it should be. But accounted for.

Really, I think there are only two possible reasons: either you have become more susceptible, or the ladies have become more aggressive. Notice the use of "more." Men always were susceptible, and occasionally I have wondered how they could become more so. Similarly, the "lesser" sex has always been aggressive, and I also wonder how they could be more so.

"Coises --- Foiled Again"

Every year about this time a veritable epidemic of colds and virus diseases breaks out at school. Miss Dorothy Vogel, R.N., nurse at the college infirmary, was interviewed as to the causes and possible means for preventing such outbreaks. According to Miss Vogel, students do not take care to keep feet dry and Lassen's "Es war ein Traum," Maswarm, nor do they wear enough clothing.

"By the time most students report to the infirmary, their colds are too far advanced to be checked easily," Nurse Vogel declares. When queried about the possibility of issuing antihistamines to students and instructing them to use them at the first signs of a cold, Miss Vogel said she thought it might be a good idea.

A few suggestions Miss Vogel offered for the prevention of colds

- are: Above all, get enough sleep.
- 2. Avoid contact with people who have colds.
- Dress warmly and keep feet 3.
- dry. 4. Report to infirmary at first sign

You will ask me, "Why then are they so much more successful on leap year than on other years?" To which I reply, the difference is not in the aggressiveness of the women, but the subtleness with which they cover their aggression.

Let us get back to the immediate question: "Are the men in their susceptibility or the women in their aggression to blame for the present state of affairs?" For many days I pondered this dilemma, but could find no answer.

Then, a little over two weeks ago, we celebrated St. Valentine's Day. At that time I made many observations which caused me to wonder a great deal. I will relate but one of these observations to you. "Novellette Op. 21, No. 5," Chopin's "Nocturne Op. 15, No. 2" and "Grande Valse Brillante Op. 18," were followed by her closing group: Debussey's "Des Pas Sur La Niege," and MacDowell's "Of Br'er Rabbit Op. 61, No. 2" and "Polonaise Op. 46, No. 12."

Miss Atkins' selections were also aried considerably. Reaching from Vivaldi to Horsman. Handel's "I Know That My Redeemer Liveth" from the Messiah was the opening number, followed by Vivaldi's "Un Certo Non So Che." Another Italian aria, "Se Florindo e Fedele by A. Scarlatti was Miss Atkins' next offering. Finishing the group, she sang an aria from Mozart's Marriage Figaro, "Deh Vieni, Non Tarof dar.'

Art songs made up Miss Atkins' second group. It consisted of Schu-bert's "Wohin" and "Wasserfluth," senet's "Bonne Nuit" and "Obeissons Quand Leur Voix." Her final group consisted of songs in English by Rach-maninoff, "The Island"; Michael Head, "A Piper"; Igor Novello, "A Page's Road Song"; Farwell, "On a Faded Violet"; and Horsman, "The Bird of the Wilderness."

Miss Morris is a student of Mrs. Marcile Mack, Miss Atkins of Mr. Philip J. Mack. Both of them presented this recital in partial fulfillment for the Bachelor of Music degree in Music Education.

If the first quarter gave the impression that the game was in the bag for the Pharoahs, the second quarter changed the picture considerably as Bud Lewis hit the bucket for 11 points.

I don't know exactly what happened between the halves, but in the third period, the game went wild. Just like a football game it looked, with just about as many passes completed. Gold, with only a 4 point lead could scarcely afford it any more than Purple. Max Nichols who didn't score a field goal against the close defense in the first half, shook loose, took aim, and raised his total for the game to 19 points. Just nosing him out was Bud Lewis who 20 counters from under the sank backboards to pocket honors for the game. In the last quarter, the Gold reserves came in handy, since the game was the fastest Houghton has seen this year.
