Student Organizations

Allegany County Outreach

Allegany County Outreach is one of Houghton's oldest and most vibrant clubs. Its purpose is to match up college students with children in the area so that both can grow from the relationship. Over the past year, thanks to the grace of God, ACO has managed to keep afloat despite Cabinet issues. We threw five parties for the Bigs and Littles this year, and brought nine new pairs of siblings together, bringing the total number of children involved up to 30. The real results are impossible to measure by numbers, however, and may not be fully realized for years to come.

Next semester, a full Cabinet will be assembled and we hope to increase the number of kids in the program from 30 to 50 by contacting local schools and social agencies. Regardless of the count, ACO will continue the mission it has had from the start: showing the love of Christ to children and becoming more like Him by following His example, and improvising where we don't have specific instructions. Jesus took long walks, played with boats, and drew in the dirt, so we tend to figure muddy hikes, toy cars, and finger-painting are fairly close approximations. Serve the Lord and have fun doing it!

Artist Guild

The heart of Artist's Guild is to provide a forum for students, both art majors and non art majors, to be a part of the art world. This proves to be a flexible statement time and time again as new ideas are brought to the table. We consider our job fulfilled if, at the end of the year, we have managed to be a part of events on campus and have ourselves grown as artists. We meet weekly as a cabinet and regular members to discuss new ideas and opportunities. This year has been a particularly fun year because not only have we been able to put on events for the community but other groups have approached us for collaborative projects. Perhaps our highlight for the fall semester would be World Aids Day. Some of our members painted in chapel, others donated work to be auctioned, and still others made screens to print the World Aids Day logo on t-shirts and other clothing items. In the spring semester, we played a large role in PRAXIS by both setting up an open-submission show in the campus center lounge and hosting an informal "arts and crafts therapy session" in JAVA 101. Also, this coming May, we will be painting murals for a local Christian camp. These events, combined with hanging the JAVA 101 shows, lending out work for events, hosting tea parties, attending art talks and "theory Thursday" with Ryan Thompson, doing odd jobs for CAB events and embarking on trips to art galleries are really what we do. Next year we are already planning a printmaking day (much like those in the past) where students will be able to have clothing screen printed and partake in other fun activities (wholesome yet "radical", if you will). We can't wait for next year and we had a lot of fun this year. After all, we believe the whole campus should have a little art in their lives!

Campus Activities Board

We are the fun people, affectionately referred to as CAB. Our 12-person team plans, organizes, and funds the majority of campus-wide activities. Remember Pop-Tarts® Birthday Party? That was us. Old school roller-skating in the gym? Us too. Whether it's an 80s-themed dance, a Superhero-themed party, or a come-as-you-are coffeehouse in Java 101, CAB is dedicated to encourage the growth and development of relationships and integration of diversity. We seek to provide meaningful and shared experiences through events that will stick with you and make you say, "Remember that time when...."

In addition to our annual Houghton Hoedown – complete with an electric bull, kettle corn popcorn, and of course, square dancing – we brought in Houghton's first ever DJ at the fall Homecoming Dance. Students, faculty, staff, and community members Macarena-ed, Cupid shuffle-ed, and Electric slid all! CAB also introduced the popular Wing Night hosted by the local 3 Bums pizzeria, serving us poor college students chicken wings for just 25cents each as we watched the "big game" being aired that night. And in keeping with CAB tradition, we continued some campus faves, including pre-release movie showings like Inception and Toy Story 3, and bus trips to New York City and Washington DC. And this spring we made the 5th Annual Houghton Film Festival the best of our five years! We've had a busy year and we hope that you've noticed. We love what we do and will keep it coming.

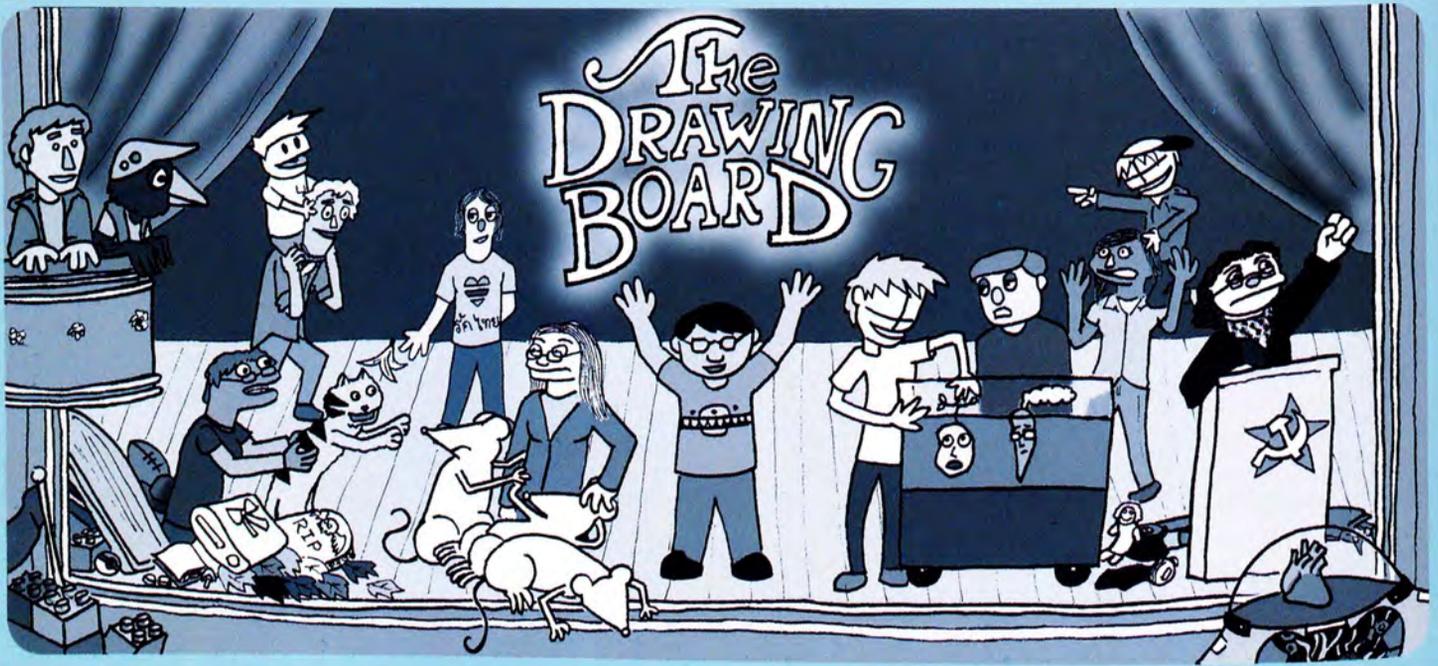

CMENC

CMENC, otherwise known as the Music Educator's Club, started off the year with a Luau-themed "Back-to-School Bash" for all music majors. A CMENC version of the TV show "The Amazing Race" and the annual CMENC recital for music majors to do crazy skits and music-related stunts kept music majors entertained in the fall. During the Christmas season, CMENC hosted "Christmas in the Atrium" where student chamber ensembles serenaded the CFA with Christmas tunes.

In the spring, CMENC sponsored an Orff Workshop and an Instrumental Repair Clinic for music majors interested in expanding their knowledge of music education. We also hosted a Student Teacher Luncheon in April for past student teachers to share their knowledge and experience with future student teachers. The annual T-shirt design contest was a success, and now more people can be seen sporting music apparel. We had a great mix of educational workshops and exciting social events, keeping the CFA busy!

When Luke Doty, housemate and former editor of The Drawing Board told me that he would be stepping down from his position, I was apprehensive. It was our first month back and although I had been co-editor the year before I wasn't sure I was ready for the responsibility. I knew from experience that problems that would arise, that surely there would be dips in artists' submissions, etcetera. The Drawing Board was at least one night of work a week, and even still I wasn't sure I wanted to do it.

On the last Thursday of September 2010 I marched around campus setting Issue 76 of The Drawing Board on tables all over the college. My hair had been buzzed, there were only nine artists, and the issue had been laid out with Microsoft Publisher. Last week I distributed the Issue 98, laid out with professional publishing software, featuring ten remarkable artists, my hair much, much, much longer.

This year I have strived to bring this publication to new heights in every way. New artists have joined, a Facebook group was born, and apparently people have started reading the Editor's Panel because a contest I ran actually had a winner. I believe this campus deserves comic strips, and am thankful that for one year [and one more to come] I was the person to fill that need. -Evan Yeong

Encore

Encore is a theater group on campus devoted to producing plays, encouraging theater in its various forms on campus, and developing the dramatic talents of Houghton's student body. Another aim of the club has been to explore varying types of theater: dramas, comedies, short and long productions, typical and atypical venues, etc. This has been exemplified by the variety of shows Encore brought to Houghton's campus this year. Fall semester Encore performed Harlequin Refined by Love as a comedy, half in English and half in French. Its physical and slapstick nature allowed the production to thrive on a makeshift stage in the campus center. The seating was booked both nights and students even lined the cafeteria stairs to catch a glimpse of the outrageous comedy. The spring semester brought two full-length productions: William Shakespeare's The Merry Wives of Windsor and John Patrick Shanley's Doubt. Though Merry Wives is a lesser-known Shakespearean comedy, the physical nature of the play and the skills of the variety of actors kept the audience following the lively plot. The weekend provided homework relief full of comedic duels and romantic fallouts. The production of Doubt was a more serious endeavor, rehearsed intensively over February break and performed several weeks later as an alternative chapel. The production was followed by a panel discussion, and was meant to provoke future questions and discussion amongst students about the role of doubt in our journeys of faith. These three full-length productions were supplemented with a variety of short chapel monologues, skits, and readings. The range of Encore's theater productions has been (and will continue to be) wide, as the actors and technical members successfully seek to introduce Houghton to a range of lesser-known productions.

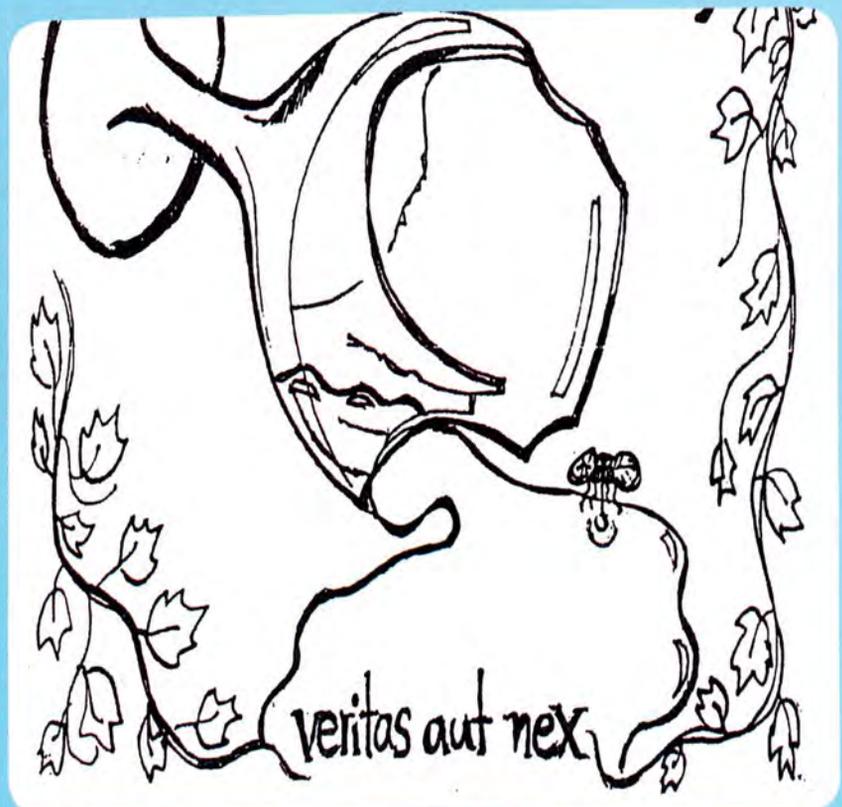

Evangelicals for Social Action

Evangelicals for Social Action (ESA) is a group of students who have dedicated themselves to working towards both raising awareness and taking action to bring about social justice (and is in no way connected to the national association of Evangelicals for Social Action). Highlights of the year include baking cupcakes to celebrate Cupcakes for Life, a day dedicated to engaging in the Pro-Life movement in a nonthreatening, non-judgmental way. Cabinet members Ashley Couch, Bethany Jamison and Elizabeth Mason worked hard to address not only global issues, but local issues as well. ESA made trips to local farmer's markets to promote local buying and hosted an informal discussion on the importance of supporting the local economy. We also took part in sponsoring Take Back the Night, an event focused on raising awareness about domestic violence. The annual Human Trafficking Awareness week continued on a much smaller level in partnership with Houghton Wesleyan Church. ESA looks forward to another great year for 2011-2012, and welcomes any and all new members, ideas or propositions.

Gadfly Society

The Gadfly Society is a discussion group that aims to "promote awareness of the relevance of philosophical perspectives to practical issues." This year's meetings have included discussions on the major heresies of Christianity, the clash of civilizations between Islam and the west, as well as Intellect vs. faith.

Highlights of the year have been co-hosting the "Philosophy of Law Forum" with the Runnymede Pre-Law Society, with discussion panelists Dr. Pearse, Dr. Meilaender, and Dr. Stewart. In addition to the panel, The Gadfly Society has also had the luxury of inviting guest speakers to attend it's meetings including: Dr. Case -who presented on Digimodernism, Dr. Stewart on The Nature of Reality, Dr. Michael Jordon on Sacramentology, Katrina Khoeler on Quantum Physics and Olivia Butz's Senior Seminar piece. All of this is done over a spot of tea, and a good time is had by all.

Global Christian Fellowship

Global Christian Fellowship reminds the Houghton community to look not only to those directly around them, but globally as well. GCF meets every Wednesday evening to spend time in fellowship, hosting missionaries, community members and students who share God's heart for the global body of Christ. Our specific vision for this year has been preparing students for missions work after Houghton, as well as for the work God has for us here and now. GCF coordinates weekly prayer groups that focus on different global issues each week and are led by different students every weekday. Also, GCF hosted Houghton's annual New Vision Week conference, this year with a focus on Apologetics.

Gospel Choir

"I need you, you need me, we're all a part of God's body. Stand with me, agree with me, we're all a part of God's body. It is his will that every need be supplied. You are important to me, I need you to survive."

Gospel Choir is more than just a student led organization, more than just a singing group; it is one big family where we strive to truly embody the words above. This year, we focused on how necessary it is to totally surrender our lives to God (2 Chronicles 7:14) and to always rejoice in the goodness of God's grace that we receive regardless of what we are going through (Romans 3:23-24, Romans 5:1-11). This past semester we were able to share amongst each other, with the many churches we visited and the Houghton community. It has been a privilege to hear the many testimonies of how God has moved and worked in the lives of the choir members and those we have been given the opportunity to fellowship with.

Heritage Club

The Heritage Club is committed to integrating faith and community with the celebration and promotion of the culture and awareness of people of African descent through the development of personal, social, and educational improvement both historically and presently. This process of awareness and education was also a key part of the Heritage Club's weekly meetings. Each year, the Heritage Club organizes activities, events, and programs during Black History Month. In the fall, the Club collaborated and worked alongside Journey's End to facilitate a service learning event aiding Refugee families in Buffalo, NY. This year, the Heritage Club planned and hosted a campus wide documentary event entitled, Come Walk In My Shoes, highlighting the collective history and significance of the Civil Rights Movement, including a Pilgrimage of unsung heroes. This event was motivated by the experience of Houghton students, faculty and staff, who attended the actual Civil Rights Pilgrimage in Alabama this year.

The Club has also hosted several notable speakers including Rev. Joseph A. C. Smith from Howard Divinity in Washington, D.C., Rev. Dr. Anthony Graham, Senior Pastor of New Hope Family Worship Center in Brooklyn, NY., and Eurisca Chandler, Resident Director of Gillette Hall, Houghton. The Club also facilitated unique cultural opportunities by organizing visits to the Church of Love Faith Center and Calvary Church of the Nazarene in Rochester, NY.

Imitators of Christ

Imitators of Christ is a student-run organization seeking to offer students the opportunity to grow and learn from influential men and women of God in the Houghton community through mentoring relationships. Mentors meet with students on a regular basis to do a variety of things, including Bible studies and prayer. This provides students with role models, and helps them build lasting relationships with people in the community. As Paul wrote, "Be imitators of God, therefore, as dearly loved children..." Ephesians 5:1

Impressions

The Impressions Mime team started off the year learning a human drama called "King of Hearts." As is our custom, we molded the skit to form a clear message that would be able to minister to the campus in a meaningful way. For the fall semester, the team changed leadership, with Jonathon Duttweiler leading the team and helping choreograph "King of Hearts." In the spring semester the previous president, Joanna Stolzenbug, had returned to campus after student teaching. The team immediately began preparing for the next skit. As is often the case, the team searches for songs with a message and story and then builds a skit around the message of the song. During our first meeting we entertained the idea of trying something very different and looked into the song "Dear X" by Disciple. After a few weeks, the team decided to pursue the song "Going through the Motions" by Matthew West, a song we had been thinking about doing since last year. The message seemed perfect for the season of Lent. After several weeks of choreographing the skit, we changed the skit completely about two weeks before we were scheduled to perform it in chapel. Our message stayed the same, but the choreography of the skit completely changed from its original plan. The team finished the year off by performing the skit during a "Stations of the Cross" chapel in April. We look forward to next year with new leadership, new students to participate, and new messages to challenge us as a team and as a campus.

International Student Association

The International Student Association (ISA) aims to provide ways for students and faculty to learn about and connect to other cultures. Anyone can be a member, whether or not they consider themselves "international." In a world where international interactions are increasingly frequent – even common – it is essential that we understand more about the cultures surrounding us. A great way to start is with the countries and cultures represented right here at Houghton College. ISA has attempted to do this through events like Chai Times, Chai and Crafts, and the International Banquet. This year the banquet's theme was "The Pacific Rim," focusing on Asian food and entertainment. Entertainment included traditional musical instruments, a Chinese pop song with accompanying choreography, and a version of Trivial Pursuit that Brian Webb created. Other events and informational opportunities were attempted, but fell through for various reasons. In lieu of this year's successes and failures, the current ISA cabinet is working to improve things for next year and include greater variety in its fun, educational opportunities.

Lanthorn

The Lanthorn is Houghton's group of brave artists and readers who are dedicated to sharing literary and artistic talent with the campus. Each semester, The Lanthorn publishes a book of poetry, prose, and artwork submitted by Houghton students and alumni, as well as a small chapbook for Praxis. This year the Lanthorn had two senior staff who worked with the volunteer staff members to judge the submissions and who designed and edited the publications.

This year the Lanthorn published a Praxis chapbook that emphasized the theme of "binding up the brokenhearted" in conjunction with the art exhibition, as well as a fall and a spring book.

Mercy Seat

For Mercyseat, this year has surely been a reminder of the Lord's faithfulness, if it could be summed up in a picture it might look like a beautiful sunrise after the storm. 2011 marks the 10th anniversary since the start of the ministry, changing names and looks along the way. Starting out as a prayer group within the dorms, with worship on Friday nights, it now stands as a nightly prayer and worship ministry, with the purpose of being a place for the Houghton community to come and be in a prayerful and worshipful atmosphere. It stands as a place where we can come together and lift up this community and intercede on its behalf. The Lord faithfully gave us the grace to come together nightly, to worship and praise Him, while praying for this campus. He is so good, isn't He?!

This year, we partnered with GCF, Gospel Choir, and Koinonia to host "The Cry." The Fall theme was Freedom and the Spring was Grace: Confession and Restoration. Presser Hall was decked out with art that people created while praying and worshipping. On the mirror was a "Jesus Tree;" a sketch of Jesus, surrounded by intertwined branches that made up a tree. This served as a place for people to confess sins, doubts, and any other burdens, signifying that Jesus had already taken them on the cross.

It is wonderful to see how God meets us right where we are, again and again, with His grace: His grace to pray and worship and give Him everything.

Pointe to Christ

Pointe to Christ Dance Ministry Team is a group of girls who seek to glorify God through the gift of dancing He has given us. The team has come far this year, presenting worship in chapel multiple times and beginning a new partnership with the Gospel Choir at their concert in the spring. Pointe to Christ hopes to touch many in the coming year as well as grow spiritually together during rehearsal and prayer times.

Psychology Club

Psychology Club is an organization intended to promote interest in psychology through awareness of topics within psychology and discussions of psychology-related ideas. Led by a team of five psychology majors, Psychology Club often hosts movie nights, panel discussions, and other forums which are open to both majors and non-majors. This year, Psychology Club hosted a screening of "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest," and it was followed by a discussion led by Dr. Richard Stegen. In addition, Psychology Club funds contributed to co-hosting various forums. At the end of the year, Psychology Club helped host the annual Psychology-Sociology Banquet celebrating the achievements of psychology majors.

Salvation Army Student Fellowship

The Salvation Army Student Fellowship is a group of students who are committed to the Salvation Army church. While there are a few Salvation Army soldiers on campus, most members are simply students who attend the service every week in Wellsville. Some are dedicated in further ways - anything from filling officer positions in the group to taking care of children in the nursery. This year we've had an especially large group of members dedicated to using their talents in the worship band on Sundays. Every year the SASF organizes thrift store sales in the basement of the campus center and a few retreats/outings for the students, and there is an annual mission's trip in the spring during one of the college breaks. The mission's trip this year was in Pittsburgh, PA, and included organizing vacation bible school programs, cleaning out basements, and helping out with other projects. The week ended in a powerful Good Friday service that was led almost entirely by the SASF. It's an amazing group that really emphasizes fellowship and encourages growth in love and friendships as we understand more about what it means to follow God.

Student Government Association

Representation was the key word for this past year's SGA. Last year was one of the more active of recent years, starting with the wrapping up of the previous year's safe space discussions and culminating with the ratification of the new student body constitution. The 67th Student Senate saw several major actions taken, including the establishment of four new clubs: The Willard Avenue Irregulars, the Runnymede Pre-Law Society, the Houghton Musical Theater Players, and the long awaited Foam in the Liberal Arts. November's forum and the subsequent passage of the resolution on the new brand also reminds us that the administration really does consider what the students think and the SGA is here to make sure we, the students, are represented to the fullest.

Sigma Zeta

A national undergraduate honor society to encourage and foster the attainment of knowledge in the natural and computer sciences and mathematics and to recognize the attainment of high scholarship among society members.

Ski Club

The Ski club has been an awesome mix of fun times with friends taking advantage of the snow that falls so heavily during the winter season. The club takes about 8 trips to Holiday Valley on Sunday nights and we get together over winter break to go skiing as well. Several members of the club went skiing at Smugglers Notch this year. The club allows people to enjoy the snow and release the stress levels that come with being a Houghton student.

Spanish Club

The Spanish Club's purpose is to stimulate student interest in Spanish language and culture by providing a group in which students of all levels can practice their Spanish, engage in activities emphasizing the Spanish language, and learn about the cultures of Spanish-speaking countries. The cabinet this year has worked hard to put together many different events for each semester. Some highlights were a Salsa Night (food, dancing, and music) in conjunction with Intercultural Student Programs to kick off the school year, a Christmas party in which we all sang villancicos (Spanish Christmas carols) in the campus center, and busting open piñatas for two parties. About twenty students also went up to attend the Primera Iglesia Cristiana Hispana (First Spanish Christian Church) in Rochester during the spring semester. It was a great opportunity for everyone to widen their perspectives of the world and experience Spanish-speaking cultures in the United States, especially their worship styles. The Spanish speakers who attend this church are extremely energetic; they even sang us all a welcome song during the service! The church members invited us to a meal after the service in celebration of the church's forty-first anniversary. It was a wonderful time of worship and fellowship. Spanish Club has enjoyed a very successful year and is looking forward to another full year next year!

STAR

For over 100 years, the Star has served as limited public forum for Houghton College. It is a medium for the expression of student thought and as a quality publication of significant community news and events. The mission of the Houghton Star is to preserve and promote the values of dialogue, transparency and integrity, which is done by serving as a medium for the expression of student thought and as a quality publication of significant area news and events.

This year, the Star underwent its first review process during which a journalism professor from Gordon College acted as an outside consultant to aid the Star staff, Houghton College administration, and the college as a whole to be able to aid the Star in its mission of promoting journalistic education and integrity, and of being of service for the entire Houghton community. As a result, the 2010-2011 Star editorial staff developed a series of ideas and goals to strengthen the professionalism of the Star and to create a sense of ownership among Houghton College community members.

Teachers Of Today and Tomorrow

Teachers of Today and Tomorrow (TOTT) is a club designed to build connections between education majors (ICE, ADE, P.E., Music, TESOL). We strive to provide opportunities for professional development (guest speakers, panel discussions, mock interviews) and community service with local schools (backpack drives, reader's theatre, character assemblies). This year we co-sponsored a showing of "Waiting for Superman", helped with an on campus book-sale to raise money for literacy projects, and co-sponsored a coffee house to promote global awareness.

Ultimate Frisbee

The Houghton Ultimate Roaring Sheep is a completely student managed team that is dedicated to enjoying God's creation and building friendships by playing ultimate Frisbee. The Sheep have been sprinting, throwing, and diving since the team was first formed in 2003. Ultimate is different from other sports in that there isn't an off season – tournaments are held year-round on fields, in gyms, and on beaches. Practice is held daily on the Field of Dreams or on the quad when the weather is nice, and moved indoors to the gym when it starts snowing. The Sheep are usually able to attend 4-5 tournaments in the fall semester, and slightly fewer in the slower spring semester. Some commonly played college teams in the area are Brockport, Fredonia, Buffalo, Geneseo, and Roberts Wesleyan. This year the Sheep had over 30 players on the team, half of which were seniors. The tournaments this fall included Canadaigua (3-3), Fredonia, and the highly anticipated Skylander tournament in Edinboro PA (4-3) which included a 15-2 game against Mercyhurst.

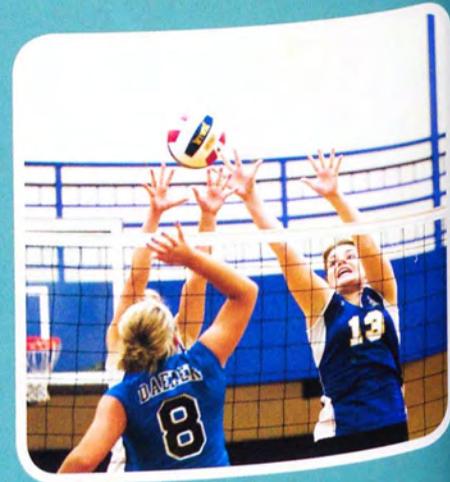

Ultimate is a self-refereed sport, which came about based on the spirit of the game. It's meant to foster a love for the game and a respect and trust for the other players. These are natural goals for the Roaring Sheep—to constantly strive to cultivate fellowship between teammates and between teams while engaging in healthy, fun competition.

Youth For Christ

Youth for Christ is an organization whose six centers located throughout Allegheny County are committed to helping out youth in local areas on a weekly basis. The YFC staff and the 20+ volunteers have all worked hard to provide a "Christ-centered" atmosphere for youth who want to learn about Him. The staff and volunteers have committed large amounts of time and energy this year in many different events. One of the biggest highlights for the youth are the "Gym Nights" held at the Houghton Gym, where the staff and kids enjoy the night playing volleyball, soccer, dodgeball, swimming, and other activities. There is always a message at the end of the gym nights and weekly meetings for the club that makes the kids thoughtfully consider their actions and, as Executive Director Keith Chase states, "helps to point them towards the saving knowledge of Jesus Christ." Perhaps the most exciting part for the YFC volunteers in the Wellsville club was the middle school lock-in. The kids participated in many events and eating contests throughout the night. The volunteers and kids both whipped out their dancing shoes in the hit game of Just Dance for the Wii. The volunteers were exhausted, but most of the kids were still wide awake after the 12 hours in the center. It was intense fun for all that participated. I always have a great time with the kids when club rolls around every week; especially when it comes after a particularly stressful week. The kids brighten the day of all the volunteers, and we love working and presenting the Gospel to them.

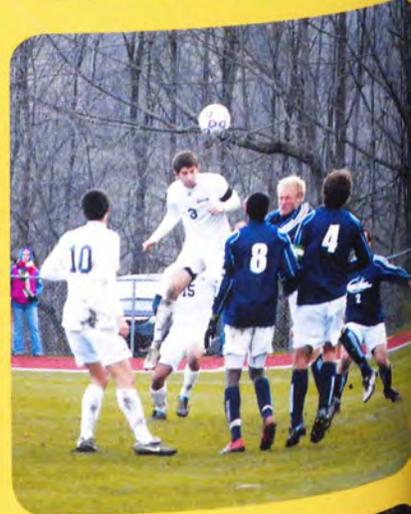

Athletics

Men's Soccer

Together. Throughout his tenure, Head Coach Matt Webb has continually stressed this idea both on and off the field. We act as one. It was no different this past fall. With the departure of a large '10 senior class, the Highlander soccer guys were not looking to take a step backward, but to pick up where we left off. The season began in a hurry with nationally ranked teams on our schedule. We bent a little at the beginning, going 2-4 in the first 6 games, but did not break. At Walsh University, a 1-0 victory marked a 180 degree turn. Over the course of the next 11 games, we went 10-1, with the highlighted victory being over Division I St. Bonaventure, 4-0, at Burke Field. The Highlanders advanced into the AMC tournament as the #2 seed and hosted MVNU for the second time. We went down in the 78th minute 0-1, but battled back together to tie the game on a goal from Stephen Bower with 7 minutes left. The game winner came with 50 seconds left on a finish by Daniel Smith. It was a game to remember. With the conclusion of the season, the team will miss the graduating seniors, Aaron, Johnny, Tim, Zach, and Chris, but the bar is set high, and there is no place to go but forward for this group of young men.

A team is a tight knit community that bears one another's burdens on and off the field. The key to our team's success has been this network of support. We have more than simply soccer in common, and love to build relationships and connections outside of mere practice time. We play best when we are connected relationally to one another. Through struggles on and off the field, we grow stronger as individuals and ultimately as a team that is focused on bringing glory to our Father in heaven. That is our mission and we are doing it together; on the field with our play and communication with each other, as well as off of the field with our actions and relationships. Our mission is to be servant leaders that enable one another to reach our highest potential. Whether that is having a better touch on the ball or building a well in Sierra Leone through the Score4Water project, we want every action of every player on the team to be pointing each other towards Christ.

This year's team rose to the challenge of filling the spots of graduated seniors and adjusting to having a new coach. With seven newcomers, we were a young team, but we focused on building our character in the areas of faithfulness, integrity, sacrifice and humility. Continuing the tradition of writing Philippians 4:13 on our arms, "I can do all things through Christ who strengthens me," we strove to do everything for Gods glory. Coach Hoffman not only encouraged us in our play but in our sisterhood with one another in Christ. Finishing the season with three big wins and a 7-9 record, we learned the importance of unity and hard work.

There is no doubt that Houghton's volleyball team is a close-knit group of friends. They have great chemistry off of the court, and the challenge for the 2010 season was to bring that chemistry onto the court. That goal was accomplished with a solid team that played together as a single unit. The girls did an excellent job of working together and building on one another's play. Some of the highlights from the season were 3-1 records for two consecutive weekend tournaments, a near perfect game with a score of 25-1 against Alfred University, and a very successful community fund raiser in the form of Digs for Dollars. The volleyball team decided together that they wanted to give back to the Houghton community, and received pledges for each dig that the team got during their final home game and had collection baskets during the game. The team raised over $1,200, which went directly to members of the community that were battling cancer. The women's volleyball team had one of their best seasons in years in terms of wins, but more importantly in growth.

Cross Country

The Highlanders welcomed the 2010 Cross Country season with fresh excitement as Matty and Mary Dougherty took the positions of head and assistant coach. With their enthusiasm and experience, the two brought on an excitement that was demonstrated by the team's success in competition. The program was strengthened by freshmen David Richards and Leah Williams, who contributed following strong high school careers to join the top five runners on both teams. On the women's side, Junior Danielle Brenon led the team with impressive results at each of the season meets in addition to claiming the title of AMC Champion, the first Lady Highlander ever to do so, and the honor of being named AMC Runner of the Week for three weeks. The men were led by Junior Stevie Hine and Freshman David Richards, whose consistently strong performances led to individual bids to compete at the national level. After hosting the American Midwest Conference Championships with remarkable performances on both sides, the Highlanders sent four individuals to the NAIA National Championships to represent the Conference—Senior Captain Heather Sayre, Danielle Brenon, Stevie Hine, and David Richards. The Highlanders were well represented at the National Championships in Vancouver, Washington, the most notable of which was Brenon's 7th place finish for the Highlanders best ever performance at the NAIA National Cross Country Championships.

Track & Field

The Highlander's Track & Field team compiled 46 personal best performances on the women's team and 27 on the men's team throughout an exciting indoor season. Five school records were broken: Men's Pole Vault by Andrew McGinnis, Alexa Thayer in Women's High Jump, Danielle Brenon in the 3000m and 8000m, and women's 4x200m relay consisting of Sarah Munkittrick, Courtney Coiro, Lydia Parsons and Katie Woodcock. The women's team also sent Heather Sayre, Danielle Brenon, Courtney Coiro, Sarah Munkittrick, Leah Williams, and Alexa Thayer to the NAIA Indoor National Championship meet in Erie.

Despite wintery weather clinging throughout most of the outdoor season, the teams turned out some impressive performances in the outdoor meets as well. The men's pole vault record was broken by Andrew McGinnis, and Alexa Thayer broke the women's high jump record within the first two meets. As of mid-season, the teams had combined for a total of 30 personal best performances and had high hopes for sending several athletes to the NAIA Outdoor National Championship in Indiana.

This year's Highlanders Men's Basketball Team began to take strides in a new direction with a goal in mind—to change the atmosphere of Houghton Basketball. At the beginning of the season, the team made it a point to focus on growing as a team and setting the groundwork for a program of future success.

In the Highlanders' first season under new Head Coach Drew Hannan, they began to move towards changing the program. Although their record did not reflect their accomplishments, at 6-21, the 2010 Men's Team became known for their intensity and hard work on the court, and team camaraderie and community involvement off it. The season was highlighted by winning a pair of exciting games in the Nations of Coaches Classic at Nyack College, and an intense battle against rival Roberts Wesleyan at home.

At the center of the team's growth was a core of experienced upperclassmen surrounded by young talent and determination. During the course of the year several underclassmen came into their own, contributing quality minutes and making a statement about the future of this program. Along the way, seniors Ryan Shay and Devin Paige capped off their careers by eclipsing the 1,000 point mark.

Women's Basketball

The women's basketball team had high expectations for this season coming off its most successful year since joining the AMC in 1999. The Lady Highlanders returned all but three of their players, adding to the anticipation for a successful season. Those high expectations coincided with what Coach Lord called "the toughest schedule women's basketball has ever faced," and Houghton finished the season at 10-16 overall and 5-11 in the conference.

Two highlights from the 2010-2011 season stand out as representative of the team's character. The Christmas break trip to California involved games played against Vanguard University and San Diego Christian College, two successful NAIA Division I teams. While both of those games resulted in losses, the Lady Highlanders represented themselves well and experienced tremendous improvement over the course of the trip. A second highlight reflected the strong desire of the team to use their athletic gifts as a ministry and an offering. Opposing teams were invited to center Court after every home game for a time of prayer. These times represented dedication to the athletic department's ultimate goal of sharing the gospel through sport.

Homecoming

Fall SPOT

SPOT is a strange animal to describe. It is, at its very core a reflection of the uniqueness of Houghton life. It showcases Houghton people doing Houghtonish things in Wesley Chapel. It's a variety show that packs Wesley Chapel to the brim. This year we, Kyle Johnson and Nathanael Smith, had the opportunity to host SPOT. We played off the fact that we have been good friends for the last three years and themed the show around "Dynamic Duos". We had a heavily costumed show, switching between duos such as ketchup and mustard, Frodo and Sam. We decided to focus the show mostly on the individuals acts, using our theme only as a way to tie together the show. We were privileged to share the stage with a wide variety of acts, from Disney Dancers to comedic songs entitled "We All Come to Houghton to Get Engaged"

World Aids Day

Coffee and live music, what better combination? Perhaps coffee, live music, and a good cause. In honor of World AIDS Day on Wednesday, December 1, students organized a fundraising coffee house, including an art auction, cookie sale, and Christmas gift wrapping, with proceeds going to World Vision's Acting on AIDS.

During Wednesday's chapel service, students speaking out for social justice organized a tribute to World AIDS Day, with the focus on justice and the call to action. A few students gave moving testimonies of their interactions with AIDS victims in other countries, and challenged the student body to respond in prayer and action. During the service, several art students put their painting hands to work on palettes in front of the auditorium. These artworks and more were auctioned off at Thursday evening's coffee house. The night was a huge success, with the largest piece of student artwork auctioned at over $120,00!

Prism

"My soul doth magnify the Lord, and my spirit hath rejoiced in God my Saviour." There is something continually marvelous and unifying in the act of praising God in the same words as countless believers both past and present. This year's Prism concerts ("O Magnify the Lord With Me") were centered around a specific portion of Scripture used in various musical settings: the Magnificat. This prayer of Mary during her visit with Elizabeth was sung, played, read, and prayed by performers and audience alike. With a particular emphasis on organ music, the Prism concerts involved increased audience participation in hymns and carols, gathering believers together in an act of musical worship.

Whether for a first time participant or a returning performer, the concerts were a meaningful reward after many long rehearsals. For all participants, the process of Prism preparation will likely stir up many memories, such as the annual lesson from Dr. King in the art of walking softly, the working out of complex logistics, or the flustered hurrying of performers around the musicians attempting to study between numbers. The concerts too had their share of memorable moments, such as the sight of the warmly lit window hangings, listening to Dr. Congdon's rendition of Dupre's breathlessly exciting Gloria (from his Magnificat VI), or participating in the finale: Rutter's Gloria Patri (from his Magnificat). A singular moment unique to Prism 2010 was an impromptu mini-concert after the last performance for a bus of refugees that was delayed in travel and had missed the concert entirely.

After spending so much time, energy, and emotion in rehearsing and performing, it is hard not to have learned something about glorifying God with our work and our music. Hopefully, this will remain with us long after Prism concerts cease to be part of our lives every winter. In the words of Mary, "...for He who is mighty has done great things for me, and holy is His name. And His mercy is for those who fear him from generation to generation."

Encore

The Merry Wives of Windsor

Though one of Shakespeare's lesser known plays, this small-town comedy is also one of his funniest. Set in the sleepy English hamlet of Windsor where the locals usually have to make their own fun, the arrival of the bombastic knight John Falstaff (portrayed by Eric Carey in a fat-suit) provides lots of excitement. Short on cash, he tries to simultaneously woo both Mistress Ford and Mistress Page, since they are the wives of the two richest men in town. However, they are insulted by his advances, and after they realize that he sent each of them identical love letters, they vow revenge—but the comedic kind! The wives trick him into believing that they reciprocate his affections and invite him to the Ford house; the audience roared its approval when, in order to twice escape the clutches of the jealous Master Ford, he first squeezes into a laundry basket (which is later dumped into the Thames) and then disguises himself as an old woman and is beaten with a cudgel. Meanwhile, the young and beautiful Anne Page is being courted by three very different men—the dim Shallow, the angry Dr. Caius, and the noble Fenton. Throw into the mix a ponderous priest, a jolly innkeeper, and sassy servants, and you have the eccentric, eclectic people of Windsor, all brought to life by a talented cast! As characters entered and exited using both the stage and the aisles of the Recital Hall, the audience became a part of Windsor, and the use of anachronistic props like mailboxes and yo-yos added touches of humor to an already funny show. This accessible Shakespeare production was enjoyed by both avid Shakespeareans and neophytes alike.

Harlequin, Refined by Love

Parlez-vous français? Non? Pas de problème! Even though this fun, fast-paced play featured a mix of English and French dialogue, the ridiculous situations and comedic characters translated into a theater of language of laughter without a hitch! Transforming the Campus Center Lounge into a theater, Encore presented this 17th century comedy to a receptive audience—including passers-by drawn in by the shenanigans. The play begins with Merlin asking the Fairy Queen for her hand in marriage with him. Unfortunately, he is uncultured and not very bright—until, that is, he meets the lovely Sylvia, sparking the Fairy Queen's wrath! A unique aspect of this production was the splitting of the character, played by two separate people. However, this only doubled the fun, as the two portraying the same character could work together towards common goals like stealing magic herbs, herding sheep, and comforting distraught lovers. Nevertheless, the character of the Fairy Queen, still depicted by only one actress—Bekah Hall in her Houghton stage debut—whose dramatic scene proved a highlight of the show. The cast was rounded out by the group of imps who not only acted as the Fairy Queen's minions, but also became set pieces like trees and couches; Merlin, Merlin's bodyguards; and the tutors, whose interactions with the Harlequins were, unbeknownst to many audience members, based on improvisations worked out in rehearsals. This popular production provided an hour of relaxation and fun for Houghton residents both onstage and off.

Doubt

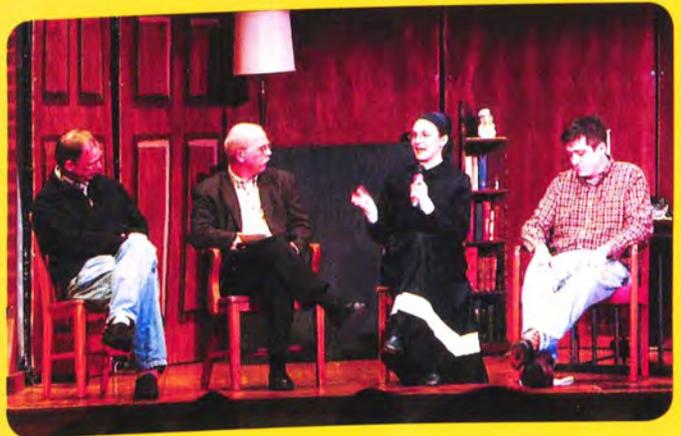

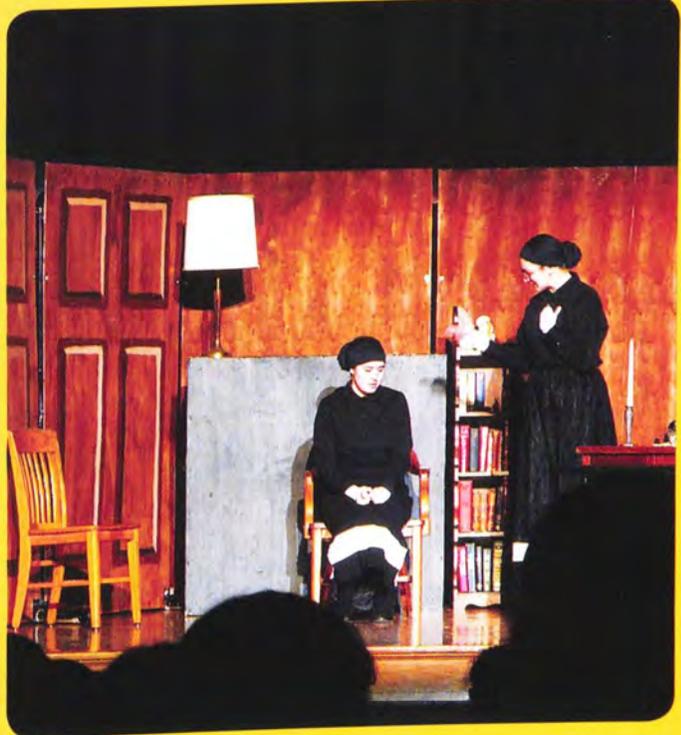

If you stepped into the chapel mid-way through February break you would have found an exhausted but dedicated cast and crew, knee-deep in John Patrick Shanley's award winning play, Doubt: A Parable. Three weeks later, over 300 Houghton students, faculty and community members honored this small cast and crew by showing up for the play, which was followed by a panel discussion.

Elizabeth Engleberth blew everyone away with her stunning portrayal of the set-in-her-ways, school principal and nun, Sister Aloysius. Eric Carey held his own as Sister Aloysius's opposite—the gregarious Father Flynn, and Lindsay Houghton played the perfect conflicted, 'audience-onstage,' Sister James. The play begins with humor covering serious undertones, and progresses forward rapidly into tense conflict as Sister Aloysius accuses Father Flynn of having improper relations with the first black boy at the catholic school. The audience engaged with the play, laughing when Sister Aloysius lectured on the evils of secular Christmas songs—"Frosty the Snowman espouses a pagan belief in magic,"—and holding their breath on her last, haunting words: "I have doubts. I have such doubts."

Directly after the performance, everyone was given a chance to unpack the play's many themes in the panel discussion, led by Dr. Wardwell, Dr. Michael Jordan, Murph, and Engleberth.

A highlight for cast and crew (directors: Katrina Kohler and Megan Little, assistant director: Andrew Evans, tech crew: Marylyn Holt and Micah Parlett) was an evening during the week of rehearsals when Mr. James Mullen came in and guest directed. The group genuinely enjoyed hanging out, making dinner together most evenings, and then relaxing over an episode of Dr. Who or Top Gear. They all learned a lot from working together, as well as from the play itself—getting intimate with such a challenging text forced them to grapple with it.

This was the fourth and final play that Katrina Koehler and Megan Little directed together at Houghton, and they viewed it as their parting gift to the community. They hope that Encore will have a rich and exciting future ahead—serving the Houghton community with quality student-run theatre.

College Plays

It was the weekend of October 29th. There was a chill in the air at Houghton as fifteen people were seen working inside the Tysinger Auditorium of Houghton Academy. They were preparing for a show. It was Dagnet.

Their Fearless Leader was directing the final preparations for the impending performance. After six weeks of rehearsal, the show was ready to hit the stage. But there were questions. The lead detective had lost his voice. Props had not been delivered. Handcuffs refused to stay locked. The end of this case was a mystery to them all. They each wondered if they would make it through the show.

The curtain opened. An uncharacteristically deep and rough voice broke the silence. Joe Friday sipped from strategically placed cups of water scattered around the stage. A .45 revolver became a .380 English-made, automatic pistol. The handcuffs made a truly open and shut case.

The curtain closed. Friday still had a voice. The killer was caught. The audience cheered. Three shows later, the investigation was over. The mystery had been solved. Dagnet was a hit.

The college play of the 2011 spring semester was "Father of the Bride" by Carol Francke. The play, a story about Kay Banks's impending wedding and the drama that occurs during preparations, opened to a fairly large audience in the second week of March. Four shows were performed between Thursday and Saturday. After each performance, audience members gave the impression that they had enjoyed themselves immensely and that it had been time well spent — however, none felt this more than we, the cast members.

"Father of the Bride" was my first play, and a wonderful experience. I acted as Kay Banks alongside such veterans of the Houghton stage as Eric Milkols (Stanley Banks), Rachel Stowe (Ellie Banks), and fellow newcomers Nate White, Nick Cannistraci (Tommy Banks), and Chris Tortorello (my fiancé Buckley), as well as many other extremely talented people. The entire cast was composed of people who, when put in a room together, could get nothing productive done, and was led by equally crazy director Nic Gunning. The first month of practice, we spent more time laughing, teasing each other than actually learning our lines. I think, however, that this was a good thing, because it created a strong bond between us that could not otherwise have been made. This bond made our relationships onstage (especially that of the Banks family) more believable than if we had simply been pretending to love each other. I made some of the best friendships I've ever had through my involvement in the play.

Since we didn't do as much work as we should have for the first month, the last few weeks before the show's opening were more than a little stressful as we buckled down on our command of our props, acting, and lines. It was at times very frustrating, but we were even one point in the last week of rehearsals where we were honestly not sure we could be ready in the little time we had left. In the end, though, our worries were nothing. We were able to pull ourselves together just in time, and put on a great show that we were all proud of.

The Curious Case of Artemis Butcherson started out as a play about saints, and was set in heaven. Well, actually it really began with a need to write a play for the Willard Avenue Irregulars; a fairly new theatre group at Houghton. The Irregulars only produce original content. Without it, there would be no group. So in the summer of 2010, Matt Stein knew that no play existed yet for the Irregulars to perform. So he decided to write one himself. Over the next 30 days, he worked and edited, and sent to friends the pieces of what would become "The Final Fare."

Once the play was done, a director was needed. The play would happen in the Spring, but Josiah would be graduated, and Matt didn't feel he was cut out to be a director, so the search was underway. Eventually, the Irregulars enlisted the help of Eric Mikols. A Junior at Houghton, and veteran of several plays, Eric was eager to try his hand at directing. He assembled a cast, but production started later than hoped for as Mikols finished "Father of the Bride," directed by Nicholas Gunning.

And once production was underway, there were several obstacles to surmount: scheduling conflicts, limited time, the sheer amount of complex dialogue (though the play itself was the shortest Irregular production to date). But laughter and fun was had as well. Anytime Matt Stein (as the eponymous hero Artemis) said "So that's good," it was a surefire sign that the scene was derailing. Mrs. Grimmer's (Eric Mikols) inarticulate mumbles always threatened to send Mrs. Turba (Melinda Ramey) into hysterics. And no one knows if the beatific looks toward heaven were of saintly contemplation, or of Eric Weber (as Nicholas) trying to remember his lines. All in all, it was a fantastic show, and all of the proceeds (like all Irregular proceeds) went to charity, in this case the Japan Relief Effort.

We're proud to be the only group on campus that puts on original content, from start to finish, and top to bottom. Of students, by students, for the community; and ultimately, for the glory of the One who gave us creativity: God.

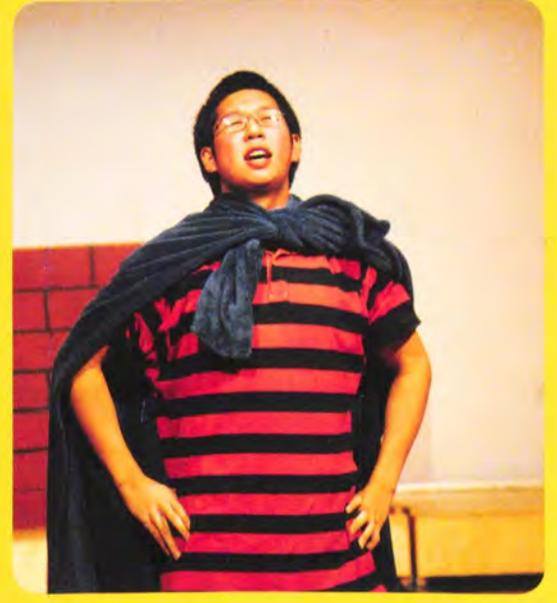

Opera Theater

Set in Paris in the late 1800's, Franz Lehar's opera The Merry Widow is a comical story of romance, politics, and mistaken identity. The opera was performed by Houghton's Lyric Theatre under the direction of vocal professor Dr. Cory Renbarger on March 31st -April 2nd, 2011. During a diplomatic visit to Paris by the officials of the mythical nation of Pontevedro, the country's ambassadors learn that their financial wellbeing lies in the hands of the wealthy widow, Hanna Glawari (played by Alicia Ucciferri and Jennifer Curinga). If the widow marries a foreigner, her fortune will be lost to the Fatherland. Baron Zeta (played by Julian Cook) entreats Hanna's former lover, Count Danilo Danilovitch (played by Brian Lustig) to marry the widow. Danilo initially refuses and buries himself in alcohol and dancing Grisettes. Meanwhile, Baron Zeta's wife, Valencienne, (played by Onna Wilson and Hillary Trumpler) is flirting with Count Camille (played by Jonathon Durtweiler and Adam Boynton). Through a hilarious set of circumstances, all turns out well with the ensemble celebrating the engagement of Danilo and Hanna. The entire cast performed to the best of their talents. A favorite moment was the duo of dueling Frenchmen played by Aaron Young and Micah Warf. The talented cast put on four shows over three nights and each night the audience was swept up in the music and laughter.

"Stage to Screen: A Broadway Revue" took its name from musicals that have made their way from the Broadway stage to film and was the fourth show performed by the HMTA. The plots of the shows ranged from high school romance to baseball to street gangs to protesting hippies. Directors Amber Marie Payne and Josiah Armstrong created a show of numbers that were not only entertaining, but also pushed the audience to confront and consider controversial topics of promiscuity, abstinence, drug-use, and juvenile delinquency. The show was the pinnacle of many cast members Houghton experience and included several spectacular full-cast dance numbers including tap dance! "Stage to Screen" reminded us all, to always let the sun shine in!

On November 5th and 6th, audiences were in for a special treat as the Houghton Musical Theater Players performed Clark Gesner's and John Gordon's "You're a Good Man Charlie Brown" based off of Charles M. Schultz's comic strip "Peanuts." The story is simple; we follow a day in the life of Charlie Brown (played by Josiah Armstrong) as he interacts with his sister Sally (Amber Payne), friends Linus (Evan Yeong), Lucy (Bethany Abrahams), and Schroder (Jonathon Duttweiler) and his good old dog Snoopy (as played by Robert Martin). Don't forget the rest of the gang Peppermint Patty (Audrey Kuvshnikov), Pig Pen (Kate Jeong), Woodstock (Theresa Bailey) and even the Little Red Head Girl (Cailin O'Donnell). The show follows Charlie Brown through school, flying his kite, and even a baseball game right on our very own stage in the Center for the Fine Arts Recital Hall. From the cast: We all had an amazing time putting together our show, and it truly was the highlight of the semester for us. This show could not have happened without the fabulous Kaylee Argenna as our director and the talented Steve Corell on piano. We thank everyone who had a part of this and all who came out to see us!

Purple & Gold Week

One of the distinct times at Houghton comes in the middle of spring semester. A time of Houghton tradition and pride, healthy rivalry and competition, known here as Purple and Gold Week.

Our spirit week consists of free t-shirts, music, parties, and Houghton's own variety show, SPOT. Every student receives either a purple or gold t-shirt of their choosing to spark the rivalry between Houghton's school colors. This competition between colors of course has a much richer history, as up until the late 1960s Houghton only allowed intra-collegiate athletics between a Purple team and Gold team.

Only a few short years ago, the Campus Activities Board and Student Programs Office drafted an idea to celebrate this Houghton competitive spirit with a week of activities where students can earn points for their team. The winning team is announced at the conclusion of events that week and is given bragging rights for the next year.

Every day had some new activity for students to participate in. Monday an improvisational comedy team from Buffalo, ComedySportz, put on a show similar to the television program "Whose Line Is It Anyway?" with a referee assigned to give points to either the Purple or Gold team. Tuesday featured a YouTube Coffeehouse counting down the top ten YouTube videos of all time and everything else in between. Wednesday night students braced the cold to make S'mores and sip cocoa outside by the quad. Thursday night hosted the annual CAB Game Show, featuring Minute to Win It and a ton of prizes. Friday made way for the annual Dodge Ball Tournament and Saturday we watched our athletes compete and cheered them on from the CAB Couch.

The week finished with hands-down the most anticipated of student events on campus - SPOT. This variety show is a showcase of campus talent and wit, cleverness and humor. Nearly two-thirds of the campus, including students, faculty, staff, and community members, came to enjoy the show. It was here that congratulations were offered to Team Gold for winning the 2011 Purple and Gold Week Challenge.

Spring SPOT

Apparently Houghton hadn't had enough of us Kyle Johnson and Nathanael Smith, yet (or perhaps they were just desperate), because we were asked to be among the guest hosts in Spring's SPOT. The show started off lyrically, with a dating game where all the participants spoke in popular song lyrics, e.g. "I'm Caught in a Bad Romance". The show continued with more great acts; music videos about coffee or love destroyed by carnivorous desires, songs about undeclared majors or another Alex Glover classic satire to the tune of 'Hot Cross Buns'. Speaking of buns, we were sandwiched between two such acts, and told some particularly hilarious jokes, if we do say so ourselves. What a rush.

SPOT is one of the greatest of Houghton traditions. The whole campus is together to laugh, make fun of ourselves, set aside all our work and our worries and enjoy being Houghton and the mesh of personalities, experiences, and quirks that makes us us. And there's nothing better than having the privilege of being part of it.

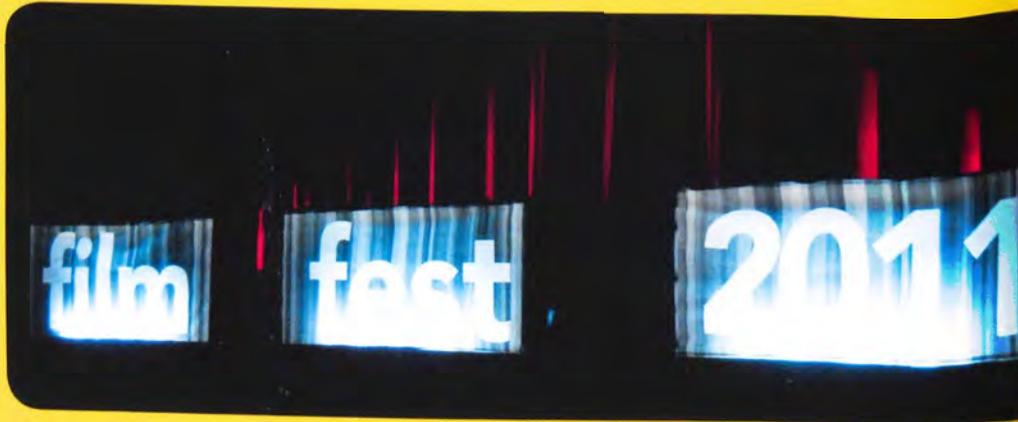

Film Fest

This year marked the fifth annual Houghton College Film Festival, and on Friday, April 1st, the chapel lit up with eighteen films from eleven contestants. As per tradition, the Film Festival was preceded by a pre-party in the atrium of the Chamberlain Center that was enjoyed by over 200 Houghton students dressed in "red carpet" attire. Guests snacked, talked, and took photos together for the hour before the festival was to begin in the Chapel.

When the time came, those in attendance made their way to the Chapel, which was decorated beautifully with a red and white academy award theme. Lights shined, golden "Oscar-esque" statuettes lined the awards table, and seats were slowly filled by over 400 students, faculty, and staff. Community members and several members of the alumni board were in attendance as well.

The films were shown by category, some of which included best directing, best editing, and best in show for the highest judged video overall in any category. CAB staff played host to the event, with different staff members helping to present each category and the films therein. After just a few categories, a minor mix-up led to some hilarious hijinks among the presenters, who continued to present the films with a smile.

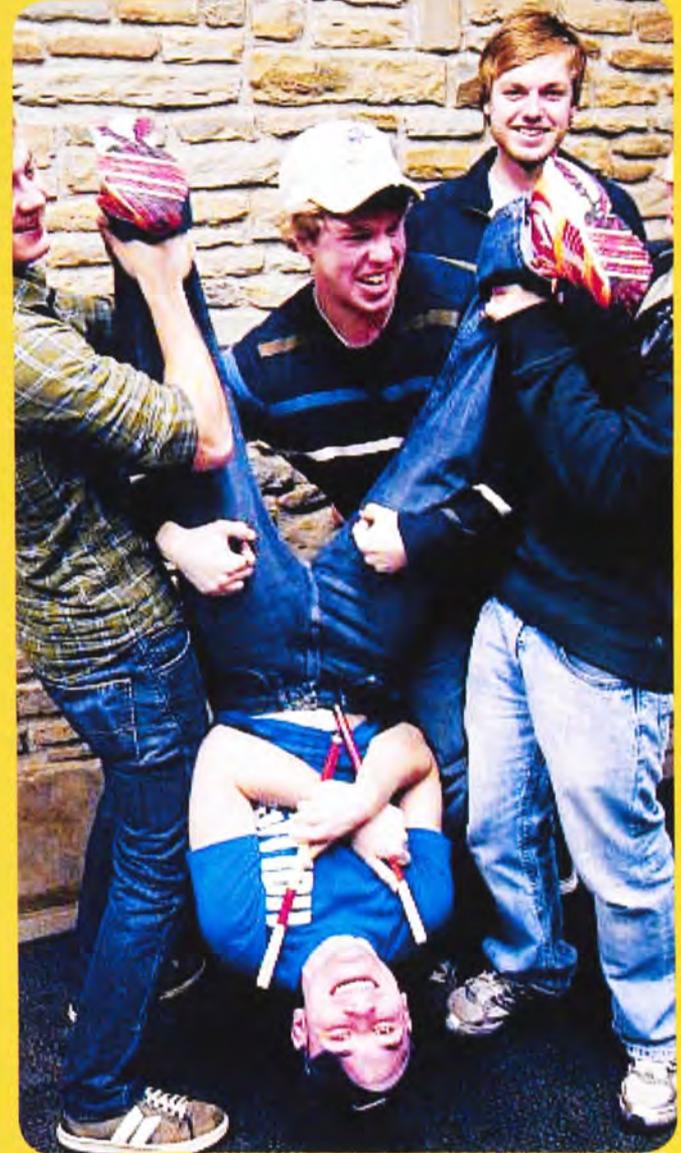

After the showing, awards were presented. Each winning director or directors were given a gold statuette, as well as a certificate for an additional prize. Among these additional prizes were Netflix subscriptions, a Blu-Ray player, an external hard drive, and more. Madison Murphy won best in show for her film "The Man Who Isn't There," while perennial Film Fest all-stars Broc Verschoor and Alex Glover also took home several awards. As the evening drew to a close and patrons began to file out of the chapel, contestants and guests alike found that the fifth annual Houghton College Film Festival was indeed a night to remember.

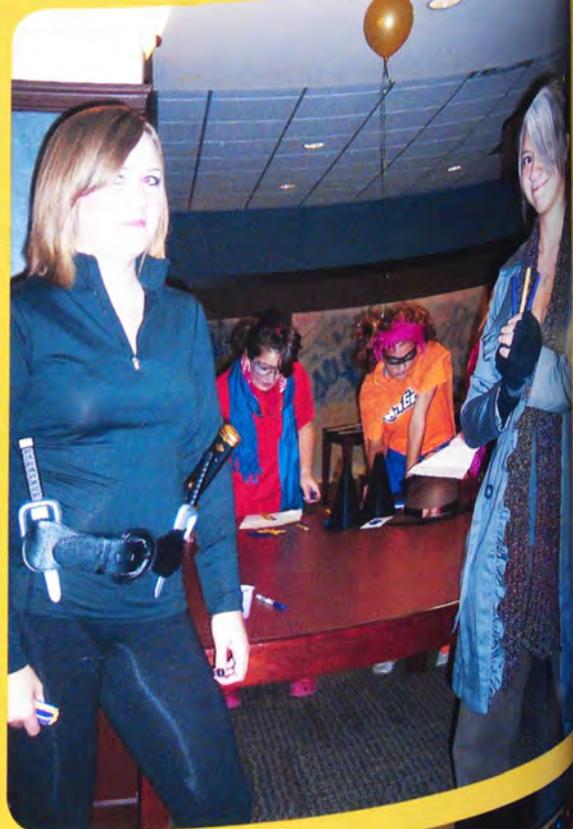

Battle of the Bands

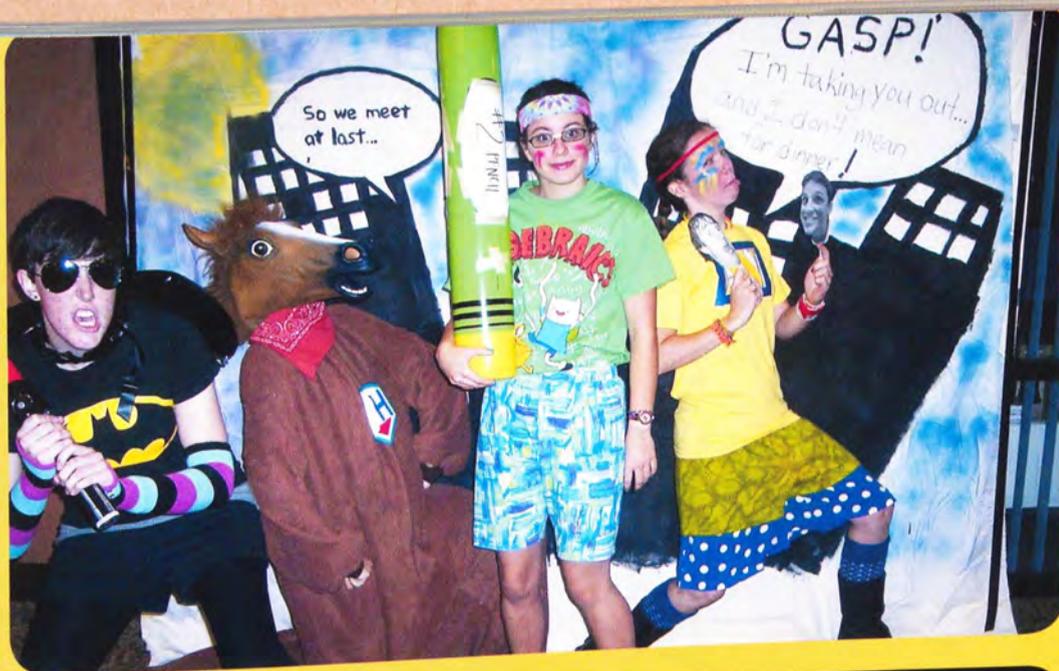

This year Houghton hosted its second annual Battle of the Bands. Five bands participated in the event, some from Houghton and some from outside the school. Some bands came back for another run after last year's event and some were brand new to the Battle. The event represented some tough competition as bands battled for the prize of ten hours in the studio with Kevin Jackson to record a song or two, as well as the chance to donate all of the proceeds of the night to their charity of choice. After the votes were tallied, Dreaming OutLoud just snagged the win and decided to donate the proceeds to the Ugandan Water Project. The sound teams that worked the event and did a fantastic job also generously donated their time for the cause. One of the most fun times in the night were the impromptu challenges in-between bands where we saw a backflip and a hilarious battle of the sexes competition. Overall, it was a great night and an event that Houghton will hopefully continue for years to come.

CAB

On the evening of April 10, Houghton College had the pleasure of hosting Hawk Nelson, a Christian rock band hailing from Ontario, Canada.

With screams from the audience at the sound of the first guitar chord, Hawk Nelson led the night with "Tally Ho" from their latest album Crazy Love. Immediately, the stage burst with light and color, while flashing letters across the stage spelled together HAWK. With ease, the band fluidly transitioned to another song off the same album entitled "Your Love is a Mystery," but it was no doubt that the next song, "Bring 'Em Out" was the crowd favorite. Fist-pumping the air after the song had finished, frontrunner Jason Dunn shouted to the crowd packed closely together at the front of the stage, "You guys are epic!"

Indeed, when it comes to performing in small venues and to an even smaller crowd, Hawk Nelson gets it and altogether the band gave an aura of laidback friendliness. On stage, frontrunner Dunn swapped jokes about the differences between Canadian and American healthcare, and voiced his hopes for the Stanley Cup.

Many of the songs that the band performed were about grace and how Christians relate to the world. All songs, however, were generally fast-paced and for the next hour and fifteen minutes, there was never a point in which the band slowed down or changed tone. Although a ballad or an expressive song might have been welcome, drums and electric guitars played at maximum volume were indeed a welcome sound in Wesley Chapel.

Houghton Palooza

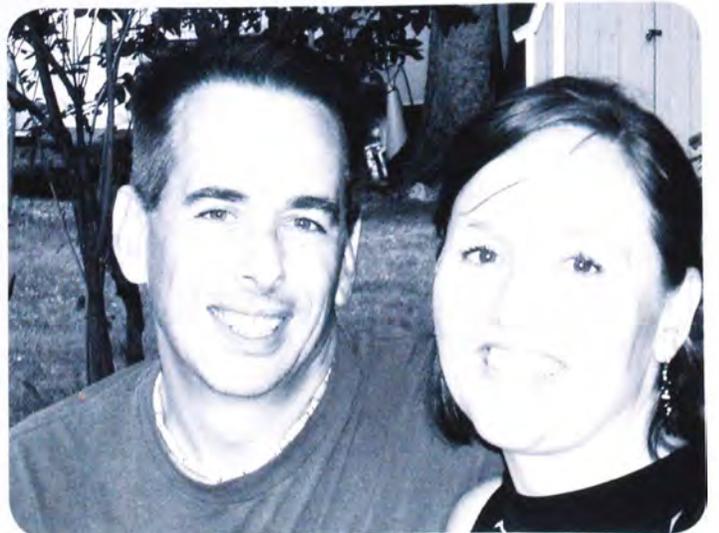

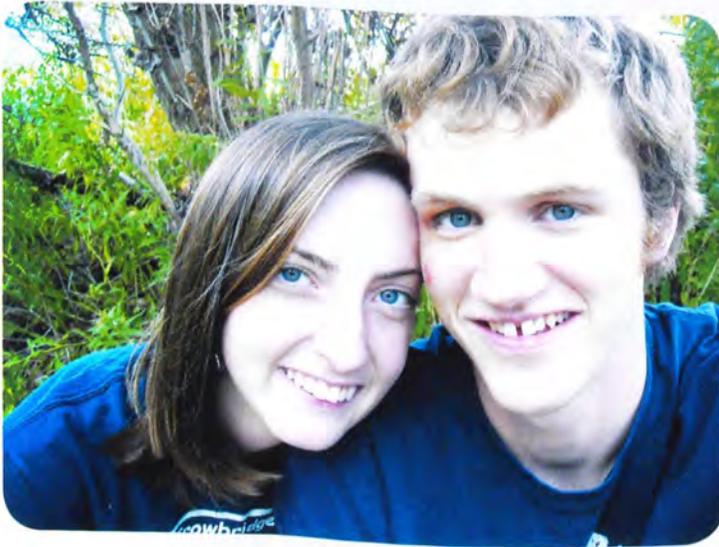

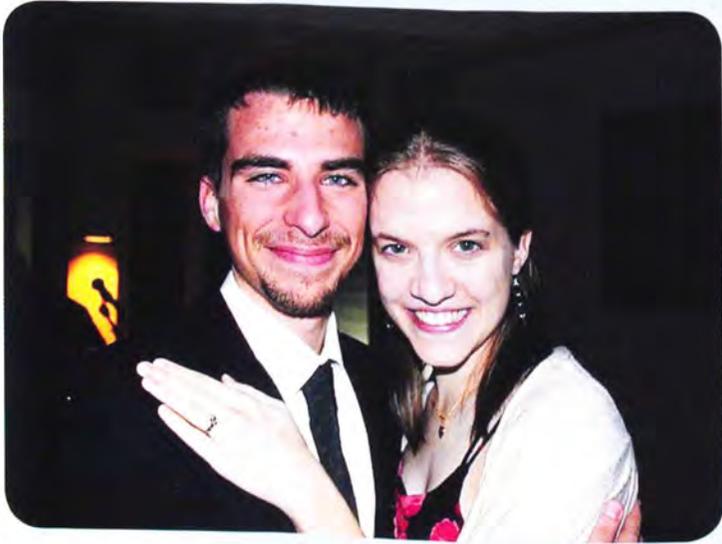

Summer was welcomed in with a blast this year as the Flats and Townhouses hosted Houghton Palooza. We could not have had a more beautiful day for this family-style block party, which was inspired by students several years ago. Students and community members alike made their way to the townhouses courtyard to enjoy music, barbeque, screen printing, and lawn games, all under a warm blanket of sunshine; a perfect way to rejuvenate before finals week! Houghton Palooza was sponsored by the Flats and Townhouses Leadership Council this year, with the help of sound crew. A total of twelve bands came to showcase their talents, with performances ranging from acoustic solos to full band sets. Townhouses and Flats residents welcomed the campus for a successful event, ending the year with energy and excitement!

...I would like to beg you dear Sir, as well as I can, to have patience with everything unresolved in your heart and to try to love the questions themselves as if they were locked rooms or books written in a very foreign language.

Don't search for the answers, which could not be given to you now, because you would not be able to live them. And the point is to live everything. Live the questions now. Perhaps then, someday far in the future, you will gradually, without even noticing it, live your way into the answer.

Dear Sondra,
 You have become such an inspirational young woman. You have grown so much these past four years, not only spiritually but also as a person. To chose to leave your family and friends and spend your last semester in college studying abroad in Tanzania was very brave of you! The memories you made there will be great stories to tell your grandchildren someday!

"Every dream begins with a dreamer. Always remember, you have within you the strength, the patience, and the passion to reach for the stars to change the world." ~ Harriet Tubman

Always stay the wonderful, caring person you are. God has great plans for you!

Love you forever and always,
 Mom, Dad, and Lauren

Twenty years ago the Lord blessed us with a beautiful precious daughter that we have watched grow into a beautiful young lady that shines Jesus in all you do. We couldn't be more proud of you and thankful for the gift God gave us in you. Congratulations, you will make an awesome teacher wherever the Lord plants you. Proverbs 3:5,6 We love you, Mom and Dad

Brandon,
 We are so proud of you and your accomplishments and more importantly of the young man that you have become. Continue to seek Christ as you make decisions for your future and He will direct you paths.

Love,
 Dad & Mom

Emily ~
 You are the joy of our hearts. Congratulations, you have done an excellently awesome job! We are so proud of your wonderful accomplishment. You have the gift of caring for people and making things so much fun. You have done so many great things and we are excited to see what else God has planned for you! Ephesians 2:10

Be a missionary every day clap-clap-clap-clap, Tell the world that Jesus is the way. Be it in the town or country or the busy avenue, Africa or Asia, the task is up to you!

We love you always, Papa & Mama

Jason,
 We are so proud of what a loving, fine Christian man you have grown to be. We can see God at work in your life in everything you do. Congratulations on your graduation. God has great plans for you. Philippians
 1:6 We love you very much!
 Best wishes always,

Dear Joanna,
 Your name means, "God's gracious gift," and you certainly are a gift to us. From the day we brought you home until this very day, you have given us joy. We love your enthusiasm and zeal in all your endeavors—that joie de vivre that you possess. May you look to the Lord for strength and guidance and turn to Him for wisdom. Always trust in the Lord.
 Congratulations on your graduation. We are very proud of you. "She is clothed with strength and dignity; she can laugh at the days to come."
 Proverbs 31:25

Love always,
 Mommy, Daddy, and Daniel

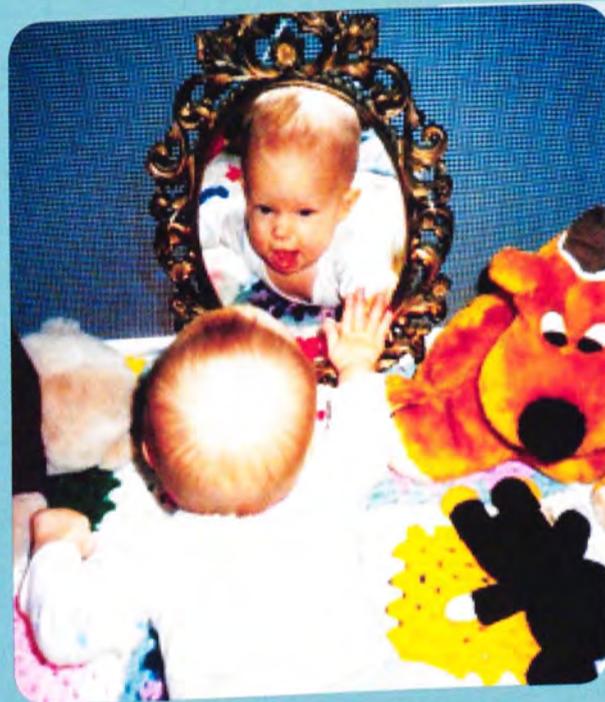

Jori Savannah,

God sent us a gift in you, our precious daughter, and our hearts overflowed with joy and love for you. We delighted in your twirling to music, your affection for your kitten, and your interest in everything from books to worms. You would gladly have adopted wolves, dolphins, whales, and horses, however, we settled for a dog. You approached your school years with great interest and a desire to do your best. Later, we were delighted to see how God led you to Houghton. We are so proud of your efforts and are thankful for all that He has allowed you to experience and achieve while there. Our prayer for you is that you will continue in His path and find your joy in Him!

Cala,
 Here you are... graduating from college already and just yesterday you were this little p'nafer -totally dependent on us, and lighting up our lives! Now that you have grown into this beautiful young woman, we pray that God will lead you to bigger and brighter experiences, and that He use you to accomplish wonderful things. We've enjoyed these 4 years of field hockey, ALL the times you've graced the stage with your admirable talents, and EVEN the times where we had to come down and bring you money & groceries! We are very proud of you-now go forth ~sing! dance! laugh! cry! praise! & most of all...LIVE! And always remember where the road back home lies.
 We LOVE you deeply,
 Mom and Dad.

Emily we are so proud of you for all you have accomplished. We can't wait to see what the Lord has planned for your life now. God bless you.

Love,
 Mom & Dad & Mallory

Dear Krista Lynae,

You are one of the most passionate people we know, passionate for God, for His purposes to be fulfilled in your life, and compassionate toward others. We are very proud of you and encourage you in all things to remember that Christ is not only in you, but you are also in Him! Know that your righteousness, your peace, your joy, your life, and your rest are all in Him forever!

Ph.3:14- "...I press on toward the goal for the prize of the upward call of God in Christ Jesus."

Love,
Dad, Mom,
and family

Clara Jacob

Clara - I remember so well my life in the 80's being a dad and a student at Buff State. One morning while pulling a notebook out of my backpack for poetry class a spare diaper and a little purple sock fell out. Your mother and I got our young start as parents, going to college with two little girls, Julia and Nora, at our side. Then, starting a new life for our family, we resettled in beautiful New Hampshire, in the little town of Mont Vernon; a town full of storybook Yankee charm. And then, the last thing we expected was our last real great surprise and ...of course, Clara, that was YOU! Filling us with joy, you were the little doll, adored by two big sisters, the charm that completed our family. The moment you were born, you opened up your brown eyes wide and stared straight into our hearts - a spirit clothed in such adoring beauty. We weren't ready for the youthfulness you would put back in us. Over the years we have grown to count on and love your need for truthfulness, your directness, and your tender heart for God. To watch you grow so close to your Lord and Savior has given us much comfort. You truly have a poet's heart, as the full moon shines in your big eyes; eyes that are always looking out to heaven it seems. Congratulations on all of your hard work and perseverance. God bless you and Jeff always as He has so perfectly fit you two together to begin life's new journey. The chicks have now all left the cage. The door is always open - the cage no longer locked...and then, it never was. We love you Clara Lucille.

Abundantly Thankful,
Mom and Dad (the luckiest parents in the world!)
