MRS. PHILINDA S. BOWEN HAS PASSED AWAY

Fred Taylor Wilson Will Be First of The Year's Lecturers

Fred Taylor Wilson, author and lecturer, is to speak here as the first lecturer in the annual series, on Monday, October 26. Described as an historian, lecturer and humorist, Mr. Wilson addresses more schools, colleges, universities, and civic clubs than any other private citizen in America.

Fred Taylor Wilson has had a busy and eventful career. He was born on a Middle Tennessee farm between two towns with the historic names, Rome, and Carthage. He began his public career at twelve years of age by writing for a rural weekly newspaper, and by speaking in a local one-room church and school. He worked his way through school, college, and university, performing various tasks such as that of the clerk of the Tennessee House of Representatives. He won many medals and honors as a school and college editor, declaimer, debater, and orator. He climaxed his school career by winning the Founder's Medal in Oratory at Vanderbilt University, where he won his B.A. degree.

Among Mr. Wilson's positions have been those of teacher of history in Texas, lawyer, and member of a law school faculty, Government Attorney in Washington and Chicago. Of interest to his Houghton audience will be the fact that he taught at Taylor University, the Christian school in Upland, Indiana.

Mr. Wilson's current lectures include "The Birth of our Liberties," "Democracy on Trial," "The Lamp that Must be Kept Burning," and "The Test of Religion." He will speak in Houghton on "The Human side of the Presidents."

Pick Athletic Association

David Ostrander was chosen president of the Athletic Association in a student election last Monday. The officers chosen to work with him are as follows: David Flower, vice-president, Marion Bernhoft, secretary-treasurer, Leola Avery and Harris Earl, purple managers, Margaret Fancher and Wesley Potter, gold managers.

In its first meeting of the year the Athletic Association decided to discontinue giving chains in women's field hockey and men's football and men's volleyball. Instead of giving letters to the traditional varsity men's team, only men considered to be material equal to varsity material before the war will receive letters. Freshmen are eligible for letters again this year. The purpose of this tightening the regulations for awarding letters is to keep the value of Hough-

Philinda S. Bowen, L.I.D.

Veteran of Service Here Is Mourned by Friends

Mrs. Philinda S. Bowen, veteran of thirty-five years' service to Houghton Seminary, passed away at 9:00 p. m. last Friday, October 20, 1944. She had been in retirement from her active work as principal of the seminary since 1942. Mrs. Bowen is survived by two sons, Mr. Ward Bowen of Albany, and Dr. Ira Bowen of California.

Mrs. Bowen, with the exception of Mr. Stockin, is the only principal which the Houghton High School has had. She was made principal when the college and high school were separated about the time when Houghton was granted a charter. She was forced to cease her work on her birthday anniversary, February 22, 1942, when she was taken ill. Up to that time she had missed almost no time from her work for illness. Her death at the age of seventy-seven comes just two years and a few months after the honorary degree of L.I.D. was conferred upon her by Houghton College in 1942.

Mrs. Bowen was born on February 22, 1867. She was graduated from Genesee State Normal School, and first came to Houghton in the early nineties, about the time when Dr. Luckey first came here. She married James Bowen, who became publisher and financial agent of the Wesleyan connection, and for a large part of her married life lived in Houghton so that her boys could go to school here. She herself spent part of her time here, and part of it in Syracuse where her husband worked.

Mr. Bowen died in 1908, and Mrs. Bowen started teaching in Houghton again in the Fall after his death. From that time on her service was almost continuous, with practically no time out for illness.

Mrs. Bowen is survived by two sons, Mr. Ward Bowen, who is head of the Visual Instruction Department of the University of the State of New York, and Dr. Ira Bowen, Houghton's outstanding alumnus in the scientific field, who is an assistant to Dr. Millikan. Dr. Bowen is a member of the National Academy of Science.

Mrs. Bowen was the first and only

STAR WILL CONDUCT POLL ON ELECTION

In short chapel on Monday, October 30, the STAR will conduct a poll to determine student reaction on the following points:

1. Will you be voting in the election for Presidency and Vice-Presidency of the United States this year?
2. Whether or not you will vote, for whom would you vote if you had the opportunity?
3. Regardless of the way in which your vote is cast, who do you think will win the election.

Special Revival Meetings "Who's Who" Includes 13 Close With Good Spirit Houghton Student Leaders

Rev. O. G. Wilson brought to the Houghton congregation his last message of these special services, Sunday evening, October 22. The Rev. Robert Lytle of the Fillmore Wesleyan Church offered the opening prayer and Paul Tropp led the singing. There were a number of the members from the Black Creek Church who were visiting. The girls who live in Gaoyadeo Hall went to the service as a group and sat together in pews designated for them.

The message was centered on the Cross of Calvary. Some of the important thoughts carried in the message were that the "Cross reveals God's conception of sin," and that "the cross reveals God's love for sinners." "The cross stands for emancipation," stated Rev. Wilson, and he enlarged upon this latter point and said that politically, Bible reading people cannot be enslaved. The cross stands for social emancipation. The women in pagan countries are not on the social level with men and oft times lower than cattle, while here in a Christian nation women have equal rights with men. Then lastly, "the cross stands for emancipation from sin." Christ said, "Whosoever will may come." Rev. Wilson closed his message with this thought, "How shall I escape if I neglect Him?" There were a number of people who responded to the altar call and a spiritually uplifting meeting was held after the regular service.

Thirteen Houghton students, including six STAR staff members have been included in Who's Who Among Students In American Universities And Colleges, according to questionnaires received by the students and a list released by the Dean's office here.

Who's Who is published through the cooperation of six hundred American colleges and universities. It is the only means of national recognition for graduates which is devoid of politics, fees, and dues. Houghton students were notified of their selection and received their biographical questionnaires last Tuesday.

Leola Avery, first of the Who's Who group in alphabetical order has been most active in girls' athletics, participating in purple and class basketball, cheerleading and other sports. She was vice-president of the Gaoyadeo Dormitory in her junior year and was subscription manager of the Boulder that year. She is now purple manager.

Helen Baker has a similar record of athletics, but is gold rather than purple. She has participated in basketball, volleyball, hockey, and cheerleading. She was a Boulder subscription manager in her junior year and was vice-president of her junior class. Helen was on the Student Council for three years and is now secretary-treasurer of the student body.

Ruth Brooks, president of the senior class, and editor of the 1944 Boulder,

IN MEMORIAM

The STAR staff wishes to extend its sincere sympathy to all who mourn the death of Mrs. Philinda Bowen. We remember her as a sweet, Christian old lady, and admire her for her service to Houghton and to God.

We Appreciate Their Services

It is easy to gripe, but as students we do not often think to express our appreciation when things go well. We find it especially true in the matter of food. No one seems to be afraid to say so when he does not like his meals, but it is relatively quiet when everyone is satisfied.

Two years ago there was a great deal of criticism by the student body because of the food which we were eating in the "dorm." It was at the time when food prices were rising, and conditions were very hard because of the beginning of the war. We all half admitted to ourselves that the ones in charge were probably doing their best, but we wished some improvement could be made in the situation.

This year, with food prices still higher, and with only a small increase in the charge for board, the food in the "dorm" is excellent. We have been amazed that butter appears as often as it does, even in the smaller allotments per student. The amount of meat and of milk that we get is another surprising feature of our meals. As for desserts, few of us have better at home.

We feel that the ladies in charge of the kitchen should receive credit for the work which they are doing. If we were Dr. Ashton, we would award a bouquet to Miss Gillett, Jo Reed and all of the kitchen help. Their job must be a difficult one at times, and if we may do so without seeming too eulogistic, we should like to express our appreciation to them.

In Case You Haven't Heard

WAR

Last week, the pounding of supposedly invincible Formosa, followed by the beginning of invasion in the Philippines, drove home the fact that the Americans are not waiting for victory in Europe to forge ahead in the Pacific. Only when we realize that in eleven months the United States Navy has moved its field of action 3,800 miles — the distance from Tarawa to Formosa — do we sense the rapidity of our advance toward the home islands of Japan.

Allied head-quarters recently revealed the greatest military secret of the Normandy to facilitate landing of supplies and reinforcements. These two harbors, each the size of Douer, were built by sinking ships and concrete caissons to form breakwaters, then placing lines of still floats on the seaward side of the caisson breakwaters, and finally building seven miles of piers in the form of steel bridges on floats.

Targets of Allied Air Forces, flying in bad weather as well as good, seem to indicate the next attack on Fortress Europe will be launched from Holland. British and American heavy bombers raided Cologne and Duisburg, two great Nazi communication centers. Duisburg received 5,040 tons of bombs — the heaviest tonnage ever dropped on a single raid.

Following Allied victory in Europe, the shipping shortage will leave thousands of unneeded troops temporarily stranded. But they may be kept just as busy as we are. The Army is completing plans for establishing an elective educational system with studies ranging from literacy classes to postgraduate seminars. University study centers will be provided in at least two cities, probably Paris and London, to offer liberal arts and pre-professional courses. The Army stresses the fact that the program will not be allowed to interfere with the servicemen's return home.

COLLEGIATE

(I. P.) City College (in New York) in cooperation with the Veterans' Administration will offer a special four-week training program in vocational colleges and universities throughout the nation to facilitate the organization of numerous Veterans' Vocational Advise-ment units needed to aid in guidance and retraining of discharged servicemen and women.

The Associated Press has announced that the American Bible Society in cooperation with a committee of laymen and a committee of denominational heads is sponsoring the reading of selected Biblical passages. One hundred thousand ministers and six hundred thousand chaplains have chosen the selections "most helpful in these days". Bookmarks listing the references are to be distributed in business mail, in pay envelopes, from store counters and from churches.

FOOTBALL

The Galloping Chickens were again defeated by the frosh football team with a score of 14 to 6. The game moved fast with quick decisive plans. David Minor made the one and only touch down of the game for the high school, running nearly half the field to score. We are hoping that some of our football stars will be able to play on the purple-gold series. To you of the college and to Coach McNeese; we of the H. S. would like to make known our appreciation to you for allowing us to compete with your college teams.

Many of the fellows on the team have remarked that they appreciate the way our H. S. students are coming out to the games and really cheering for the fellows. Plans are being made to put a group of four cheerleaders on the basketball floor this season. In looking over the group of students this Fall it is believed that we will be able to put a respectable basketball team on the floor. As yet no line-up has been issued but we are looking forward to a successful season in basketball.

The sophomore class had its annual picnic Saturday, October 14, at Letchworth Park. In making plans for the party the members of the class suggested the use of bikes which was readily approved. The cyclists left Houghton at 1:30 on a fairly promising afternoon. As is oft times the case misfortune befell the party in the form of a flat tire, breaking chains, and all such connected with bike rides. After a very uneventful trip, the party arrived at Letchworth at 3:00 o'clock. The sophomores and their friends, intimate, and casual were found to be looking over the wonders of Letchworth. Much to everyone's delight was the food which appeared on the scene, but now rain also started and nearly put an end to merrymaking. Finally the rain stopped and the party started homeward, but the rain that had stopped, now started again. On the way home due to various circumstances two more bikes were forced to give in. After much struggling the party arrived home in gay spirit but very wet indeed.

We, the members of the high school wish to express our sympathy to the members of Dr. Bowen's family on the death of Mrs. Bowen. The life of Mrs. Bowen has been to those of the high school who knew her a source of inspiration and determination to press forward in our lives for Christ. Truly we all benefit to follow the example set by Dr. Philinda S. Bowen.

Cpl. James Buffan, reported killed in action by the newspaper in Perry, New York, is still alive, according to reports from his home. An alumnus of Houghton, Cpl. Buffan worked in Perry, and it was there that the report of his death originated, but according to telephone communication from his parents, there is nothing to it.

The past two weeks have shown a dearth of visitors from the service, but S2/c Larry Birch (ex '46) and Cpl. Larry Hardy (ex '46) made brief visits to the campus. Another member of the present junior class writes:

"Jolly old England appears to be my roost at this particular time. From what I have seen, it is charming; I mean the quaint houses, the odd dress and tongue, and the transportation." That was from Pfc. Charles Jennings.

Pvt. Robert ("Jakey") Oehrig ('43) is studying medicine also, at Cornell University Medical College in New York. He regrets that visits to Houghton will be impossible but, "The faculty is absolutely 'out of this world'... a guy without a Ph.D. can't get within a hundred yards of you to give a lecture. In Bio-chemistry we've had four different Ph.D.'s lecture us and we have two more to go—none were visiting lecturers either. Facilities are equally marvellous."

This week we have another sightseeing trip to relate. Pfc. Glenn Barnett (ex '44) of the U. S. Army Signal Corps has visited the Palace of Versailles near Paris, where the Bourbon kings held court. He describes it to his mother: "I meandered through the spacious gardens and vistas of King Louis XIV, XV, XVI. I went through the magnificent palace. A guide took us through and explained everything to us. One room was Marie Antoinette's boudoir, another the dining room. One room was where all the kings of France were born. He took us through the throne room (the Germans took the throne)." He tells

College Information

The college has purchased a new Photo Record Printer for the purpose of copying transcripts. Although it is a small machine with limitations, it will save the registrar much time besides making more officially correct documents.

The college Chevrolet was rescued from a fire which demolished twenty-five cars at the Smith Collision Service in Buffalo recently. Although the paint was blistered, windows blackened, and upholstery soiled, Mr. Howard Eyer, superintendent of grounds, stated that insurance would cover all the costs of repairs. In the meantime the "Frog" is nobly carrying on!

of souvenir hunting with some officers among the German dead. The servicemen's reporter saw the souvenirs Glenn sent home, including a bayonet, parts of a mess kit, a Catholic prayer book, a photograph of Goering, a gas mask, and the "shelter half" (similar to a poncho) of a tent, colored to effect camouflage. His knowledge of French has served him well, but he is anxious to return to Houghton and complete his college work.

I Believe

One bright day I reported to the field where I had been taking flying instructions, fastened my parachute and entered the plane in preparation for the day's lesson. After the usual engine warm up, we took off, climbed, turned, dived, side slipped and went through the usual routine; but something just didn't seem the same. Finally I discovered what it was. My instructor, a man who generally smoked constantly, had not been smoking at all this trip. I could not understand why; however, I said nothing and upon his orders returned to the hangar.

The smell of gasoline attracted our attention as we prepared to leave the plane; so upon a hurried investigation we were startled by the discovery that the rear panel of the cockpit was completely soaked with gas. What would have resulted if the instructor had smoked during the flight? This thought terrified both of us, but I knew why he hadn't. You may say it was coincidence, but I say, "Praise God for His gracious protection and wonderful keeping power." How true are the words of the Psalmist: "Commit thy way unto the Lord; trust also in Him; and He shall bring it to pass."

Prof. H. LeRoy Fancher Gives Address On Mrs. Bowen's Life at Her Funeral

We are printing here part of the text of Prof. H. L. Fancher's address at the funeral of Mrs. P. S. Bowen because we feel that it characterizes her life very well.

"I can not remember the time when I did not know about the person whose memory we are honoring today. My mother and she grew up in the same community. They were neighbors and cousins... Mrs. Bowen was a cheerful traveller along life's road. That road was not always smooth and easy, but she did not complain or frown. Left a widow many years ago, with two boys to raise and educate, she faced that task with faith in God and a willingness to work and sacrifice. She often bore testimony to the fact that her Heavenly Father did not forget the widow and the orphans.

God was kind in giving her a task that she loved, a task which challenged her best. For nearly thirty-five years she has been a teacher in Houghton Seminary. For about twenty years she was Principal of the Seminary. She was not merely a teacher by profession. She was a wise and tender, though firm and watchful guide to her students...

"Mrs. Bowen helped to build Houghton College. President Luckey often consulted her about plans for the development of the college before discussing those plans with younger members of the faculty... For years she was the only woman on the advisory board of the woman ever to be awarded an honorary degree by Houghton College when she received her LL. D. in 1942. The intention to confer the degree was kept such a secret by the administration of the college that few faculty members knew of it in advance.

Mrs. Bowen was related to the Fanchers of the Houghton faculty. Mrs. Bowen and the mother of Miss Bess Fancher and Mr. LeRoy Fancher were cousins.

Former Pastor Preaches Sermon

Rev. J. R. Pitt, pastor in Houghton for sixteen years preceding Mr. Black and Mr. Armstrong, preached the funeral sermon for Mrs. Philinda S. Bowen who died here last Friday. The theme of Mr. Pitt's message was "Love", and in an appropriate conclusion to a beautiful, simple ceremony, he said, "We are here to celebrate her stepping off."

The Houghton Church was nearly full, with the exception of the balcony, for the funeral service. Friends, relatives, faculty, high school, and college students all paid tribute to the memory of the little old lady who worked here so long.

Music for the ceremony was provided by Miss Margaret Hamilton who played the organ, and by a quartet of students who are, or have been in Houghton High School. The members of the quartet were Herbert Jansen, Beverly Barnett, Ara Carapetyan and Calvin Hayes.

Prof. H. LeRoy Fancher gave a short, sincere talk on Mrs. Bowen, the partial text of which is printed in this issue of the STAR. Prof. Stockin, Dr. Armstrong, and Dr. Paine contributed to the service with scripture and prayer.

At the close of the service, the casket was wheeled to the vestibule, where it was passed by the congregation as everyone filed out.

BY ROY TAKAYA

One of the hardest things to face in life is to do a task unappreciated and unrecognized by anyone else, or being in a position where the public eye cannot see the results of laborious effort. Great men have testified to this fact.

The average sports fan usually has his or her attention focused on the more spectacular and conspicuous players of a team. In the newspapers and magazines these players are publicized and are more easily recognized by the public. In football the names which are flashed across in broad print are most often of those who occupy the backfield berth—the position which catches the public eye. Sports fans rarely are loud in their praise over the abilities of the line or even the blocking back. These players remain the unheralded, unsung heroes of the game. Tommy Harmon, the sensational pigskin lugger from the University of Michigan, has given much of the success of his running gains to the blocking and splendid interference running of the captain and blocking back of his team. Yet, this player has been comparatively unknown.

If there is just one thing we learn to apply in our lives through our experience on the athletic field or the gym floor, it will have been a tremendously great lesson which should help us throughout our lives of service to God, and that is to be willing to fill our place though they be lowly and unseen from the public eye, with thankful hearts and a determination to give of our best for the common good of our fellow men.

"Valuable Player" Awards

The Sporting News announced their choice of "Slats" Marion, Cardinal "tall stop" as the National League's most valuable player and "Bobby Doerr", second baseman of the Boston Red Sox, for a corresponding position in the American League. This year, Marion hit only .227 but his excellent fielding gave him the honor. Doerr was runner-up in the American League for hitting with .325. They also voted special mention to Hal Newhouse, 29 game winner for the Tigers, and Bill Voiselle, rookie winner of 21 games for the Giants.

About Wilson

From New York: "Your address on The Presidents was one of the best, if not the best we have had this year." — J. J. Mariner, V. Pres., N. Y. Rotary Club.

From Pennsylvania: "He completely captivated the students of Gettysburg College." — Henry W. A. Hanson, President, Gettysburg (Pa.) College.

From Virginia: "An attractive public speaker whose thorough research has made him a master of his subjects." — General Charles E. Kilbourne, Supt. Virginia Military Institute, Lexington, Va.

More Alumni News

Recently we printed small bits of information about some of our alumni. Here we have additional news taken from the publicity office mail.

Miss Coralie M. Allen writes, "I'm quite busy teaching four classes, English I, II, III and IV, directing the library council and organizing the staff for Hi-Spots, the school paper." Miss Allen is teaching in Dover Plains, N. Y.

From Addison, New York, we learn that Miss Jennie Dolph is enjoying her new duties as Social Science teacher and librarian. She hopes to visit Houghton very soon.

Students Urged to Lend Information

Miss Rickard, who is very much interested in the work of the Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship, has asked us to print the following request and information.

"Do you know of any Christian students, whether service or civilian, located on the campuses of universities or secular colleges? If so, will you please give me their names and addresses so that I can acquaint them with the work of the Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship?"

— Josephine G. Rickard

The His magazine, published by the Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship, is particularly directed to the needs of the Christian student. In addition, it keeps him informed of Christian witness on the secular campuses of the United States, Canada and Mexico. The price is $1.00 for eight months. Subscriptions will be taken at the bookstore.

The Inter-Varsity has also put out a small booklet that will assist the student in his private study of the Bible or in conducting small group meetings. It is called Discovering the Gospel of Mark and consists of stimulating questions, after the method used by the Biblical Seminary of New York.

War Council Is Sponsor Of War Relief Fund Drive

Throughout last week the War Council sponsored a drive for the United War Fund. Students selected from each of the college classes and from the high school were in charge of collections from their respective groups. Representatives were David Ostrander, senior, Marian Bernhoft, junior, Barbara Douglass, sophomore, Beulah Smalley, freshman, and Kenneth Bajus, high school.

Results of the drive for war relief, as of last night, are, seniors, $7.80; juniors, $9.20; sophomores, $11.37; freshmen, $19.30; high school, $11.65. Figures for the faculty are not yet available. The drive for war relief will be concluded on Saturday.

Because of their good work in the collection of United War Fund donations, this same group has been appointed by the War Council to form a committee for the sale of war bonds and stamps. The drive for bonds and stamps is to begin Nov. 11, and is to continue through December 7. On December 7 there is to be a war banquet, for which definite arrangements have not yet been made. Committee for the banquet and program consists of Mrs. Lennox, Barbara Van Dyke, Wesley Potter, in conjunction with Dr. Luckey, chairman of the War Council. Goal for the war bond drive is $2000 to $2500.
