This yearbook is dedicated to:

Ted Murphy

If there was ever a reason to take an art class, it would be have Murph as a teacher. With a unique combination of knowledge and humor, it is no wonder his classes fill up quickly. Ted is the epitome of a liberal arts educator, showing students how art, religion, history, philosophy, etc. are all entwined.

Murph Quotes

"Art is something we do because we can't live without it."

"You can't swing a dead cat on campus and not hit an intercultural studies student."

"He doesn't paint with oils but what looks like cake frosting."

Murph is always willing to give advice, especially when you compliment his new hair cut or his sweater. The witty one liners and genuine desire to see me succeed quickly make him one of my favorite professors and mentors during my time at Houghton College.

-Emily Tullar

Murph on Donatello:
"He was a master by age 18. What are you doing at 18?
Listening to me....
yeesh, you're off to a terrible start."

"Only some people are aware of the sadness that comes with the apprehension of great beauty"
-Murph

From the very first month of my freshman year when he gave the "you are unique, but not uniquely unique" lecture in FYI to just recently on the the Italy trip trekking from painting to painting with a slew of tag-along students waiting on his every oh-so profound word Murph has exhibited the things every professor should. He has exhibited interest, capability, and love for what he teaches and who he teaches. He has taught that art is not only worth understanding and learning but it is also worth crying over, that getting a C in one class might still be worth taking it. His students have come to believe and practice these ideals through their college years and even lives, many still keeping in touch today. He always remembers their names, he always wants to hear how they are, and he always wants to know what they are creating. It seems that no matter whether its a long confusing conversation about the morality in french New Wave film or an amusing quip about the cathedral in Milan remarkably resembling a large flabouant man Murph is always on target, on cue and always invested in what he is doing. He has taught me many of the most important things I know, he has been a wonderful mentor, professor, friend, and pretty much the best Dad a girl could ever ask for.

-Sally Murphy

Thanks to the faculty and staff for your dedication to Houghton and its students!

Organizations

A.C.O.

Allegheny County Outreach is a Big Brother Big Sister type of program where we match children in Allegheny County (Littles) ages 5-12 with students here at Houghton (Bigs). These relationships help not only the Littles but it is a great experience for the Bigs as well. We have parties once a month where all the Bigs and Littles get together and play games, make crafts, and of course, eat snacks! Beyond the parties the Bigs are encouraged to hang out with the Littles by having meals on campus, watching movies, going for hikes, attending sporting events, etc. It is truly a blessing to be able to make such a positive impact in the lives of the surrounding families in Allegheny County and the lives of the students here on campus. This year we had a lot of fun events and activities including a campus wide scavenger hunt, mummy wrapping contest, and of course our traditional Christmas and Bowling parties that were a lot of fun!

The Artist's Guild is a collection of people who are interested in the arts. We are actively involved on campus in promoting the arts through art shows such as Java 101 and Found. Other events such as tie-dye days, trips to city museums, Christmas card making, and art sales are ways in which the Artist's Guild provides a way for students to further explore the arts for their own benefit. For this years trip, we explored the art museums offered by NYC during the February break.

Artist Guild

CAB

The always classy 2009-2010 Campus Activities Board enjoyed a year of style. Packing concerts, parties, dances and festivals into the year, CAB staff managed to have just as much fun coordinating and running the events as all the students who attended them.

A CAB event guarantees lively music, fun people and good eaton!

Every time.

We started our fall semester with a Luau-themed "Back to School Bash" for all music majors. We have a mentoring program that matches incoming freshmen music majors to our veterans. A fun event that we do each fall is called the CMENC Recital; we throw caution, and all musical training, to the winds and let our hair down!

During the Holiday season, we put on "Christmas in the Atrium" where we have student chamber ensembles perform in the atrium of the music building. We have a Student Teacher Seminar in the Spring where student teachers tell "all" about their experiences. If you have ever seen t-shirts or sweatshirts around campus with music notes and "Greatbatch" on them, you are more than likely looking at a music major in a shirt sold by CMENC!

C.M.E.N.C.

College Choir

Widely acclaimed for its artistry and sensitivity, the Houghton College Choir upholds the sacred cappella choral tradition of its origins, flexibly embracing diversity of all styles. Whether performing a renaissance mass setting, baroque motet or an African American spiritual, the choir delights in well-crafted sacred choral music.

As the first full school-year of campus involvement, Encore hit the ground running with a one act, "Accused of Comedy," directed by Luke Klingensmith and Danielle Fera. In keeping with Encore's stated purpose of providing the campus with more drama than mere semesterly plays, Encore hosted a coffee house event featuring scenes from "A Doll's House," "Pride and Prejudice," and various other plays as well as a couple comedic sketches, including an original skit written by two of Encore's members. During the spring semester, Encore participated in Praxis by performing "The Circle Beyond Fear", a 3-piece play directed by Elizabeth Zahorsky over the course of three chapels. As with the fall semester, Encore continued participating in other activities throughout the semester, including improv nights and skits.

Encore

Equestrian Society

The Equestrian Society holds meetings to discuss ideas for clinics, hold fund raising at our shows, celebrate the end of the semester and our members accomplishments throughout, and vote on designs and order apparel with these designs each year. During this year we had our Christmas fun show, fall horse trial, Hunter/Jumper show, and Dressage show as well as our annual CHA Conference and jumping clinic. We have been working to gain sponsors for our event and hope to put up a large display case for perspectives to see what our equestrian program is all about including pictures and trophies from students and shows. We operate very much like a family unit and work very well together. We love to have a good time and laugh with friends but we also know how to work hard and get dirty.

Evangelicals for Social Action is a group on campus that seeks to raise awareness about social injustices and find creative avenues for acting out God's kingdom values. This year, the group sought to live out the command found in Micah 6:8 "He has showed you, O man, what is good. And what does the LORD require of you? To act justly and to love mercy and to walk humbly with your God." In addition to weekly meetings of student led discussion that focused on topics of social action, ESA hosted many campus wide events this year including: hosting a screening of a film by the organization Invisible Children, the Hunger Banquet which was used to raise awareness of issues of poverty both globally and in Allegany County, discussions and prayer meetings on sexuality, a discussion night with the Franciscan Friars and Sisters of the Renewal, and Human Trafficking Awareness Week.

ESA

French Club

This year French Club has gathered to enjoy delicious French meals and desserts - crepes and a buche de noel. We've read stories together, watched films and even hosted a soccer tournament, all celebrating French culture along the way. The club has gathered native French speakers, learners and beginners alike.

The Gadfly Society meets weekly to discuss philosophical and theological topics, problems, and issues. Fueled by Clara's brownies and frequent doses of coffee and tea, this past year the Gadfly Society has discussed topics ranging from violence to forgiveness, evil to aesthetics, whether language can be used to talk about God, the role of hate in international diplomacy, the metaphysical impossibility of the incarnation, and the possibility of a theology of the body. The Gadfly Society also holds one to two campus-wide events each semester

GCF

Global Christian Fellowship reminds the Houghton students to look not only to those directly around them, but globally as well. GCF coordinates weekly prayer topics that focus on one campus issue and one global issue that are prayed for by the campus community daily. GCF also holds weekly meetings to promote global awareness and action, hosting missionaries as well as students who have a global outlook.

We are a family, and our goal is to minister to others through our prayer and worship. We pray for each other, and we encourage each other so stand strong for what we believe. God has worked in all of us in many different ways, and we do not only minister to other, yet we minister to ourselves as well. God speaks through all of us, and we hope that this choir is not a blessing to us, but to those who have the opportunity to join us in worship.

Gospel Choir

H2S

Helping Houghton Senior Citizens (H2S for short) seeks to build relationships between students and the older generations living in the local community. Whether we are playing board games, raking leaves (and jumping in them), or helping seniors with household tasks, we strive to bridge the generation gap that is threatening to divide us.

The Heritage Club aims to promote Black and African American heritage awareness, and to provide opportunities for Houghton students to fellowship together. Toward the former, we have highlighted influential Blacks and African Americans in history during each meeting. Toward both purposes, we have planned and hosted a coffeehouse focused on the Harlem Renaissance, a period of creative blossoming in the Black artistic community, including song, poetry, and essay.

We have hosted a group from Praise Tabernacle Church, NJ that spoke to the student body about certain "Essentials of Christian Living". We hosted a church visit to Miracle Missions Full Gospel Church in Buffalo, NY.

Imitators of Christ

The cabinet matches students with faculty, staff, and community member mentors. This year the cabinet held a mentor training event in which Dr. Barry Smith, Vice-President of Student Life at Roberts Wesleyan, spoke about the differences between our generation and those of the mentors.

The Impressions Mime team performs about twice a semester in chapel and at neighboring churches. Our performances vary from silent skits to choreographed drama and sign language. As we have fun with each other, we are also challenged to truly live out what we are acting. We seek to glorify God through our performances and our practices and it is our prayer that those who see our skits will be challenged by the messages we share.

Our desire, as a team, is to live by our team verse:

"I eagerly expect and hope that in no way I will be ashamed, but will have sufficient courage so that now as always, Christ will be exalted in my body."
-- Philippians 1:20"

Lanthorn

The Lanthorn is a dedicated group of anglophiles who seek to spread literary enlightenment on the campus of Houghton College. Each semester, the Lanthorn showcases the literary endeavors of Houghton students through one collective book filled with poetry, prose and visual artwork by various students, as well as two smaller books, chapbooks highlighting a senior writing major or set around a specific theme. The Lanthorn consists of three senior staff members who judge, edit, design and create the books, as well as a group of volunteer staff members who get together at various times to make posters, participate in release parties and help the senior staff members however they can.

The Lanthorn collaborated with Praxis to produce a book of three works on the topic of reconciliation and recognized the power of words through the "Use Your Words!" chapbook.

MercySeat Ministries is a group that meets Monday-Friday to worship God and to intercede, particularly for the spiritual and physical needs of the campus and also for the wider local and global community. We use a format that combines contemporary worship with spontaneous singing and Scripture-based prayers. Each semester, we host or co-sponsor events such as TheCry, a 24-hour vigil which draws many people into a place of prayer and worship. The heart of the ministry is to intercede and to provide a place for anyone to come and seek God's face."

Mercy Seat

Paddle Sports

Paddle Sports is a group that gets together on Tuesdays and Thursdays to work on water related skills, rolls, paddle stokes, rafting, etc. This year we have gone on a trip to Letchworth in the winter for a time of rafting down the tube hill after a shared meal together. ~ Also we went to Rushford lake last fall and paddled around the lake. In the spring we usually do another trip to Letchworth to do a little white water kayaking/take the ducky out. This year we are trying to plan a weekend rafting/kayaking trip to the Yough River in PA.

The Houghton Philharmonia is a group of 50-60 orchestral musicians—comprising both music majors and non-music majors, with additional players from the surrounding community. The orchestra rehearses twice per week, performing repertoire from all the major musical eras—works of Baroque, Classical, Romantic, Post-Romantic, and later Twentieth-Century masters, including music by living composers. The Philharmonia performed seven concerts of art music during the academic year—two concerts plus the Christmas Prism performance in the fall semester; and four concerts in the spring.

2009-2010 orchestra officer-servants were junior Bridgette Lyon, sophomores Monica Lord, Rachel Smith, Sarah Harms, Erika Harlow, Mary Elisabeth Doan; and freshmen Matt Vogan, Emily Dunn, Joia Otto, and Megan Tennant. The orchestra is directed by Dr. Brian Casey.

The Salvation Army Student Fellowship is simply a group of students who are committed in some way to the Salvation Army church. While there are a few Salvation Army soldiers on campus, most members are just students who attend the church every week in Wellsville. Some are dedicated in further ways, whether through officer positions in the group, helping out with Bible study or children's church, or organizing or playing in the worship band on Sundays. Every year the SASF organizes thrift store sales in the basement of the campus center and a few retreats/outings for the students, and there is an annual mission trip in the spring during one of the college breaks. It's an amazing group that really emphasizes fellowship and encourages growth in love and friendships as we understand more and more what it means to follow God.

SASF

SGA

The purpose of SGA is to contribute to the academic, social, physical, and spiritual growth and development of the student body of Houghton College, to represent the student body to the school administration, faculty, and staff in order to promote student interests, and to provide activities and services for the student body.

Sociology Club

The Sociology Club is an organization that provides fellowship for those interested in sociology, illuminating educational experiences guided by sociology, service opportunities relating to sociology, and a Christian sociological perspective.

This year we sponsored the showing of the documentaries and panel discussions of Beauty Mark and Money-Driven Medicine. These were documentaries that opened discussions about body image and health care on our campus; two issues that we believe are very important to discuss.

STAR

The mission of The Houghton Star is to preserve and promote the values of dialogue, transparency and integrity that have characterized Houghton College since its inception. This will be done by serving as a medium for the expression of student thought and as a quality publication of significant campus news, Houghton area news, and events.

In 2009-2010, The Houghton Star received 1st Place for Editorial Writing at a 4-Year College/University in the Region 1 Mark of Excellence Awards given by the Society of Professional Journalists. Region 1 represents the colleges located in Connecticut, Maine, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, Central/Eastern Pa., Rhode Island and Vermont.

The Houghton Symphonic Winds is a sixty-member wind ensemble which seeks to expose its students and its audiences to the highest quality music written for wind and percussion instruments. Highlights of the 2009-2010 school year include the February break tour to Williamsville and Orchard Park, and the opportunity to rehearse with guest conductor, Colonel Lowell Graham.

The Spring Concert was the last concert that Symphonic Winds played under the direction of Professor Gary Stith.

Symphonic Winds would like to thank Mr. Stith for his many years of hard work and dedication to the ensemble.

You will be missed!

The Drawing Board

We The Drawing Board are a group of artists, humorists, and social commentators with a shared desire to express ourselves through comics. 2009 marked the first year that comics existed in Houghton without the powerful force that was and is former editor Andrew Davis driving, but Evan Yeong and I, Luke Doty, have taken up the hefty mantle of managing and editing The Drawing Board. Armed with some paper, pens, a fantastic club secretary, and a modest yet delectably embezzleable budget, we've set out to keep comics in Houghton alive, and, I think, succeeded.

It's been a good year. We've had fun, brought a lot of smiles to a lot of people, and I feel as though we've kept Andrew Davis' dream alive in the process. Occasionally Evan and I will look ahead to the next year and ponder what's next for the Drawing Board. We like to hope for a lot of things, like more budget, less time constraints, a club treasurer, cute freshman girls who are into comics and also guys that draw them, but really we'll be happy if we can keep doing what we're doing right now with the Drawing Board. And so long as The Drawing Board remains, there'll be a place for anybody who often expresses themselves best in three panels and a punchline.

Teachers of Today and Tomorrow has had an active year aimed at fostering lasting relationships between Education majors and preparing these majors for futures in the classroom. The year began with donuts and hot chocolate at a brief social event available for all education majors aimed at giving future teachers the opportunity to meet together and build friendships. Next was a "Smartboard" informational session facilitated by Senior Education major and student teacher Ashley Hoffman, where majors were given the opportunity to experiment with the technology that fills classrooms across the country. The year ended with a "mock job interview". It has been a year full of growth, experience, and relationship-building for Teachers of Today and Tomorrow.

Young Life

Young Life is a non-denominational outreach to high school kids. We develop personal friendships with the kids we meet and hang out with to create a context for proclaiming the gospel and living it out in truth and love. Our goal is to reach the farthest-out kids - the ones who would never think of stepping foot inside a church - so we can show and teach them about the person of Jesus Christ.

Youth For Christ reaches young people by working together with the local church and other likeminded partners to raise up lifelong followers of Jesus who lead by their godliness in lifestyle, devotion to the Word and prayer, passion for sharing the love of Christ and commitment to social involvement.

The YFC Campus Life ministry combines healthy relationships with creative programs to help junior and senior high young people make good choices, establish a solid foundation for life, and positively impact their schools.

The 2009 team, comprised of arguably one of the strongest collections of senior players of the past five years, is led by captains, Daniel Brubaker, Steve Grudda and Luke Sanford. "The entire senior class is very strong and will be excellent leaders this year," commented Webb. "They have taken a great deal of ownership of this team, and the rest of the players respect them, what they stand for, and what they have already accomplished." One of the greatest advantages of the team is the camaraderie off the field that translates into a high level of commitment to one another on the field. The eight seniors will contribute a great deal of maturity, experience and dedication to the men's soccer team. While Houghton lost four senior players, eight of eleven of last year's starters return to the field for the Highlanders, including all four starting backs. The team shows immense promise of continuing their habit of dominating the field defensively. One major goal of the team is to make improvements in the offensive game and tally more goals than last season.

A young team is taking the field this season, only sporting three senior athletes. And while they are young, they are ambitious and talented. Returning this fall for the Houghton women are key junior midfielders Lauren Haggerty and Carolynn Tomlinson, along with junior strikers Kaylin Bull and Amy-Kaye Mitchell. Sophomores Samantha Choma, Keeler Topping, and Rachel Cross are expected to contribute on the defensive side of the field, while Danielle Turner, a midfielder, and striker Katie-Jean Vandzura will assist on the attack. The returning team members, while young, are looked upon to provide guidance to the new players.

"I am excited for the returning players to emerge as leaders," commented Lewis. "They have the potential and a willingness to do the work necessary to play quality soccer. We have great numbers, but quality depth will need to be developed throughout the year."

Field Hockey

Houghton Highlanders

This season was filled with so many blessings. As August rolled around and the 2009 team met for the grueling preseason double sessions, we welcomed 7 newcomers to the team. Our personalities quickly meshed and this dynamic truly reflected our play. The verse that our team focused on this season was Philippians 4:13, "I can do all things through Christ who strengthens me." During games this verse was often written on our arms as a constant reminder to the reason and purpose for our presence on that field. The season was filled with victory and loss, hard work and celebration. However, through it all we were constantly encouraged by God's grace and work in our lives. We proudly ended the season with a winning record (9-7) and were pleased with the results that Coach Snelgrove diligently prepared us to achieve.

PURPLE AND GOLD WEEK

CLEW & Praxis

Dr. Joy Moore was the guest speaker for Christian Life Emphasis Week in September. She is the Associate Dean for Black Church Studies and Church Relations at Duke Divinity School, and an ordained elder in of the West Michigan Annual Conference of the United Methodist Church.

Forgiveness and reconciliation were the focus of Praxis week in January. Guest speakers Thomas Norman DeWolf and Grace Fabian, along with numerous college faculty ran workshops through out the week. A three part play was preformed by students during the week's chapel services.

Prism is Houghton's annual gala yuletide celebration. The Prism performance approach combines varied, wide-ranging choral, instrumental, opera, solo & chamber music, along with masterworks from the visual arts — unified into a single tapestry of great power. This year's Prism celebrates the music and carols of Christmas from around the world—many voices, many musics; one story.

House on a Cliff

Performed by a cast of only six Houghton students, House on the Cliff was chosen by Director Nic Gunning particularly for Halloween weekend and because of its riveting plot.

The story takes place in the living room of an old house on a cliff, the closest neighbors being miles away. Widow Karen Clayton, played by freshman Alice Browning, and her step-daughter Ellen, played by sophomore Rachel Stowe, are struggling to cope with a family tragedy that took place months before. In the midst of their grief, the Claytons are joined by a permanent nurse and the handsome new doctor in town. Bizarre things start to happen as the group begins to interact, and drama ensues.

While there are only six people in the show, Gunning liked the overall tone it brought to the stage. The smaller cast is "a different experience, it has good energy and improves the way the actors interact." As the show progresses it is easy to see the vital importance of each performer on the stage. "Each character is a good role," Gunning explained. "Each of them has at least one line that is pivotal to the play."

Jake's Women

In Neil Simon's clever comedy, Jake's Women, a successful novelist struggles with his tragic past and tumultuous present. The distractions of his writing career coupled with his tendency to veer off in imaginary conversations with the women in his life threaten to unravel his flawed marriage. When Jake's current wife, Maggie, finally walks out on him, he turns to the imaginary versions of his deceased first wife, daughter, therapist and kid sister to help put the pieces back together and win her back. He soon discovers that reorganizing his priorities and letting go of the past are easier said than done.

"Our deepest fear is not that we are inadequate.
Our deepest fear is that we are powerful beyond measure. It is our light, not our darkness, that most frightens us. Your playing small does not serve the world. There is nothing enlightened about shrinking so that other people won't feel insecure around you. We are all meant to shine as children do. It's not just in some of us; it is in everyone. And as we let our own lights shine, we unconsciously give other people permission to do the same. As we are liberated from our own fear, our presence automatically liberates others."

On the morning of May 8th, two hundred and eighty two students entered the chapel for the last time and left as proud alumni. Author Eugene H. Peterson addressed the graduates, asking if they shall lead life "cautiously or courageously?" Eugene D. George of the class of 1960 was honored with the Houghton Medal, an honor reserved for those who rise to the task of "fixing up the world" as phrased by Willard J. Houghton. The class of 2010 gave the gift of an outdoor classroom for future students who will attend their alma mater.

From the Editor's desk:

It's been a crazy but fun year putting this yearbook together! Thanks to Melanie, Josh, Leila, and Jess who have put in countless hours of work and supported me through whatever obstacles we ran into. Couldn't have done this without you!

Thank you to all those who took the time to send pictures in, especially to Mike Wise, Ian Galloway, Wes Dean, and Becca Booth. Also, thanks to Greg Bish, Laurie Dashnau, Eileen Deboer, and Kim Cockle for helping us whenever we needed and for answering my many questions.

Students, don't take advantage of your time at Houghton. This place has so many wonderful people...make new friends this year and have tons of fun!

Class of 2010, congratulations! Good luck with your future endeavors and never forget about this wonderful place we called home for four years. I'm sure we'll have a sweet reunion in the future.

Finally, I hope you enjoy the yearbook!
